

Medford Business Women Elect Laura York 'Beep'

Miss Laura York was elected "Beep of the Week" at the first meeting for the fall of Medford Business and Professional Women's club last night at Roxy Ann Grange hall. Miss York's election was the first event of National Business Women's week in this area and will be followed by a series of functions.

Mrs. Inez Friel, vice-president of the club, presented the new "Beep" with a banner. This is the second year the club has named a "Beep of the Week" to mark the national observance, the first one last year being Mrs. Harriet Watson. Miss York is a past president of the Oregon Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs.

First social event of the local club for National Business and Professional Women's week will be the traditional Autumn tea Sunday, September 22, at the new Girls Community clubhouse. Hours will be 3 to 5 p.m.

Mrs. Alma McIntyre, tea chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. Genevieve Collins, hospitality committee chairman, and Mrs. Beulah Nathan, membership committee chairman and the members of their committees. Music will be arranged by Mrs. Muriel Burns, music committee.

Pouring during the afternoon will be the past presidents of the club who are honored each year at this function. Receiving members and guests and introducing the Beep of the Week will be club officers, Miss Veda Brower, president; Mrs. Inez Friel, first vice-president; Miss Grace Stuhler, second vice-president; Mrs. Jean Mast, recording secretary; Mrs. Ruth Simmons, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Gertrude Blind, treasurer, and Mrs. Anne Palmer, Mrs. Frida Burger, Mrs. Viola Dietrick, Miss York and Mrs. Watson, board members.

Any business and professional woman who is interested is cordially invited to attend any of the events of the coming week. Wednesday noon, September

Square Dance

Doug Fosbury will call for a square dance at the Square Corral starting about 8:30 p.m. Saturday, September 21. The building is in the Camp White area just south of the Veterans administration domiciliary.

Potluck refreshments will be served following the dance.

CALENDAR

Calendar notices and news for the society section of the Mail Tribune must be submitted in writing and deadline for the Sunday edition is 1 p.m. Friday. Deadline for the weekly calendar is 9 a.m. of the day of publication and for week day news is 5 p.m. the day before publication.

Friday 6:30 p.m.—Siskiyou Canton and auxiliary, Odd Fellows hall. 8 p.m.—PTA School of Instruction, Courthouse auditorium.

Doris Day Building New Home

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Women's Editor
New York — Doris Day, the singer, is humming like a decorator these days.

Her conversations are sprinkled with everything from color schemes to news that the oldest sycamore tree in Beverly Hills, Calif. is on her property.

"It is an ancient thing," said Miss Day. "Has had several operations. Stands right in the middle of our patio."

"Our patio" is part of a new house she and her husband, Martin Melcher, are building. They've been renters for the six years of their marriage.

"It is all one-story, modern, has lots of white brick inside, and I'm using chamois colored rugs on the floor. I want a lot of the chamois and white in the rest of the furnishings," said the blonde actress who came to New York to help promote her new picture, "Pajama Game," and mentioned it once during an interview.

Has No Living Room

"The house has no living room, but a great big living area," she said. "One section is family drinks anything stronger than pop."

The family consists of husband, "Marty," her manager also; Terry, 15, her son by a previous marriage; and two French poodles, Terry, who collects records, including D. Day hits, wears even more freckles than his famous mom.

"But he's not sensitive about them," she said. "Golly, when I was a kid I used lemon juice and cucumbers . . . every blech. I could think of to get rid of them. Then one day a man told me he thought freckles were cute. What a switch. I stayed out in the sun all next day."

Doris Day, born Doris Kappelhoff of Cincinnati, Ohio, has made 21 pictures since she "crashed" Hollywood in 1947.

She plans to go right on making more — "No television or Broadway for me," said the singer-actress. "I got enough to do as it is. And I want time between pictures to see people and family, to come back to civilization."

The Melchers took a vacation drive through New England after their New York visit. Son Terry is enrolling in a school in Connecticut.

Then, it's back to California to "see what new building crisis faces us," she said. "I'm not worried about the contractor and the house, but about the contractor and some of my fans."

Finding the actress will occupy the house, the fans have been pestering the builder to ask Mrs. Melcher to send us a picture.

Said Miss Day: "He informed me before we left, he is not my secretary."

