RUSSIA MAY HAVE FIRED ICBM WITH H-BOMB HEAD

Verification of Russian Reports Supports Theory

Claim of High Test Draws Attention

Washington — The Russians may have test fired an intercontinental ballistic missile with an H-bomb warhead.

Some observers here believe this is more than just a possibility.

AEC verification that the Soviets were testing megaton range bombs in the arctic, plus

By UNITED PRESS

The nose of the rocket that fired Russia's Sputnik into space was sighted officially for the first time in the United States today. But the satellite itself has not been seen as yet by American official observers.

A Soviet weapons expert and scientist, Lt. Gen. Anatoly A. Blagonravov, 63, told newsmen at the United Nations, meanwhile, that he believes Russia will be able to land a rocket on the moon before he dies. He did not say if it would be manned. But he also said Russia plans to launch a second satellite loaded with instruments sometime next month, perhaps on Red Army Day, Nov. 7.

Russian declarations that on Oct. 6 an H-bomb explosion was set off "at a great height," supports speculation about missile-borne warheads.

Pay Attention To Claim

Some sources here pay considerable attention to the Soviet claim that Russian bombs are tested high in the air to limit radio-active contamination. The Russians know as well as anybody that explosions in the stratosphere spread contamination more extensively around the world than lower bursts do.

If the Russians are sensitive to world opinion, and they seem to be, they must know that they would inflict more harm on other countries with ordinary high bursts than they would with lower ones.

Stratosphere Test Seen

So there has been speculation that when the Russians claim to explode their H-bombs at "very great heights" where they will do no harm, they mean at altitudes transcending the stratosphere with its 20-mile ceiling.

Radioactivity released above the stratosphere conceivably would never settle to the surface of the earth. It would, in effect, be spewed into space.

But no airplane could carry the Soviet H-bomb to such heights. It would require a powerful rocket-propelled missile.

President Eisenhower himself said Wednesday the Soviets appear to have an eight-year head start on the United States in development of ballistic missiles.

Faubus Feels 'Third Party' Should Remove Students

Little Rock, Ark. — Gov. Orval E. Faubus feels that only the removal of Negro students from Central High school by a "third party" will break the deadlock between the governor and President Eisenhower, a reliable source told United Press today.

Cooling Off Period

The governor feels that such a "third party" as the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People should pull the Negro students out of integrated Central High to allow a cooling off period, the source said.

Shakespeare Festival Directors Elected

Ashland—Robert Reinholdt of Ashland was elected president of the board of directors of the Oregon Shakespearean Festival at the annual meeting of the association here last night.

Russ Jamison, Medford, was reelected vice-president; Mrs. Carl Wimberly, Medford, was elected secretary, and Rudolph Vest, Ashland, was reelected treasurer.

Officers were elected after five new members were named to the board. New members are Mrs. Wimberly, Eric Allen Jr., Medford; Ralph McCullough, Ashland; Dr. William Sammons, Ashland; and Dr. James C. Luce, Medford. McCullough was reelected to the board. Five of the 15 directors are elected each year.

Bill Patton, general manager, reviewed this year's Festival, pointing out that attendance showed about a 23 per cent gain over that of last year. The Festival showed a 60.6 per cent gain in growth since the 1953 season, he noted.

A total of 24,358 persons attended the 1957 plays in August to set a new attendance record. Operating costs this year showed an increase of 14.6 per

Sections of Ashland Without Power Today

Ashland—Sections of Ashland were without electric power for about two hours this morning when city-owned electric lines burned out, Ashland officials said.

Officials said the outage took place about 5:30 a.m. when an unidentified object fell across the lines on Hersey st. near Helman st. Officials said they believed high winds blew a metal object on the lines, causing them to burn out.

able for comment on whether any such idea of transferring six girls and three boys back to Horace Mann (Negro) school would be likely.

Mrs. Bates has said that the only circumstances under which she would permit the Negro children to stay at Central High would be assurances from the White House that the children "would be protected."

Signs of Fatigue

The governor, showing signs of fatigue from an attack of the flu, said Wednesday there was no backing down on his part. At a news conference Faubus failed to show any optimism of troop removal in the near future as reported in Washington by President Eisenhower.

Mysterious Object In Western Skies Believed Meteor

Air Defense Command Making Investigation

By UNITED PRESS

The North American Air Defense Command at Colorado Springs, Colo., said today it believed a huge fireball that hurtled across the pre-dawn skies of seven western states was a meteor.

