

JUNIOR OLYMPIANS—On the high dive at Jackson Hot Springs are the five girls and one boy who trained there this summer, then went to Portland for the Oregon Junior Olympic Swimming championships last week. Four of the girls took second place in the 200 meter medley relay. Left to right are: Don Thompson, 10; Linda Hess, 13; Christine McGee, 15; Shirley Hopkins, 14; Suzanne Thompson, 14, and Bernadine Sharp, 14. The group was trained under Mrs. James A. McGee, Ashland, manager of Jackson Hot Springs, who hopes to build swimming into a competitive sport for more southern Oregon young people.

Leaders Win Again; Angels Give Beavers 100th Loss of Year

BY JM HEALY
United Press Sports Writer

In less than two weeks the Pacific Coast League undoubtedly will be deadlier than last year's hit tines. But the battle for the final championship between San Francisco and Vancouver, and to a lesser degree Hollywood, should linger bittersweet in the memories of Western baseball fans.

The Seals and Mounties, not giving an inch without a squabble, both won their respective games Wednesday night, leaving the margin between them still three and a half games.

San Francisco overpowered Hollywood 9-6, while Vancouver squeezed by Seattle, 3-2. In other games Los Angeles handed Portland its 99th and 100th losses, downing the Beavers 4-3 and 7-1 in the night's only doubleheader, while San Diego took Sacramento 4-2.

The Stars put five hurlers on the mound in an attempt to douse San Francisco's batting fire. George Witt, considered one of the best pitchers in the league, took his sixth loss against 17 wins. Frank Kellert and Bill Renna both homered for the winners. Hollywood got two runs across during a rally in the ninth on a single by Bill Causion, but that ended the scoring and gave R. W. Smith, who went the distance, his 11th win.

Rainiers Jinxed

The amazing thing about the game in Seattle is that the Rainiers collected 16 hits—twice as many as the team that beat them. The winning run was made in the fifth inning when Charlie White singled and scored on another single by John Jorgenson. Cal Segrist also got into the act with a homer for Vancouver in the second. Started George Bamberger—who was followed to the hill by four relievers—won, and is 14-10. Larry Jansen 9-12 lost.

Only one homer was hit in the twin bill in Portland, and that by John Carmichael. Portland's starter-loser in the second game. In the first and Angels got a four run edge before Portland could hit the score column. Though Los Angeles got none after the second, Portland could only come up with single tallies in the third, fifth and seventh.

Dubious Mark

The second game, which gave the Beavers their dubious 100 loss distinction, was tight until the seventh when Carmichael fell before an onslaught of four Angel runs, and from then on a run-a-way was all the game amounted to. Ralph Maureliello allowed four hits in winning the nightcap. He is now 10-4.

The Padres came from behind in the eighth with a three run rally off three Solon hurlers to win their contest. Sacramento had a one run edge over the Pads until then over the strength of two solo homers by Harry Bright. But a double and a collection of Parde singles spelled loss for Sacramento. Until the eighth, the only run San Diego had been able to put across was a homer by Al Jones in the second.

Ems Even Playoffs

Eugene, Ore. — Ollie Brantley pitched six and two thirds innings of three-hit relief Wednesday night to lead the Eugene Emeralds to a 6-4 victory over Wenatchee in the second game of their Northwest league playoffs.

The Eugene win evened the best seven-series at one game apiece. The two teams meet here again tonight then shift to Wenatchee to finish the set.

Brantley was called into the game in the third inning when the Chiefs got all their runs. He got off to a rocky start, giving up a single and walking two, but when he settled down he was in command all the way.

Losing pitcher Pete Carrillo and Luis Zayas got the Wenatchee rally rolling by poling homeruns around a fly out. Marty Rosell singled and Chico Alvarez followed with a double to knock Eugene starter Berlyn Hodges out of the game. Brantley gave up a single to Roy Parker and walked two but finally ended the rally by getting Don Lundberg and Carrillo to fly out.

Eugene's pair of runs in the first came as Chuck Stacy and Carl Hutzler scored on Zeke King's infield single.

The Emeralds added one in the fifth when Stacy walked and came around on a single by Mel Krause.

Eugene won it with three in the seventh. John Keller and Stacy got aboard with singles. Hutzler was hit by a pitch and Keller went on to score on Don Frailey's infield single. Stacy touched home on an error on the same play, then King and Pete Mikacich walked to force in the final run.

Spring Chinook Run Said Poor

The spring chinook salmon run past Winchester dam has been disappointing this year. Bill Pitney, fishery biologist for the game commission, reports that this is the first year in which the run has not shown a substantial increase over the parent run.

Up to July some 4,770 chinooks have been tallied through the counting station. The parent run for the same period totalled 4,140 fish, and the total migration during that year numbered 5,200.

A fair number of fish are in the river which should bring the migration total well above the parent run but not near to the increases of previous years. This has been the 12th year in which total counts were made of all fish migrating upstream over Winchester dam. Highlight up to this year has been the resurgence of the spring run of chinooks. Each year has seen a tremendous increase, almost doubling the parent run in numbers.

Apprehension Grows That Giants May Not Come At All

BY HAL WOOD

San Francisco — There is mounting apprehension here that Horace Stoneham and the New York Giants may back out of their announced intention to move to San Francisco next year.

The fear and the worry is caused by the reluctance of Walter O'Malley, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, to make a definite statement on his intentions about moving to Los Angeles.

The recent report from the schedule makers that the travel of National League clubs would be increased 90 per cent by the move to San Francisco had done nothing to abate the apprehension.

And some recall that when the National League met earlier this year the announcement said, in effect:

"The Giants and the Dodgers have been given permission to negotiate to move to San Francisco and Los Angeles, but they must move together."

But Stoneham says: "We'll go to San Francisco whether the Dodgers go to Los Angeles or not. We have permission."

There has been no comment about this from National League headquarters.

Meanwhile, work goes ahead on plans for the stadium here and blueprints for the new lay-out were passed around at a press session the other day.

But there hasn't been a contract of any kind signed—between the Giants and the city; between the city and the stadium contractors and the Giants.

Stoneham was visibly disappointed when he visited Seals Stadium and found that it seated slightly less than 20,000 instead of the 22,000 to 25,000 which he had been told. He knows it would be tough to operate in the black for the 1958 campaign with that limited capacity. It's a beautiful stadium—but there is no place to build additional seats without great expense.

Some people think that O'Malley pulled a swift on Horace and, after getting him out of town now plans to stay in New York City and split the attendance plum with the Yankees.

Right now the citizens of Los Angeles are in a tizzy because San Francisco appears married to the Giant franchise and it looks as though the big sister from the south may be just another brides-maid.

So while the orders pour in for reservations for the 1958 season in San Francisco, there are thousands of others still holding back and saying:

"We'll believe it when we see the first game played here."
