

Twelve States Represented by Art Fair Guests

About 600 guests, representing both local and out-of-state residents, signed the guest register during the art fair held in Ashland last Sunday by southern Oregon Society of Artists.

Visitors represented 12 states. The Greenwich village type fair was held in Lithia park.

Society members and guest artists exhibited a total of 114 paintings, about 30 of these being watercolors and 22 pen and ink work.

Leading in the popular vote for oils was "Oregonia" by J. R. Hornaday, Grants Pass, and tied for second place was "Foster Creek" also by Mr. Hornaday.

In the vote for watercolors "Jenny Butte" by Ray Eyerly, Grants Pass, took first place and second went to "Fishing Boats" by Victor Wrigglesworth, Medford.

An exhibit of 22 pen and ink drawings was shown by Mr. Eyerly, and in his group the highest number of votes went to "Old Homestead".

Society members and officers who officiated at the exhibit included Clarence Henderson, the president; Victor Wrigglesworth, vice-president and chairman of the exhibits committee.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Bilderback of Portland and the Rev. Father Tobin and his sister, Mrs. Simmon Winch. They attended the showing of "Othello" at the Shakespearean Festival in Ashland.

Dr. Greb, Robert Meyers, Nellie Jackson, Lillie B. Russell, the honored guest and the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Davies and children were dinner guests at the Mark W. Hoeft home Monday, Aug. 12.

Mr. and Mrs. David Kinman and family of Seattle, Wash., and Mr. and Mrs. Herb McCoy and family of Medford, Oka., are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hay, 603 South C st.

Help Yourself to Happiness

Readers are invited to present their problems. Are You Mature Enough To Be Faithful?

Amgrica's number one marriage problem is infidelity. One fifth of the letters which come to this column asking for help tell a story of unfaithfulness. One problem out of every five concerns a triangle—or even a quadrangle.

Peter had never dated during his college years. His mother disapproved of girls as "attractive nuisances," obstacles in the path of her son's medical career.

With his marriage, Peter felt a sense of suffocation which amounted to terror. He remembered all the lost years of his youth and his friendliness—and his marriage hung on him like chains. He confided in his office nurse, and their confidence grew in intimacy and warmth.

What causes infidelity? Many factors contribute to the situation—which is not a cause but a symptom of marital illness already present. Its origin may lie in several difficulties: in-law interference, discipline of the children, religious differences, finances, the desire to punish a spouse, or the emotional insecurity of the "offending" party.

Almost without exception infidelity seems to be rooted in insecurity, which in turn seems to be a product of prolonged immaturity.

The immature individual too often needs the reassurance of "outside contacts," the flattery of the "other women," and the stimulation of the forbidden. He feels, falsely, that by stepping out he proves his manhood, his attraction and his stature. He insists childishly upon the glamour of courtship and the excitement of the chase long after his marriage should have gained the stability of time and maturity. He behaves not like a man, but like a boy. Emotionally, he is a boy, too immature to be faithful.

A marriage threatened by this difficulty needs the help of an experienced marriage counselor who will aid the couple in gaining maturity and emotional security.

HER HERO—Blaze, a courageous collie from Timwell, Ill., who battled an enraged hog to save the life of his three-year-old mistress, Dawn Hecox, gets a kiss from her after being honored by a Chicago dog food firm. Blaze was dubbed the "Dog Hero of Heroes of 1937," awarded a gold leash and collar, a gold plaque, a $1000 U. S. bond and a year's supply of dog food.

Grange News

Phoenix Grange met Tuesday evening, Aug. 13, with Master Dee Hendrickson presiding.

The pear situation was discussed. Dee Hendrickson said there was a large crop, but perhaps the quality was not as good as some years. He said there was an ample supply of labor.

Melvin Lattie, reporting on legislation, spoke of the proposed Jackson County Planning commission in the public hearing. He said that notice would be given so that those interested would be able to attend, and suggested that farmers should attend, that they may become well informed and able to form an opinion as to whether the proposed plan would be practical and beneficial to farmers.

Mark Norton had attended one of the planning commission meetings which was held in conjunction with a number of real estate men, and he also thought it a good idea to attend the public hearing.

The meeting of the Phoenix city council to be held Monday, Aug. 26, at 7:30 p.m. at the Phoenix grade school gym was brought up. This meeting should be of great concern to those living in and near Phoenix, as it regards the controversial problems connected with the new Phoenix sewer system.

Several Grange members are expected to be present at this council meeting. Vaughn Quackenbush of the music committee gave a short sketch of the life of the noted pianist Ruth Slenczynska whose father was a Polish violinist and came to this country to teach.

When war broke out he enlisted in the U.S. Army and was wounded in the wrist by shrapnel. He then directed all his efforts to making a musician of his baby daughter. At the age of four years she gave her first public recital.

A letter of thanks was read from Mrs. Laurel Poling who has been ill at a San Leandro, Calif., hospital.

