Ashland Schools Add Twenty New Teachers for Year

Ashland — A total of 20 new teachers and one new staff assignments for fall term in the Ashland schools have been announced by Dr. Howard Balderstone, superintendent of the Ashland public schools.

According to Balderstone, Clark Lambeth, originally hired as sixth grade music instructor, will be reassigned to elementary vocal music supervisor.

New teacher at the high school will be Kenneth Waldroff, band director; Mrs. Roberta Wilda, commercial courses; Mrs. Virginia LaBounty, physical education; Clifford Engel, mathematics and physical education and wrestling coach; Dr. Earl Klein, health education; Mrs. Ruth Trost, art and English.

The junior high school will welcome Donald Lawrence, mathematics and physical education; Miss Ruth Esther Hill, librarian; Elbert Swink, physical education; Dale Thompson, art; and William Wiggs, language arts and social studies.

Replaces Principal Willard J. Smith replaces Chester Squires as principal at Briscoe School. Squires is working on his doctorate at the University of Oregon. Other newcomers to Briscoe include Miss Ruby Gardner and Miss Jacqueline Koury, second grade; Mrs. Phyllis Buell, fourth grade.

Lincoln and Bellview schools will receive one new teacher each. Miss Ella Beardsley will teach the second grade at Lincoln, while Mrs. Hannah Thompson will teach grades one and two at Bellview.

At Walker school, David Hill will replace John Miller as principal. Miller resigned to enter private business. Miss Jonelle Maurer, first grade; Mrs. Reva Dale Bayless, sixth grade; and Mrs. Kittie Robertson, fourth grade, are new teachers at Walker.

20-Year Expansion Plan Approved for SOC

Ashland—A new 20-year expansion plan, approved by the state board of higher education, will commence this fall, according to Dr. Elmo N. Stevenson, president of Southern Oregon College, Ashland.

The plan calls for an expenditure of approximately $3 million between 1957 and 1963, part of which has already been used for the completed physical education and Britt student center buildings.

The physical education building cost $300,000, while the Britt student center was remodeled from the old Memorial Court at a cost of $340,000. Of the latter amount, $125,000 was willed to the school by the late Amalia Britt, Jacksonville.

Further plans call for the removal of the old veterans' village housing project to south campus. A new Commons, or dining hall, will be erected there and a new men's dormitory across the street from the women's dormitory, Susanne Homes Hall, will be built during the coming term.

Financed by Reserve This project will be financed by a reserve accumulated from student and miscellaneous fees, and by loans from federal and state funds to be repaid from dormitory earnings.

The two buildings will cost $725,000. Also scheduled to begin this fall is construction of a $469,000 science building, with work on a $350,000 heating plant planned for after the first of the year.

Requests for state building construction appropriations for the period 1959-61 total $934,000. Included are $550,000 for construction of a social science building, and $192,000 for a second men's dormitory. A matching sum is to be raised by the college for the men's dorm.

For the years 1961-63, a $990,000 expenditure is planned, including a $275,000 arts building, and a $495,000 addition to the physical education and health plant. The balance will be earmarked for an experimental school building.

Dr. Stevenson emphasized that the order in which construction will take place is not definite yet. Needs of each institution within the Oregon State System of Higher Education will determine priority, he said.

Griffin Creek to Get New Teachers

Three new appointments have been made this fall to the Griffin Creek school district, according to Myrna Frink, elementary principal.

Returning to the teaching profession following an absence of a year, Charles Jones will teach the seventh grade. Rolland Griffith, formerly of the Gold Hill schools will take charge of the physical education program in addition to eighth grade teaching duties, while Lois Stabler, also formerly of Gold Hill will teach a combination second-third grade class.

With larger anticipated enrollment of 290 students this fall, two first grades will be taught for the first time in the school's history.

DISPLAY POSTERS Delivery vehicles of the Medford Domestic Laundry will display truck poster during August in support of the Better Schools program, according to A.A. Dumas, president of the firm.

Juntura Youth Drowns In Reservoir Tuesday

Juntura, Ore. — Bill Lavanger, 12, drowned Tuesday night in a reservoir on his father's ranch 22 miles south of here.

