

MANY USES—Bartlett's beckon from every fruit salad inviting us to enjoy them out-of-hand, stewed, baked, fried, pickled; in salads and as dessert; in jams, preserves and in this fresh pear chutney for sharing with fortunate friends and party givers.

Bartlett Pears Pouring into Market

We know of nothing to compare with a pear. Pears have been enjoyed since long before Homer grew pears and wrote about them in the garden of Alcibiades back about 900 B.C. Of today's more than 3,000 pear varieties, less than a dozen are commercially important. And of these, the Bartlett far out-ranks all others.

California, Oregon and Washington orchards produce about 90 per cent of all pears sold commercially with our own Medford orchards responsible for a large share. The Northwest grows more than 56 per cent of the canners crop.

Plentiful luscious Bartlett's are superb eaten out-of-hand. They may be stewed, baked, fried, pickled and glazed. They're good in fresh fruit salads with peaches, prunes, melons and grapes or berries. Core them and top with mint ice.

Top them, halved and cored of course, with ice cream and pour minted chocolate sauce over all. They're superlative as dessert with cheese slices, fingers or wedges on the side. Top pear halves with cottage cheese sprinkled ever so lightly with candied ginger. Brush them with butter, sprinkle with brown sugar and broil until glazed for serving with meat.

Bartlett pears are among the easiest of fruits for putting in glass jars and home freezer containers. They make fine flavored jams, preserves and baked goods.

Make Pear Chutney

We asked California Pear Growers for a brand new recipe that could be put in pints for give-aways to favorite friends and relatives; for endearing us to hostesses and for the family to enjoy. Make several batches. Don't try to double up. Pack in jars now; dress them up later to fit each special give-away occasion.

3 pounds firm fresh pears, unpeeled
1 pound fresh plums, unpeeled
2 ounces fresh ginger root or 1 teaspoon powdered ginger
8 ounces package seeded raisins
2 pound package dark brown sugar
2 cloves garlic, chopped fine
1 tablespoon cayenne
1/4 cup salt
2 cups white vinegar

Use your heaviest kettle or Dutch oven for this. "Cracked" ginger is small pieces of unground ginger root; is desirable for chutney making. If none available however, powdered ginger can be substituted. You'll find it with about 3 1/2 cups prepared Bartlett pears, 1 1/2 cups prepared plum plums.

Cut unpeeled fruit into coarse pieces; add chopped ginger root or powdered ginger, rinsed raisins, sugar, garlic, cayenne (less of this if you prefer it less hot), salt and 1 cup only of the vinegar. Cover and bring to a boil. Uncover and cook at lowest possible heat one hour, stirring ever so gently once in a while to prevent sticking.

At end of cooking time, stir in the other cup of vinegar. Bring to a boil and pour into sterilized jars. Seal immediately. Four pints. Takes a while but is worth it.

Pear and Plum Jam

For 8 medium glasses of jam, you'll need about a pound each to get 3 1/2 cups prepared fruit. ripe pears and plum plums. Peel and core fully ripe pears; chop very fine or grind. Pit (do not peel) fully ripe plums; cut in small pieces and chop. Add 1/4 cup water to plums; bring to a boil and simmer, covered 5 minutes. Combine fruit and measure 3 1/2 cups into a large saucepan.

Measure 5 cups (2 1/4 pounds) sugar; set aside. Add 1 box packaged fruit pectin to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat until mixture comes to hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes. Ladle into glasses. Paraffin at once. Makes about 8 medium glasses or 4 pounds of jam.

Canned Salmon Good

Here's Canned Salmon Week and it's no trouble at all to remind you that canned salmon makes very fine eating in a great many ways and has for a long time. First salmon cannery in America was established at Sacramento in 1864. Salmon has been king of canned fish ever since with canneries in Alaska, Oregon and Washington. Perhaps most popular uses are in salads, sandwiches and in salmon loafs.

We're going to be completely honest with you and tell you that we think canned salmon unsurpassed when simply taken from the refrigerator, turned out on a bed of watercress, masked in mayonnaise with added lemon juice and sprinkled with capers.

Salmon Salad. Drain and flake 1 pound can salmon. Combine 1/2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing, 1/2 cup chopped celery, 1/2 cup cooked peas (optional), 2 tablespoons sweet pickle, chopped, 2 tablespoons chopped onion, 3 hard-boiled eggs, chopped. Add salmon being careful not to break fish into too small pieces. Serve in lettuce cups; garnish. Makes six servings.

