

It's San Francisco for the Giants; Dodgers Hold on for LA Approval

New York — National League club owners by unanimous resolution today extended until Oct. 15 the deadline by which the Brooklyn Dodgers must decide whether to transfer to Los Angeles.

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer
New York — President Horace Stoneham of the New York Giants formally notified Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick today of his intention of shifting his club to San Francisco.

National league club owners gathered for a meeting at which President Walter O'Malley of the Brooklyn Dodgers was expected to ask for an extension of time for filing his notice of intent to transfer his team to Los Angeles.

Stoneham's formal notification was announced by Frick's office a half hour before the National league owners were scheduled to start their meeting.

"Mr. Horace Stoneham, on behalf of the National Exhibition Co., (the Giants) today filed with the commissioner of baseball his notice of intent to acquire the San Francisco territory for the purpose of operating a National league club therein," Frick said.

"Following the rules of baseball, Mr. Stoneham's communication has today been transmitted to the president of the Pacific Coast league Leslie O'Connor, the president of the San Francisco Baseball club Jerry Donovan, the president of the National league Warren Giles and the president of the American league Will Harridge," the statement concluded.

Oct. 1 was the date established ed by which time a team was required to notify the leagues of its intention to shift a franchise. Permission for both the Giants and Dodgers to transfer to California was given last May 28 by the National league.

A club wishing to draft the territory of a minor league city must do so between Oct. 1 and Oct. 31, according to baseball law.

But the Dodgers were hung up on a legal technicality—failure of the Los Angeles City council to approve plans for a new Dodger home in that city. A stormy council meeting in Los Angeles Monday night ended with opponents of the plan still blocking the unanimous vote needed for quick approval.

O'Malley goes into today's league meeting, however, armed with "definite" assurance from Los Angeles Mayor Norris Poulson that the council will approve the ball park next Monday. Under Los Angeles rules, only 10 of the 15 councilmen are needed to pass the bill at that time and Poulson told O'Malley in a telegram early today that the 10 votes are lined up "without the slightest doubt."

Although there were reports that one or two league owners are opposed to granting O'Malley any more time, indications would get O'Malley an extension.

The Giants, on the other hand, seemed all set to announce their San Francisco plans.

San Francisco's Board of Supervisors cleared the way Monday night when they voted approval of a rough draft of the contract to be offered the Giants, thus beating a midnight deadline.

Attorney General Rules PCC Memberships Legal

San Francisco — Attorney General Edmund G. Brown ruled Monday that membership in the Pacific Coast conference by USC, Stanford, California and UCLA is legal.

The issue had been raised by Assemblyman Frank Bonelli (D-Huntington Park) at a hearing in Los Angeles last week. Bonelli had questioned the right of tax-supported schools, such as UCLA and Cal., of tax exempt institutions, such as Stanford and USC, to pay fines to the PCC for rules violations.

Brown said that the "system of operating intercollegiate athletic teams at the University of California and UCLA is a reasonable exercise of power by the Board of regents and the university president."

"There is no express or implied language in the constitution regarding these tax exemptions which would in any way preclude these universities from the relationship which they have established with the PCC and other member institutions therein," the opinion said. "It is also clear that the legislature could not condition in any way the granting of these tax exemptions since they are granted by the constitution."

In brief, the ruling held that the "fines, penalties and forfeitures are paid from student association funds and not from tax appropriations."

Davidson, Gibson Gain Net Crowns in Pacific Contest

By SCOTT BAILLIE

Berkeley, Calif. — Sweden's Sven Davidson blasted his way to the Pacific Coast men's singles tennis title Monday by overpowering Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, 7-5, 6-8, 6-1, 6-4.

In the women's department, Harlem's Althea Gibson continued her winning streak by polishing off Louise Brough of Beverly Hills in less than an hour, 6-4, 6-3, to take the women's singles crown.

Davidson had little trouble with Seixas' wide assortment of cuts and spinners after the second set, either retrieving them or straightening them out with powerful passing shots.

The angular Swedish Davis Cupper won the opening set of hour and 20-minute match, 7-5, took it early as Seixas white-washed him, 6-0, then roared back to take the final two sets, 6-1, 6-4.

Kurt Nielsen of Denmark and Bob Howe of Australia won the men's doubles, defeating Davidson and Luis Ayala of Chile in a marathon match, 4-6, 22-20, 6-3.

The women's doubles championship went to Seattle's Janet Hopps and Australia's Mary Hawton as they rallied to defeat Miss Brough and Barbara Scofield Davidson of Milwaukee, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Annual Upsets Foul Sunday Experts in Football Predictions

By HARRY WISMER
Written for the United Press

New York — They've started, those upsets that make the coaches hair turn grey or disappear altogether, and make the Sunday and assorted experts look like anything but.

The Big Ten took it on the chin in inter-sectional and out of conference games for the first time in long while, and three of the five major upsets featured western conference teams.

UCLA started it on Friday night, knocking off Illinois. Stanford and Texas Christian kept up the pressure by hammering Northwestern and Ohio State. Then in an old fashioned statewide rivalry Notre Dame started off the season in grand style by shutting out Purdue.

In the one conference game played, Michigan State showed undoubted power in overwhelming Indiana. The Spartans have speed, class and depth. On the right side of the ledger for the Big Ten were Iowa's win over Utah State, Minnesota's triumph over Washington, and Michigan's win over Southern California. Wisconsin also mopped up Marquette in the other game involving teams from that conference.