Command officials said an Air Force investigating team would be flown "immediately" to the Northeastern Utah site where the object apparently crashed shortly after 3 a.m. (PST).

Plane Nearly Sideswiped

The command confirmed reports the mysterious fiery object nearly sideswiped a Navy plane in an area near the Colorado-Utah border, but said it could not identify the pilot or where the plane was based.

Command officials joined several eastern scientists in ruling out the possibility the fireball was part of the Russian satellite launching rocket. Other military spokesmen in this area rejected the possibility it was a runaway missile.

Meteors Active

"This is a period of heavy meteor activity," said one Air Force official at the Air Defense Command. "A shower known as 'geminiids' was due Oct. 9 with others due on the 18th and 23rd of October."

A Western Air Lines pilot, Capt. Joe Seday, Los Angeles, said he saw the object while flying over Southwestern Wyoming. He said a few moments later he talked air-to-air by radio with the pilot of the unidentified Navy plane, which had reported near-collision with the object.

"We won't have any definite information on the whole thing until an Air Force team gets in there to search the area on the ground," the command's public information service said. "It has been told to announce that a full-scale investigation is being made."

Two Are Sentenced In Circuit Court

Ernest James Lopus, 31, of Rogue River, was sentenced to three years in the Oregon state penitentiary Wednesday afternoon in circuit court by Judge Edward Kelly.

Lopus had pleaded guilty to uttering and publishing a false check.

Also sentenced in circuit court Wednesday was William Douglas Edwards, 32, of 15 1/2 Genesee st., Medford. He was given a five-year sentence in the state penitentiary with execution of sentence suspended by Judge Kelly.

He is required to sell all firearms and other weapons, refrain from all intoxicating beverages, report to a parole officer weekly, and to take psychiatric treatment if deemed necessary by the parole officer, according to Judge Kelly.

John R. Tomlin Well-Known Civic Leader Here, Dies

Long-Time Resident Was Semi-Retired

John R. Tomlin, 78, a semi-retired lumber executive and rancher, well-known for his civic endeavors and philanthropies, died last night while visiting at the home of friends.

Mr. Tomlin, a resident of this community for 40 years, was born July 7, 1879, in Nebraska. He moved to Medford in 1907 and remained for several years, then left for a time and returned in 1917 to make his home. His residence was 1503 East Main st.

He started ranching here, and bought and sold several of them, then founded the Tomlin Box company, in a small way, designed to supply boxes for the fruit industry. It prospered, and developed into Timber Products company, one of southern Oregon's most successful business ventures. It was sold recently to the Cypress Mines corporation of Los Angeles for several million dollars.

Philanthropic Activities

Mr. Tomlin was well-known for his philanthropic activities, but his gifts to many of the community's charitable and welfare organizations were made on an anonymous basis, with Mr. Tomlin insisting that he not be identified as the donor.

One of his recent major gifts was money for the construction of the new Girls Community club, but he again insisted that his part in this not be known until after his death.

He was a member of the Rogue Valley Country club and the Elks lodge.

Survivors include a nephew, Walter Tomlin of Medford. Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at Perl funeral home, with Dr. D. Kirkland West, of the First Presbyterian church, officiating.

Honorary pallbearers will be Eugene Thorndike, Frank Farrell, O. M. Anderson, Dr. E. R. Durno, B. E. Harder and Alfred S. V. Carpenter.

Two Youths Fined In Municipal Court

Ronald Willes Richey, 20, route 2, box 196E, Table Rock rd., was fined $25 for resisting arrest and had another $25 fine suspended for having possession of alcoholic beverages this morning, according to police department records.

Thomas Edward Malot, 19, of 3009 Table Rock rd., who was arrested with Richey on charges of being a minor having possession of alcoholic beverages, also was fined $25 on the possession charges. The fine was suspended by Municipal Judge Noreen Kelly.

The two youths were arrested Wednesday about 3 a.m. for speeding on Biddle rd.

When asked to present his driver's license, Richey started walking down Biddle rd. Police asked him to return to the car but Richey failed to obey and had to be forcibly returned to the car, Police said.

During the scuffle to return to the police car, Richey attempted to start a fight and suffered a one-inch cut along the right side of his face when struck by the officer's flashlight. Richey was given first aid at Sacred Heart hospital where two stitches were taken to close the wound, police said.