Members of Phoenix Grange were sorry about the fire which destroyed the home and box factory business of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Nelson on Blackwell hill a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Dee Hendrickson said she had talked to Mrs. Nelson and reported that she had purchased property on South Pacific highway near the County Farm home and that it would be of courtship and the excitement of the chase long after his marriage should have gained the stability of time and maturity. He behaves not like a man, but like a boy. Emotionally, he is a boy, too immature to be faithful.

A marriage threatened by this difficulty needs the help of an experienced marriage counselor who will aid the couple in gaining maturity and emotional security.

Father Seeking Citizenship for Son

Paris — S/Sgt. William Lewis of Englewood, N.J., appealed for help today in his fight to pass his American citizenship on to his 4-year-old son, a boy without a country.

Anthony Lewis was born last April 9 at the American hospital here under U.S. military care. His mother Patricia Ann, 23, is British.

Under British law, the child is not British because he was born outside the Commonwealth and his father is American.

He is not French because both his parents are foreign nationals. Lewis himself was born abroad. His father was American and his mother was British. Even though Lewis is an American by birth, he has not spent 10 years of his life in the United States, a requirement that must be fulfilled by a parent, under these circumstances to give automatic citizenship to an offspring.

Lewis, an eight-year veteran of the Air Force, has appealed to many U.S. officials for help in obtaining American citizenship for his son, but without result.

Despite the failures, Lewis has refused to give up the struggle. "I can't give up because the whole thing just doesn't make sense to me," he said. "I simply can't believe there's no way for me to pass on my American citizenship to my son."

Diet of Nation To Be Investigated

New York — Nutrition experts today called for a thorough investigation of the nation's diet to learn more about the causes of heart attacks and strokes.

They said that present evidence does not justify drastic cuts in fat consumption as a means of preventing these diseases.

"People want to know whether they are eating themselves into premature heart disease," the Nutrition Committee of the American Heart association said in a report. "They are entitled to an unprejudiced answer," the doctors added.

The experts said it is their opinion that "there is not enough evidence available to permit a rigid stand on what the relationship is between nutrition, particularly the fat content of the diet, and atherosclerosis and coronary heart disease."

They are certain of one thing, the doctors said: "The evidence now in existence justifies the most thorough investigation."

and girls of high school age. On Monday, Aug. 26, the junior camp is for boys up to the age of 13.

J. H. Stanley underwent surgery Aug. 1 at Sacred Heart hospital returning to his home on Saturday, Aug. 10. He is reported to be improving satisfactorily by Mrs. Stanley.

MARVELOUS LOW CALORIE JEL-TEXTURED DESSERTS MADE WITH DIETETIC CANNED FRUITS!

New Easy Method Uses Water-Packed or Artificially-Sweetened Varieties

Made only with wonderful new M.C.P. "Low Sugar" PECTIN and M.C.P. JELSWETT Liquid Sweetener, these easily-made desserts are particularly suitable for diabetics and dieters because of the low calories, yet they are so delicious in flavor that they will be enjoyed by the whole family, too. An outstanding fact is that they will not "melt" at room temperature.

(CUT OUT AND KEEP THIS RECIPE)

- 1. Open one can (16 oz.) of fruit. Pour contents into a sieve, saving both the liquid and drained fruit.
2. Divide drained fruit in 4 custard dishes evenly and set aside.
3. Put drained juice in a measuring cup and add water to fill it. Put this cupful of liquid in a small kettle.
(A) If using water-packed fruit, add 2 teaspoons of M.C.P. JELSWETT to the kettle.
(B) If using artificially sweetened fruits, add only 1 teaspoon M.C.P. JELSWETT to the kettle.
4. Measure 1/2-cup M.C.P. "Low Sugar" LIQUID PECTIN and have it ready to use.
5. Now, place kettle over fire, stir and heat to just a simmering boil. At this point, stir in measured liquid kettle gradually, taking about 10 seconds to add all of it. Remove kettle from fire and pour the hot liquid over the fruit in the custard cups, filling them full.
6. Set in refrigerator to chill rapidly. Chilling makes these desserts more refreshing... BUT NOTE THIS: WHEN SET, THEY WILL NOT "MELT" AT ROOM TEMPERATURE as the usual gelatin desserts do! Serve plain or with whipped cream.

These Desserts Contain Only About 10 Calories An Ounce!

(* We recommend "Diet Sweet", "Diet Delight", and S & W brands of artificially sweetened fruits at this time, as being satisfactory for this recipe when used only as directed in (B) above. (Do not crush fruit.)

( M.C.P. "Low Sugar" PECTIN comes in highly concentrated powdered form. You use it, however, in liquid form (see Step 4 above) made by dissolving it in water as per directions Page 1 of Recipe Folder. It is very economical, for 3 oz. and 6 oz. packages of the powder make 2 1/2 cups and 5 cups of liquid pectin, respectively.

THINK OF IT! 1/4-CUP M.C.P. "Low Sugar" LIQUID PECTIN, MADE FROM THE POWDERED, COSTS BUT 10c!