Army Shows Class
In the Ivy league, Princeton and Brown were supposed to be the teams to beat. Brown met defeat in a very well drilled and well handled Columbia eleven came up with a field goal, something seldom used by the collegians. The Tigers had a rough time with Rutgers, and were lucky to eke out a narrow victory. Steve Sebo has a much improved team at Penn. Penn gave the Nittany Lions a battle, and the Ivy league could provide a lot better competition than expected. Army could be the class of the Northeast, the Cadets showed plenty against Nebraska and didn't go all out. We'll know more about the Cadets after their game with Penn State next Saturday.

Navy kept rolling; they'll hit Notre Dame unbeaten. In the Southeast Duke still appears to be tops. You'll have to pay a lot of attention to North Carolina State. The win over North Carolina was considered just so and so, but State really creamed Maryland.

Auburn's win over Tennessee boosted the stock of the Tigers considerably and it will be up to either Kentucky or Georgia Tech to take them off the top rung. Georgia Tech lost caste with the SMU tie, but the bad weather contributed to that.

Oregon State Shines
Oklahoma was idle. And Oregon State, the best in the West, handed Kansas, not too bad an eleven, a real tossing around. From what we can see they'll stay in front out there. Stanford and UCLA appears to be next in line.

In the Southwest, there is optimism from the standpoint of competition both within the conference and in inter-sectional tilts. TCU and SMU were both improved. Arkansas went well against Tulsa, Baylor topped a strong Houston team, and Texas was rolling as it shut out Texas Tech.

Now for the professionals. Five of the six opening games saw the favorites bite the dust, including the champions in both divisions, the New York Giants and Chicago Bears. The other choices to fall were the Detroit Lions, Washington Redskins and the San Francisco Forty-Niners.

Now the stock of the Browns, Packers, Colts and Cardinals has taken a boost. But it could be reduced next week end without too much trouble.

contender and two of the District 5B front-runners in opposition to each other.

Crater goes to Grants Pass for the A-1 counter. Medford journeys to Coos Bay for the big non-loop affair. Marshfield of the coast city took the 1956 A-1 championship, thumping Medford's Black Tornado in the season final. Both of the aforementioned scraps are on Friday night.

EP at Phoenix
Phoenix, also on Friday, will be host to Eagle Point, state A-2 semi-finalist last year. Other A-2 clashes will have Illinois Valley at Glendale on Friday and Rogue River at Henley on Saturday. The Pirates of Phoenix currently head the chase with two wins and no losses.

Talent will play at Merrill on Friday in a game between District 5B clubs each unmarred in two contests. Malin knotted with Talent and Merrill, opposed Bonanza. Chiloquin will play at Jacksonville on Friday afternoon and St. Mary's of Medford at Klamath Falls against Sacred Heart on Saturday in other B engagements.

Two other members of District 6 A-1 and the Southern Oregon conference have non-loopers Klamath Falls entertaining Springfield and Ashland going to Lakeview.

Kids Day Slated At OSC Grid Mix

Oregon State College, Corvallis—Some 3,000 youngsters are expected to participate in the third annual Kiwanis Kids day at the Oregon State College-University of Idaho football game at Parker stadium, Saturday afternoon, Oct. 12. This will be the first Corvallis game for the OSC Beavers.

Special ticket prices are in effect for the Kiwanis Kids day game for supervised groups of 10 or more grade and high school students and adult supervisors.

Suggested groups for Kids day include high school and grade school teams, church groups, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cubs, Brownies, Sea Scouts, Explorers, Blue Birds, Camp Fire Girls, 4-H clubs, or just neighborhood groups.

Sponsored jointly by the Corvallis Kiwanis club, with Jess Walton in charge, and the OSC Athletic department, Kids day has proven quite popular with over 1500 youngsters participating last year. Persons wishing more information may call the athletic department (P 1 a z a 3-7501) in Corvallis.

'Beavers Ready' For Northwestern Says Prothro

Corvallis, Ore. — Coach Tommy Prothro of the Oregon State Beavers says wingback Earnel Durden, who suffered the Beavers' only injury in their 34-6 rout of Kansas last Saturday, will be ready to go against Northwestern at Chicago this weekend.

Prothro also declared that Oregon State's freshman squad is the finest group since he came to Corvallis. Among the 27 leading prospects are six all-stars from Oregon prep circles.

Glendale Man Dies In Auto Accident

Myrtle Creek — A collision between a car and a flatbed truck near here late Monday resulted in the death of a Glendale man and injuries to his wife.

The victim was Arthur Vincent Handley, 40. He died in a local hospital from injuries suffered in the accident. His wife, Irene, 33, was hurt but not seriously. Their three children, Mary, 11; Rodney, 4, and John, 2, escaped injury.

State police said a flat bed truck operated by Earl Wilford Lauer, Roseburg, was traveling north at 40 miles an hour when it skidded on slick pavement into the southbound lane and swerved around. It was struck in the rear by the southbound Handley car, police said.

AILING SOONERS RETURN

Norman, Okla. — All one of the 13 University of Oklahoma football players laid up with flu returned to the practice field today for a late afternoon drill. The squad didn't come out until 5:15 p.m., held a 10-minute squad meeting, then returned to the field for about an hour of practice.
