Fire Prevention Week Is Observed

Carelessness and indifference to common fire dangers are the main cause of rising fire losses, according to Medford Fire Chief Gordon Barker.

Barker urged Medford residents to participate in National Fire Prevention week, Oct. 6 to 12. Fire prevention is everyone's responsibility and only by a conscientious effort can people rid their homes of the ordinary hazards which are the cause of most fires, Barker said.

National Fire Prevention week seeks to eliminate ordinary hazards which cause 90 per cent of all fires, according to the National Fire Protection association.

Barker listed several items as good fire prevention habits. They include regular inspection and cleaning of chimneys; repairing and keeping clean heating units; enough electric outlets, replacement of worn extension cords and repairment of all electrical equipment at the first sign of trouble; keep matches out of the reach of children and to be careful with all lighted objects; turn in rags, papers and magazines for salvage and keep closets, attics and basements clean.

A substantial drop in fire losses followed Fire Prevention Week last year but as soon as people lapsed back into careless living habits, losses begin to climb, Chief Barker added.

Illegal Airplane Parking Costs $3

Detroit —(UP)— James Rader of Detroit got a $3 parking ticket—for parking his airplane illegally.

"As long as it has wheels, we can ticket anything for parking," Patrolman Richard Graff declared when he found Rader's ing zone near the Detroit City single-engine plane in a no parking zone near the Detroit City Airport.

Three Brothers Change Hunting Luck Same Day

Charleston, Miss.—(UP)—George Cossar says his three sons, who had hunted deer unsuccessfully for several years, changed their luck on the same day. Bill bagged a seven-point buck at 6 a.m., George killed a seven-point buck at 8 a.m., John came in with a five-point buck late in the afternoon.