Help Yourself to Happiness

This column is one of a series on marriage and family problems which appears weekly in this paper. It presents problems on everyday living and attempts to bring you the most expert opinion in this area. Readers are invited to present their problems. All queries will receive individual attention and should be accompanied by a stamped self-addressed envelope directed to Mary Harris Seibert, M.A., Department of Education, The American Institute of Family Relations, 5287 Sunset Boulevard, Los Angeles 27, California.

Are Nerves Killing Your Marriage?

More quarrels than anyone can ever count are based on NERVES. The bored or frustrated wife and the overworked or professionally disappointed husband may stage a knock-down-drag-out argument over almost ludicrous trifles, an argument which may mushroom from the original "ashes on the rug" contention to in-laws, finances, religion, politics, and the blonde at the country club dance last year. Tensions may touch off disguised antagonisms in a series of skirmishes or in a great explosion which can ruin a marriage.

Many people are, as they often point out, "bundles of nerves." When one bundle of nerves marries another, friction is almost inevitable. Marriage rarely cures an emotionally unstable individual, especially if it involves two unstable folk and the common problems of cooperative living. Decreased liberty and increased frustrations may in fact aggravate the problem in both men and women.

Here at the American Institute we see marriages burdened by difficulties which originate in the emotional adjustment of one or both partners—an entanglement, if you will, of the "bundle of nerves" which married each other. The husband may fly into a temper at the sight of his wife's new hat or because the wife has kept him waiting for dinner. The wife may indulge in a tantrum because her husband has flicked ashes on the rug or has refused her a new fur coat. The marriage counselor knows that such eruptions are common symptoms of emotional maladjustments.

An intelligent couple can do much toward helping their own situation. The wife can wait to display her new hat or ask for her new coat until after a discussion of budget—and never when her husband is tired, hungry, or ill. A problem looks easier to a man who is well-fed and at peace with his world. Both partners should make a genuine effort to be punctual and patient, to talk out their troubles and try to arrive at a mutually satisfactory understanding. Judgments and decisions should never be made late at night, at the end of an exhausting experience, or when one suffers a headache or indigestion. Both mates may be working too hard, and allowances should be made for fatigue. Indeed, many problems disappear with more rest and relaxation.

If the problems do not clear up with care, the couple may have to seek the aid of an experienced counselor who can get at the roots of the difficulty and aid in easing tensions.

Child care for pre-school age children has been arranged, and women may bring them to the YMCA during the lessons. Toys will be provided. This service will be for Tuesday and Thursday 10 am to 12 noon classes only.

Further information may be obtained by calling the YMCA, SP 2-6295.

Combine pear or apricot whole fruit nectar and gingerale and freeze in a star or ring-shaped mold to float atop a punch bowl. Add red maraschino cherries and pieces of canned fruit cocktail to the nectar for extra color.

When one bundle of nerves marries another, friction is almost inevitable. Marriage rarely cures an emotionally unstable individual, especially if it involves two unstable folk and the common problems of cooperative living. Decreased liberty and increased frustrations may in fact aggravate the problem in both men and women.

Here at the American Institute we see marriages burdened by difficulties which originate in the emotional adjustment of one or both partners—an entanglement, if you will, of the "bundle of nerves" which married each other. The husband may fly into a temper at the sight of his wife's new hat or because the wife has kept him waiting for dinner. The wife may indulge in a tantrum because her husband has flicked ashes on the rug or has refused her a new fur coat. The marriage counselor knows that such eruptions are common symptoms of emotional maladjustments.

An intelligent couple can do much toward helping their own situation. The wife can wait to display her new hat or ask for her new coat until after a discussion of budget—and never when her husband is tired, hungry, or ill. A problem looks easier to a man who is well-fed and at peace with his world. Both partners should make a genuine effort to be punctual and patient, to talk out their troubles and try to arrive at a mutually satisfactory understanding. Judgments and decisions should never be made late at night, at the end of an exhausting experience, or when one suffers a headache or indigestion. Both mates may be working too hard, and allowances should be made for fatigue. Indeed, many problems disappear with more rest and relaxation.

Birthday Party Honors Miss West

A birthday party honoring Miss Jeanne West was given recently by her mother, Mrs. Wallace West, at the family home on Fifth street. Games were followed by refreshments. Seventeen girls and boys attended the party, and the honored guest received many gifts.