Cordy Plans Trip to Convention in East

Clifford B. Cordy, county horticultural agent, and Walt Jendrzewski, county agent from Klamath Falls, will leave Saturday for Boston, Mass., where they will attend the National Association of County Agriculture Agents convention. Jendrzewski is president of the Oregon county agents association and Cordy is vice president. The Oregon association is maintained by dues from county agents and is a self-supporting association.

The convention will start Sunday and continue through Oct. 18. Cordy will spend two weeks in the East before returning to Medford.

Lodge Says New Efforts in Space Must Be Harnessed

Ambassador Speaks To UN Committee

United Nations, N.Y. — The United States missed today the world "must not miss the chance" of "harnessing for peace man's new pioneering efforts in outer space."

U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, presenting the western disarmament position to the UN Main Political Committee, made no direct reference to Russia's man-made moon now circling the globe, but he said:

Seek Agreement

"We seek agreement on ways to control the latest creation of science — the outer space weapon. This device can serve the purposes of peace or it can blow us to bits. We have only begun to learn of its possibilities but we know it is too dangerous to ignore."

"In 1946, when the U. S. alone had nuclear weapons, we proposed to the UN a plan to insure the peaceful use of this new and tremendous force of atomic energy by putting it under international control. We made that proposal."

Could Have Avoided Anxiety

"The world knows now that a decade of anxiety and trouble could have been avoided if that plan had been accepted."

"We now have a similar opportunity to harness for peace man's new pioneering efforts in outer space. We must not miss this chance."

Lodge repeated the proposal made by the western powers at the London Disarmament Conference earlier this year to establish a technical committee to study the design of an inspection system "to assure that the sending of objects through outer space will be exclusively for peaceful and scientific purposes."

Christmas Parade Scheduled Nov. 16

The annual Christmas Opening parade, promoted by the Medford Junior Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Retail Merchants association will be held Saturday, Nov. 16, starting at 1:30 p.m. Al Carpenter, general chairman of the event, has announced.

All organizations, including churches, service clubs, scout troops, and others, have been invited to participate. Cash prizes will be awarded winners in youth and adult groups. Three classifications for the parade are Biblical, Christmas and fantasy.

The parade will start at Hawthorne park, proceed west on Main st. to Riverside ave., north on Riverside to Sixth st., west on Sixth st. to Holly st., south on Holly to Main st., and east to Hawthorne park.

Assisting Carpenter on the committee are Kenn Knackstedt, Wally Hamlin and Don Schultz.

Cleveland Couple Arrested in Medford

Theft of a blanket from a Medford motel led to the arrest of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Mayer Levinson, Cleveland, Ohio, last night on charges of forging prescriptions to obtain narcotics, according to police.

City police arrested the Levinsons after a motel owner said they took a blanket. Police, making a routine search of the Levinson car, found several items which they believed are involved in the use of narcotics. State police were notified. The Levinsons admitted forging and passing several prescriptions in southern Oregon, according to city police. City police said the Levinsons also are wanted by Los Angeles authorities on charges of violating probation on charges of possession of narcotics.

Milwaukee Bursts Into Celebration After Victory

Milwaukee — The baseball capital of the world burst into wild celebration today the minute the Milwaukee Braves won the 1957 World Series from the New York Yankees.

Sirens screamed, car horns blasted across the city, office workers dumped bushels of confetti and stationery out of windows along Wisconsin ave., young and old danced in the streets.

BURDETTE HURLS SERIES CLINCHER

New York — The strong right arm of Lew Burdette carried the Braves to a 5-0 victory over the New York Yankees today and gave Milwaukee its first World Series championship.

With Burdette scoring an historic third victory in the series, the Braves took advantage of an error by a Yankee rookie, Tony Kubek, in the third inning to go on and score four runs and that turned out to be the ball game. Kubek, a native of Milwaukee and earlier a Yankee hero, could have gotten New York out of the decisive inning when he picked up a perfect double play ground ball off the bat of Johnny Logan, but instead he fired wildly to second base.

That was the only break the Braves needed, for instead of the side being retired they had two men on base with only one out. They went on to knock Don (Perfect) Game Larsen out of the box and score all the runs they needed to win.

So Larsen had to take the rap, one year and two days after he had pitched the first perfect game in World Series history, although it wasn't all his fault.

For Burdette it was a brilliant triumph; for the Yankees, it was an unusual defeat, a game they lost because of their own shortcomings in the field. Those shortcomings robbed Manager Casey Stengel of a record tying seventh World Series triumph, but the way Burdette pitched, the Yankees never were in the ball game after that big third inning.

Unusual for them, the Yankees committed three official errors.

