Mr. and Mrs. Charles Neff Culmer (Carol Ann Wilson) are shown coming down the aisle of Sacred Heart Catholic church here after their wedding August 17. The nuptial mass was celebrated by Father John Ilg and the reception followed at the Medford hotel. (Memory Lane photo)

The former Margaret Sanderson Selby did not change her name on her wedding day for she is the bride of John Philip Selby, Ashland. The wedding was held at St. Mark's Episcopal church Sunday, August 18, with almost 300 guests attending. The young couple left for Lakeland, Fla., and will attend Southern Florida university this fall. (Landis photo)

August Weddings

When the last guest had greeted the bride and bridegroom at the reception which followed the wedding of Margaret Rippl and William Frank Perl Jr., the two mothers and the bride's aunt added their own best wishes. Mrs. Perl is shown by her son, and the bride is shown about to receive a motherly kiss from Mrs. Rippl. Dr. William J. Miller, who gave the bride in marriage, and Mrs. Richard Siebinger, aunt of the bride, smile on the happy scene. About 275 guests attended the Perl-Rippl wedding and the reception which followed in the church parlors.

The father of the bride, Paul J. Selby, helped his daughter Margaret from the car when the family arrived at the church on the day she was married to John Philip Selby, Ashland. Mrs. Selby stood nearby. Margaret was married in St. Mark's Episcopal church, the same church where her parents were married, and she chose a gown similar to that worn by her mother.

Ready to start on their wedding trip are Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Lefler. Mrs. Lefler is the former Verna Barritt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otha Turner, Route 1, Eagle Point, and the young couple's wedding was held Saturday, August 17, in Central Point Community church. The newlyweds traveled to Yosemite National park for their honeymoon and then on to Pasadena, Calif., where the bridegroom will enter Pasadena City college this fall. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Lefler, 1015 Oak street, Central Point. (Knackstedt photo)

About to drink the traditional wedding toast are David A. Schneider and his bride, the former Alice Marie Wilson of Route 1, Eagle Point. The Schneider-Wilson wedding was one of late summer's largest events, with 300 guests attending the rites held August 16 in First Presbyterian church, Medford. (Brainerd photo)
