

Pittsburgh 20-14 Victor Over Troy

By ALEX KAHN
Los Angeles — Pittsburgh Coach John Michelosen today hailed his Panthers' 20-14 victory over Southern California Friday night as the season's best performance by his team.

Sparked by flashy backs Dick Haley and Fred Riddle, the Panthers ran up a total of 309 yards against a Trojan football team that could get but one drive going the entire game.

The contest in Memorial Coliseum witnessed by a night crowd of 43,489 fans, developed into a slugfest in the third period as three players were ejected and Southern California Coach Don Clark brought his team a 15-yard penalty by dashing on the field.

Pittsburgh was penalized 142 yards, exactly the same yardage run up by their opponents, while Southern California received penalties of 112 yards.

Different Interpretation
"This was the most penalties inflicted on Pittsburgh since the last time it played Southern California in 1954," commented Michelosen. "They must have a different interpretation of the rules on the West Coast."

Clark would not comment on the rough play but explained he dashed on the field when he saw Ken Anle on the ground with a Pitt player sitting on him and beating him.

Friday night, Pittsburgh didn't wait until the last two seconds of play to score its second consecutive victory over a PCC team.

Pittsburgh scored touchdowns in the first, second and third periods, while the Trojans came through only in the second and third. The Panthers got their second score when Art Gob blocked a Trojan punt on the 5 and recovered in the end zone for a touchdown.

Officers said, at the time, they were checking the possibility that Jackson county men were involved in three burglaries reported in Grants Pass recently.

Iowa City, Iowa — Iowa's flu-weakened, fumbling Hawkeyes had just enough power to rally and whip previously unbeaten Washington State, 20-13, in the final four minutes Saturday before 47,334 fans.

Iowa, with four of the first 22 players out with the flu and many others serving only part-time, called on deep reserve power and superb performance from All-America tackle Alex Karras to edge the Pacific Coast conference team.

Karras stole the ball from Washington State quarterback Bob Newman midway in the fourth period and gave Iowa one more chance to win after the Cougars had knotted the score, 13-13, earlier in the period.

Americans Send Gifts To Wee Boy In Blue

Middleboro, Mass. — Americans sent thousands of cards, letters and gifts Saturday to "little boy blue," an 8-year-old child left alone in a losing fight against death.

Huge bags of mail arrived from points as distant as Philadelphia, Montreal and California for the youngster who wanted only "four or six funny cards," for his birthday.

The boy, identified only as Francis X, is dying of muscular dystrophy at Lakeville State sanatorium near here. Hospital officials made a plea for a few cards for the child when it appeared that he'd have a lonely ninth birthday party next Tuesday. Francis had received no mail or visitors in his four months at the sanatorium.

His mother is dead, his father in prison for a slaying.

Drunk Hens Lay More According To Tests

Bonn, Germany — German farming experts say they have "discovered" that drunken hens lay more eggs than sober ones. The Bavarian Farming Institute at Veitschoeheim pulled the trick on 60 test hens. Instead of their daily quota of plain water, some of the feathered animals were treated with an equal amount of light wine. And, say the institute experts, the alcohol-fed hens outdid the sober relatives by two-to-one in egg-laying.
