DINING CARS

Hartford, Conn.—(AP)—Connecticut motorists, taking advantage of the state's registration plate lettering system, now offer everything from "soup" to "nutz." The list of driver's dishes includes: Beef, fish, veal, corn, peas, rice, roll, pie, cake, milk and tea. The four letter maximum eliminates such items as butter and coffee. Officials say that nobody has thought to apply for "oleo" and "java" yet.

Tattoo Artist Busy Changing Past Inscriptions

Seattle—(AP)—In spring, when a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love, he sometimes visits a tattoo artist. There the name of his beloved is inscribed on his chest in a setting of roses, doves, and lillies.

Then he gets married — to someone else. Back to the tattoo artist.

"For some reason," said George W. Krueger, a Seattle skin artist, "most young fellows have one girl's name tattooed on them, and then they marry a different girl."

The return trip to the tattoo parlor is made to have the former girl friend's name covered or changed. The wife usually comes along to make sure the old flame's name is completely blotted out.

Preserving marital harmony has become the mainstay of Krueger's business because people seem to prefer pictures on the wall to art on the arm.

"The wandering, rugged fellow who works with his sleeves rolled up is disappearing," he explained. "They were the boys who were proud of skin art. And a good number of their girl friends, too."

For nearly 50 years Kruger has been putting on and taking off tattoos in Seattle. He's watched the demand for creative tattooing fall off steadily.

"The day of the full-rigged ship sailing through a storm-tossed sea is gone," he said. "Ships I do now wouldn't amount to more than a little old tug boat back in the old days."

The artist admits that if it weren't for the conversion and eraser jobs, he wouldn't be able to stay in business.

"I've changed Larry to Harry, converted Josephine to a screaming eagle, and Lucille to a square rigged ship," Krueger said.

"A few days ago a real pretty girl came to my office. She locked the door, swore me to secrecy, and took off her blouse. There was a dainty butterfly with the name 'Frank' on it."

She asked Kruger to change the butterfly and Frank to a birthmark.

SKUNK SHOOTS COP

Stoneham, Mass.—(AP)—Patrolmen Richard Burns and Edward Pinato were called to assist a skunk that had caught its head in a bottle. Pinato drew his revolver—Burns waved him back and strode forward to help the trapped animal. The following entry was made in the police journal by Officer Pinato—"shot skunk after skunk shot Officer Burns."

Port Washington, Wis.—(AP)—There's no doubt about who the most important men in Port Washington area. The city got its first vial of flu vaccine, and it went to four garbage collectors, two waterworks employees and a key man at the sewage disposal plant. The mayor, aldermen and other city workers are in line for the next batch of vaccine.
