The Degman's middle son, Charles Allen, and Miss Rita Piepel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Piepel, Wenatchee, were married June 22 in St. Joseph's Catholic church, Wenatchee.

The Degman-Jackson wedding was solemnized at Peace Memorial church, with the Rev. James Overdorff of First Presbyterian church officiating. About 200 guests attended the ceremony and the reception which followed in Westminster hall.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace and net over satin with close fitting lace bodice and billowing skirt of lace and ruffled tulle ending in a chapel length train. Mr. Degman, a member of Delta Sigma Phi, served two years with the United States Army.

The nuptial mass which married Miss Piepel and Charles Degman was read by the Rev.

Patrick J. O'Sullivan. Mrs. A. C. Bright was organist and Mrs. Leo Kunkel, cousin of the bride, sang.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white rosepoint lace and nylon tulle over satin. Her tulle veil was held by a crown of rosepoint lace and pearls and she carried red rosebuds and Stephanotis encircling a white orchid.

Mrs. John Hammond was matron-of-honor and the Misses Bonnie Herman, Jane Moore and Joyce Young were bridesmaids. They wore pale pink broadcloth satin dresses with pink chiffon cummerbunds in darker pink. They carried colonial bouquets of white stock, pink daisies and rosebuds. Sherrin Roby and Lindsay Munson, cousins of the bridegroom were flower girls and Gregory Piepel, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.