The boy had gone swimming in the reservoir and apparently suffered a cramp and went under. His brother and a hired hand tried to rescue him but could not reach him in time.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Lavanger, who were at another ranch near Ontario, were notified and left for the ranch to assist in recovering the body.

Schools Rated By Set Standards

Questions in the minds of parents and taxpayers are, "How are our schools rated, and how rates them?"

The schools of Oregon are periodically evaluated by representatives of the state department of education to determine whether they meet standards set by the state.

When these representatives evaluate a school for a standard rating, they consider: (1) land site, (2) school building, (3) instructional program, (4) teaching materials, (5) teacher turnover, and (6) playground equipment.

The state department evaluation classifies the school into one of four categories: standard, standard with advice, conditionally standard, and non-standard.

A "standard school" has met the requirements set forth by the state board of education.

A "standard school with advice" is rated standard, and has met the minimum requirements of a standard school considering the potential of the district at the time of the survey. Such a school enjoys all the legal status of a standard school, but certain requirements must ultimately be met to enjoy unqualified standard rating.

A school with a "conditionally standard" has certain things that need immediate attention. The school so rated must furnish the state department of education a plan of improvement. The school must make regular progress reports to the state, showing advances made toward eliminating "conditionally standard" conditions. If such a situation is not corrected within a reasonable length of time, the school may be declared "non-standard" and lose its share of state funds.

Non-Standard Rating A "non-standard" has various faults causing its low rating. State funds cannot be received by the school district with a "non-standard" rating. However, all schools are re-evaluated from time to time, and ratings may change as conditions warrant.

At present, there are no "non-standard" schools in Jackson county.

Working in conjunction with the county school superintendent's office in evaluating and rating schools, the state department of education always allows adequate time for correcting sub-standard conditions to avoid jeopardizing the school program.

Aberdeen, Wash. — The Pacific Northwest's first commercially producing oil well gushed 20 miles west of here Tuesday afternoon after Governor Albert Rosellini turned a valve in ceremonies unveiling the reysler.

The well is officially known as the J. W. Tanner-Sunshine Mining—No. 1 Medina.

About 500 persons turned out to witness the unveiling of the well.

ADOPT SHORT PANTS

Heidelberg, Germany — The U.S. Army announced the adoption today of a short-pants summer uniform for its troops in Europe. The new ruling applies only to duty dress, and does not affect the ban on German lederhosen—leather shorts—imposed two years ago as part of a general campaign to make off-duty soldiers dress more neatly and conservatively.

A total of about 2,000 workers are striking for a 5-cent-an-hour wage increase, Hank Weber, business agent for Lumber and Sawmill Workers local 24-49 said. Of these, 1,200 men are from the Roseburg Lumber company.

BURIED ALIVE-LIVES

Changes to Greet Students When Ashland Schools Open

Ashland—When school opens here Sept. 3, a change in the physical plants, new teachers, and an overflow of students are expected, according to superintendent Howard Balderstone.

The schools anticipate an enrollment of 3,400 pupils including 1,350 first to sixth graders; 385 junior high students, and 665 high school students. Twenty new teachers have been hired, bringing the number of certified teachers to 99.

Replacements for the music program will be Kenneth Waldroff, formerly director of music at Sunnyside, Washington, who will become music coordinator and band instructor; and Clark Lambeth, formerly of Chico, Calif., who replaces Bruce Bray as elementary music supervisor. Bray resigned to accept a position at Central Washington College of Education.

Add Wrestling

Warren LaBounty, supervisor of physical education in the Ashland schools, announces the addition of wrestling in the high school level, and tumbling for junior high school boys. New wrestling coach is Clifford Engel, and Dale Thompson will teach tumbling. Health education program will be handled differently this year, as a separate course. Dr. Eric Klein will teach a full-time course one period each day for all sophomores. The new program will concentrate the teaching of health, and will include various types of laboratory activities.

With additional furniture and equipment on hand, the central school office has been moved to the former junior high school shop. Maintenance crews have added to or altered various sections of the school buildings, and extensive redecorating has been done in the junior and senior high schools. Plans for additional classrooms to house the increasing enrollment have been outlined by the Ashland board of education, and a 38-man committee of townspeople is reviewing the building program, investigating several proposals for more school facilities.