Salmon Club Sandwich. For 6 generous sandwiches, drain and flake 1-pound can salmon. Combine 3 tablespoons chopped celery, 3 tablespoons chopped sweet pickle, 3 tablespoons chopped onion, 1/2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing. Spread six slices of bread with fish mixture; cover each with a second slice of bread mayonnaised on top. Place sliced tomatoes, salted and peppered, and lettuce leaf on each slice; cover with tooth picks, cut into quarters. Garnish with ripe and green olives, pass Potato chips.

Salmon Loaf. Drain (save liquid) and flake 1 pound can salmon, saving liquid. Combine with 3 cups fine bread cubes, 1 1/2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 1/4 teaspoons salt, dash of cayenne, 1/2 teaspoon celery salt, 2 tablespoons grated onion, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine. Mix well and place in well-greased loaf pan. Combine 2 well beaten eggs and 3/4 cup liquid using liquid from canned salmon plus milk. Pour over salmon in pan. Bake in 350 degree oven 45 minutes or until loaf is firm in centre. Unmold and serve plain. Many think cucumbers in sour cream perfect accompaniment for this and so do we.

Better get 2 cartons... one's never enough!

In Maryland a teen-ager female autoist was arrested after driving her car at the rate of 100 miles an hour. Why do manufacturers make cars intended for street and highway use that can go that fast? No wonder so many people are meeting sudden death in automobile accidents. There should be a speed limit put on cars when manufactured. Sixty miles an hour is fast enough for any autoist to travel anywhere.

Asking

Queries from clients. Q. In a discussion as to the marriages of tall women to short men, the question came up as to the height of Signor Carlo Ponti, the man Sophia Loren is scheduled to marry. Speed Typing

Does your secretary consider herself a speedy typist? How many words a minute can she type? If you don't know, clock her. Speed record for a standard typewriter is 170 words a minute by Margaret Owen of New York City. For an electric typewriter, it is 216 words a minute by Stella Pajunas. Incidentally, a French inventor has originated an electric typewriter on which it is possible for the average typist to write 12 words a second or 720 words a minute! However, this remarkable machine has single keys which type entire phrases with one tap. For example, with one tap of a key the operator can write "Dear Sir." Also with one tap she can write "Sincerely Yours."

Over There

The crap table recently installed in Prince Rainier's Monte Carlo gambling joint isn't doing so well. It lost $28,000 in one hour recently. A New Yorker is said to have tossed 32 consecutive passes that night. However, the battery of "one-arm Bandit" gambling machines the Prince put in not long ago is reported paying off very well. The minimum bet on these machines at Monte Carlo is the equivalent of $1.40.

Tests

Horse race winners are tested for traces of illegal stimulation tending to increase speed. Losing favorites should also be tested to see if they have been given drugs to slow them down. When a favorite loses, it means hundreds of thousands of dollars more profit to off-track bookmakers. Some short priced favorites have recently been losing under very suspicious circumstances.

High Living

The liking of extremely luxurious living by Douglas Fairbanks Jr., may be an inherited trait or the result of early environment. Douglas Fairbanks Sr. lived in royal fashion at Pickfair when the husband of Mary Pickford. The Fairbanks dinner parties of that period featured uniformed footmen. One for each guest. The menus were always engraved. When in England Douglas Fairbanks Sr. leased an estate that had a staff of 26 gardeners.

Meeting Resumes To Settle Strike

Detroit — A meeting between the Detroit Newspaper Publishers association and a joint craft union committee resumed today in an effort to settle the six day old newspaper strike which erupted when the Detroit News fired 67 mailing room employes.

The Detroit News refused to bargain with the striking International Mailers Union, calling the walkout an "illegal action" because the paper didn't have a contract with the union which was formed last November by dissident members of the International Typographical Union.

The independent IMU claimed to represent 450 mailers at all Detroit dailies. IMU President Ray Brown said the union will not call off the strike until the 67 mailers are rehired by the News.

An attempt by the publishers to get an injunction against the IMU and Teamsters Local 372 collapsed Tuesday when Circuit Court Judge Horace Gilmore ruled state courts are without jurisdiction in the dispute. Judge Gilmore said the strike issues could be resolved only by the