Del Crandall's home run off Tommy Byrne, the fifth Yankee pitcher, in the eighth inning, was just icing on this Milwaukee triumph.

It was the second successive shutout Burdette had hurled, having beaten the Yankees 1-0 in the fifth game in Milwaukee Monday. It ran his string of scoreless innings to 23 1/3 and made him the first pitcher since Stan Coveleski of Cleveland in 1920 to start and win three games in one series.

State Protests Canadian Order on Fruit Fumigation

Salem — Robert J. Steward, Oregon director of agriculture, today informed Canadian plant officials that Jackson county's large gift package fruit business is seriously impaired by the Oriental fruit moth fumigation requirement imposed earlier this year by British Columbia.

He urged officials there to give every consideration to exempting fruit gift packages from Jackson county and other Oriental moth-free areas from the fumigation order.

Steward wired W. N. Keenan, chief of the Canadian department of agriculture's division of plant protection at Ottawa, that the Oriental fruit moth is not present in Jackson county and that it is impossible and impractical to fumigate gift packages. He also sent the same wire to W. D. Touzeau, district plant inspection officer at Vancouver, B.C.

Eight Sizes

Steward pointed out packers turn out eight different sizes of gift packages of straight pears or pears and apples, and also six different types of mixed pears, apples, candy, nuts and fruit cake. In the latter group pears would have to be fumigated prior to packing as methyl bromide could not be used on non-fruit items.

Financially, shipment of gift packages from Oregon to Canada amounts to a five-figure business and is still growing, according to Steward. Everything possible should be done to help this business continue to expand, Oregon's director of agriculture believes, as further development of present agricultural industries is one of the surest ways to strengthen Oregon economically.

An early answer is expected from officials. When Oregon received advance notice early this year of the proposed fumigation order, Frank McKennon, the Oregon department's plant division chief, issued a strong protest. However, Canadian officials later reaffirmed their order.

Six Deaths in Each 100 Million Miles Reported

Salem — Slightly more than six people met death in each 100 million miles traveled in Oregon during August, the Department of Motor Vehicles traffic safety division reported today.

The death rate for the month, based on reported sales of gasoline, was 6.2 as compared with an even 6.0 reported for August a year ago.

Play-by-play:

Braves first: Haze struck out. Logan batted out. Matthews struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees first: Bauer doubled. Slaughter hit back to the mound. Both Bauer and Slaughter went into second base and Slaughter was tagged out. Mantle batted out. Berry was intentionally walked. McDougald popped out. No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

Braves second: Aaron singled. Covington singled. Torre walked. Mantilla batted out. Crandall forced Torre. No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

Yankees second: Kubek and Coleman grounded out. Collins struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Braves third: Burdette fouled out. Haze singled. Logan was safe when Kubek's throw pulled Coleman off the bag at second. Matthews doubled, scoring Haze and Logan. Bobby Shantz replaced Larsen on the mound for the Yankees. Aaron singled, scoring Matthews. Covington singled. Torre forced Covington. Aaron scored. Mantilla batted out. Four runs, four hits, one error, one left.

Yankees third: Jerry Lumpe batted for Shantz and struck out. Bauer filed out. Slaughter rolled out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Braves fourth: Art Ditmar went in to pitch for the Yankees. Crandall filed out. Berry was safe when McDougald was charged with an error on a throw to Matthews' error. Mantle lined out. No runs, one hit, one error, two left.

Yankees fourth: Mantle filed out. Berry lined out. McDougald filed out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Braves fifth: Aaron was safe on a bunt. Berry was safe when McDougald was charged with an error in handling the ball. Covington rolled out. Torre and Mantilla grounded out. No runs, no hits, one error, one left.

Yankees fifth: Kubek filed out. Coleman singled. Collins forced Coleman. Bill Skowron batted for Ditmar and forced Collins. No runs, one hit, one error, one left.

Braves sixth: Skowron went in to play first base for the Yankees and Tom Sturdivant went in to pitch. Crandall singled. Burdette sacrificed. Crandall was out. Berry popped out third on an attempted steal. Haze filed out. No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Yankees sixth: Bauer grounded out. Slaughter filed out. Mantle singled. Berry was safe on a throw. McDougald forced Mantle. No runs, one hit, one error, two left.

Braves seventh: Logan singled. Matthews singled. Collins forced Coleman. Bill Skowron batted for Skowron and forced Collins. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Yankees eighth: Pafo went in to play right field for the Braves. Haze popped out. Slaughter fouled out. Mantle filed out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.
