

THREE-SEVENTHS OF MEDFORD LINE—Comet players will be looking across at this trio of Medford linemen this evening when the Tornado is host to the Crater high football team. Left to right are End Tom Hamlin, Tackle Tom Morris and Guard Dick Corum, all probable starters for the Black Tornado.

They will seek a successful start for Medford's District 6 A-1 crown defense. Tonight's battle is the fifth in football between the two schools. The Tornado has won the last three engagements after an initial win by Comet players in 1953.

Serious Black Tornado Takes On Confident Crater Eleven

A deadly serious Black Tornado goes against a confident, eager and fired up Comet football eleven this evening on the Medford Senior High school turf.

Medford's Tornado, still weakened by illnesses which have plagued the squad this week, is host to Crater high in the Southern Oregon conference opener for the home club and the second mix in the circuit for the visitor. Game time is 8:15 p.m.

Most of the 11 Tornado players who missed drills this week because of flu or virus infections were reported on the mend by Head Coach Fred Spiegelberg. Just how much duty they'll be able to see against the Comets still was a matter of question this morning. Biggest share of those who have been sick were on hand at yesterday's final workout. But, while several were in harness, the others were standing by and looking on.

Clark Absent

Skip Bennett, a breakaway left halfback, was still missing from the squad. Reserve quarterback Jim Clark was absent from yesterday's workout. Among those back with the crew yesterday were Centers Jim Funston and Pat McLaughlin and Tackle Gary Winetrou, who were in suit, and Halfback Gerry Lyons and End Pete Rasmussen, who watched from the sidelines.

Crater, as of last night, didn't have the sickness handicap experienced by the Tornado. There were a few colds which slowed the efficiency of squad members. But Coach Leonard Warren indicated that Guard George Hunt, who has a strep throat, likely would be the only one missing the game.

Despite the illness hindrance, Medford still enters the game as favorite. The Tornado yet has greater depth and has a larger number of experienced players. And its competition has been tougher.

Confident Club

While the Crater club has been relegated to role of underdog, the Comet cup actually is brimming with confidence. The close ruckus with Grants Pass did much to bolster the morale of the Central Point club. Coach Warren reported the Comets fired up, unafraid and determined to "do the best they can do."

The Medford Tornado may be somewhat physically down but the spirit is good. "The boys realize the importance of the game and that Crater has a chance," Spiegelberg said. "They'll be out there determined."

Judging from the four past conflicts between the two schools tonight's ball game should be an entertaining one for fans. Crater has won only once over Medford but has played interesting ball in the other conflicts even when the Tornado victory margin was lopsided.

GP, Marshfield Game Called Off

Sickness among Grants Pass players has forced cancellation of the Cavemen's football game scheduled for tonight against Marshfield High of Coos Bay. The non-league game was to have been contested at Grants Pass with Marshfield trying to extend its string to 40 games without a loss.

Two Frays Count In Oregon Loop

By UNITED PRESS

Oregon's small colleges face a full slate of football action this week end, but only two games in the Oregon Collegiate conference will count in league standings. All Northwest Conference and the rest of the OCC contests will be against opponents from other leagues.

Willamette leads off the week end schedule with a game against the speedy Rainbows of University of Hawaii Friday night at Honolulu.

Lewis & Clark takes on Chico State of the Far West conference at Portland Saturday afternoon. College of Idaho meets Western State of the Rocky Mountain conference; Linfield battles Oregon College of the OCC; Pacific plays Pacific Lutheran of the Evergreen conference, and Whitman goes against the independent Seattle Ramblers.

SPORTS

Southern Oregon makes its OCC debut against Portland State at Portland Saturday night. Oregon Tech plays Eastern Oregon at Klamath Falls in the other OCC counting game.