Dance Announced In Central Point

Central Point — The Happy Harvesters Square Dance club will hold a dance starting at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, September 21, at the American Legion hall in Central Point.

Potluck refreshments will be served and all square dancers have been invited. J. D. Lubbers will call.

Mark each pair of draperies with a different color of thread. The pairs then can be matched easily after cleaning.

MOVING

Gier's Drug Store

PHOENIX, OREGON

To Our NEW LOCATION

— ACROSS THE STREET —

104 SOUTH MAIN

Skinner Building

Watch For Our . . .
GRAND OPENING!

Archer's
is name
in new fall
hosiery . . .

In color. The word for fall is color. Archer has a wonderful selection of new fall shades in full fashioned and no seam styles

Mann's
MEDFORD

135 - 195

gloves

by crescendo

Leather tailored of wonderful wonder fabrics—shrinkproof . . . Crescendo gloves are the world's finest fabric gloves and yet so economical. Shorty and long length in all the new fall shades.

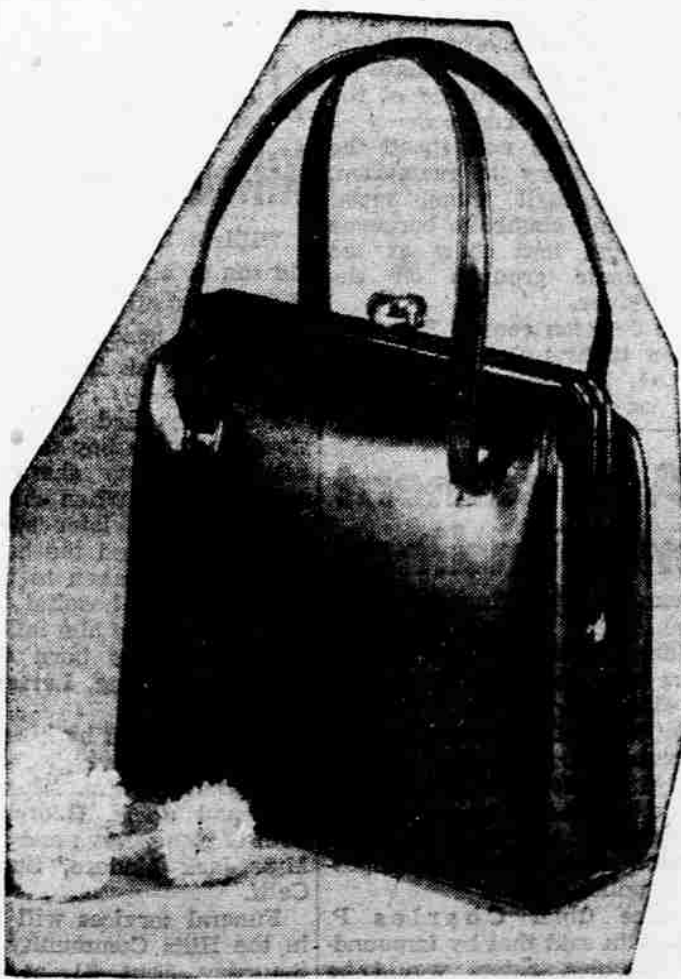

3<sup>00</sup> - 4<sup>75</sup>

fall handbags

are arriving daily—shown here, top grain leather in black, navy, brown, leather lined. Many other styles and colors, from 2.98 - 25.00 plus tax.

8<sup>50</sup>
plus tax

Mann's
MEDFORD

GOOD

FOR
THE
SEWING
CIRCLE

NEWS

a new fall
collection

of really sensational

FABRICS

at Mann's -----

Kitten Satin, beautiful peau de soie type fabric, 50" wide.. $1.98
Bokhara Crepe to coordinate with the sheer & satin, 45" wide $1.98
Sheerway Chiffon, the third in the coordinate group, all in black, smoke, blue, mink, shadow rose ..... $1.29
Embroidered Satins, finest in the formal field, 50" wide. $4.98
Softmere, the cashmere look in rayon, 45" wide ..... $2.98
Fall velvets just arrived for the fashion drape in dresses, 45" wide ..... $2.98