Church Softball Play-Off Hassle Saturday Night

First Baptist and First Nazarene softball teams vie at Memorial field, Camp White, on Saturday evening to determine a finalist in the YMCA Church Softball league play-offs.

The game will begin at least by 8:30 p.m. St. Peter Lutheran and First Methodist churches will contend at 7 p.m. in a non-counting preliminary.

Winner of the Baptist-Nazarene team will tussle St. Peter next Tuesday in finals. The Baptists and Nazarenes each have lost once in the double elimination play-off while St. Peter is undefeated.

Should Saturday's winner down the Lutherans Tuesday a second game will be played that evening between the two clubs. But there will be a second tussle of some kind Tuesday, regardless of the outcome of the first game.

Shoulder Hurt May Snap String

Philadelphia—A shoulder injury appeared almost certain today to snap Stan Musial's National league record string of consecutive games played to night when the Cards face the Phillies.

The injury, which also may deprive the St. Louis Cardinals of The Man's brilliant play in their efforts to hang on to the pace setting Milwaukee Braves, occurred in Thursday night's game with the Philadelphia Phillies.

EUGENE LADIES WIN

Shasta Ski Lift Ground Breaking Set

Mount Shasta, Calif.—Ground breaking ceremonies for the $120,000 lodge of the Mt. Shasta ski lift will be held Tuesday at 10 a.m. at Panther Meadows. The building is to be ready December 1st when the first section of the lift goes into operation.

Concrete for the lift foundation is being poured and steel will begin to go into place around September 9th. Plans have been approved for a 300 car parking lot at Panther Meadows, where the lift will start, with provisions to triple the size of the area later.

Meantime, work has been delayed on the second half of the 14 mile stretch of new road from Mt. Shasta to Panther Meadows. B. C. Richter of Oroville, low bidder on the job, has asked to be relieved of the contract. Richter said an error had been made in the estimate and that if the firm has to build the road it will suffer serious loss. The problem has been turned over to the Bureau of Public Roads.

CAROLE JO DRUBS CHAMP, TO GAIN AM SEMI-FINAL

Sacramento, Calif. — Three youngsters and a cool and cagey veteran went out today to battle in the 57th National Women's Amateur golf championship. Semifinalists in this classic tournament were Anne Richardson, 21, Columbus, Ohio, playing Anne Gunderson, 18, a redhead from Seattle, Wash., and Carole Jo Kabler, 19, of Suther-lin, Ore., taking on 34-year-old Ann Casey Johnstone of Mason City, Iowa. On the sidelines were defending champion Marlene Stewart Streitt of Fonthill, Ont., and ex-champion Barbara Romack Porter of Sacramento, together with Pert Anne Quast of Seattle, Wash., and 52-year-old Mrs. John Pennington of Buffalo, N.

Y. Mrs. Streitt fell victim in Thursday's quarterfinals to one-under-par golf by the confident Miss Kabler, who calls herself "bulldog."

Mrs. Porter, national champion in 1954, was defeated 1 up in 19 holes by Mrs. Johnstone. Miss Gunderson, a finalist in this event last year, had an easy time of it with Mrs. Pennington.

The Quast-Richardson match produced the best golf of the day, the loser finishing with a one-under par 73 to Miss Richardson's 74.

They are members of the State squad which faces a Metropolitan club made up of players from the Portland area. Neil Plumley, tackle, and Dick Cople, end, are other players from Medford on the state crew.

Fred Spiegelberg, who guided Medford high to state runner-up laurels last fall, is State coach. Tony Brauner and Bobby Gee, from Medford, are managers. Ralph Harper, Benson high of Portland, is head tutor of the Metro team. State is at least a slight favorite for the tussle. New Boating Regulations On Umpqua

Portland — New boat regulations for waters of the North Umpqua river were adopted recently by the game commission and are now effective. The new rules will open up to boat angling all of the North Umpqua above Soda Springs dam, with certain exceptions.

In effect the new rules will open up reservoirs on the North Umpqua, of which the major ones are: Soda Springs, Toketee, and Lemolo. Little or no boating will be done on the river proper since the water is too fast and turbulent.

In the past the North Umpqua has been closed to boat angling above Winchester dam through legislative act. During ensuing years the impoundments were constructed and were effected by the legislative closure. As a result the fisheries in the impoundments could not be fully utilized by sportsmen. At the request of the Game Commission, the legislature, during its last session, repealed this act effective August 20, to permit the Game Commission to establish new rules on the reservoirs.

Complete Closure

The new boating rules for the North Umpqua call for a complete boating closure between Winchester dam and Soda Springs dam. This closure is to protect spawning and brood areas of salmon and steelhead located between these two points. Boatmen will have complete access to Soda Springs reservoir, but the upper arms of Lemolo and Toketee will be closed except to bank anglers. An excellent bank angling area has been developed in the upper arms which might be destroyed if boatmen were allowed in these clear, shallow areas. Other reservoirs will have no closures.

The closure on Toketee is 600 yards below the head of the reservoir. At Lemolo the closure is 1200 yards below the head of the arm in the North Umpqua channel and 625 yards below the head of the arm in the Lake Creek channel. Markers established by the Game Commission designate these lines.

Injuries Sideline Buhl, Covington

Brooklyn — The injury jinx which has been working overtime on the Milwaukee Braves this year today claimed pitcher Bob Buhl and outfielder West Covington.

Buhl, the team's leading winner with a 16-6 record, is returning to Milwaukee to have his ailing right shoulder examined by Dr. Bruce Brewer. Buhl left last Sunday's game with the St. Louis Cardinals after pitching to two batters and has complained of soreness in his shoulder since then.

Covington is feared lost for three or four games after being hit by his own foul ball on his left Achilles tendon in the fourth inning of Thursday night's game with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Phoenix Legion, Oakland Advance

Lodi, Calif. — Phoenix, Ariz., moved into the second round of the Region 12 American Legion baseball finals today on the strength of lopsided victories over Reno, Nev., and Ogden, Utah, respectively.

Oakland's Bill Erwin Post 337 team was leading 13-3 after seven innings when the game was called shortly after midnight.

THE NIGHT WAS WARM so this two-year old left his home for a short walk. Covina, Cal., police found him clad in shorts sitting on a curb at 2:00 a. m. He slumbers as police await an early-morning call. (International)
