McMahon Voted Full Brave Share

New York — Don McMahon had a full share of World Series gold today to compensate for the fact that he didn't get half his share of praise in the Milwaukee Braves' march to the National league pennant.

The Brooklyn-born fireballer had only a 2-3 record after joining the Braves on June 28 but was voted a full $8,924.36 share compared to the 3/4 share ($6,693.27) awarded Bob (Hurricane) Hazle, Milwaukee's late-season slugging sensation. Hazle joined the club July 28, hit .526 for almost a month and finished with a .403 mark for 41 games.

That was the only real surprise in the distribution of the Series melon, revealed Tuesday by Commissioner Ford Frick, but even Hazle wasn't inclined to make an issue of it.

McMahon's Record Deceptive "I would like to have gotten a full share," said Hazle at his Columbia, S.C., home. "But it isn't for me to say what I should have. What the players voted is okay with me."

McMahon, a red-faced 215-pound righthander, had one of the most deceptive records in baseball this year. Braves manager Fred Haney repeatedly called him "my club reliever" and pointed to a 1.53 earned run average as the true measure of his ability. McMahon pitched 47 innings of relief without once throwing a home run ball—another indication of his ability.

The Braves voted 30 full shares, including one to regular center fielder Bill Bruton, who was on the disabled list after July 11. They gave Nippy Jones, purchased late in the season from the PCL, a 3/4 share, awarded $60,000-bonus boy John Demerit, who played in 33 games, a 1/3 share of $2,974.78, and handed $118,000-bonus kid Bob Taylor, who appeared in only 7 games, a flat $1,000.

The American league champion New York Yankees exhibited their traditional generosity when they voted 33 full shares, including one to coach Bill Dickey, who was sick all year, and another to Pete Sheehy, who put in his 30th year as the team's clubhouse boy. They also voted a full share to Traveling Secretary Bill McCorry.

Philadelphia — Tommy Wilson of the Los Angeles Rams, unfettered by a college diploma, was a magna cum laude performer among the university alumni in the National Football league today.

Wilson, who bypassed college and won his football experience during a service hitch, was the leading ground gainer in the league after three weeks of play with a net of 350 yards in 53 carries for a 6.6 yard average.

Eddie Le Baron of Washington, the wee one among the NFL huskies, held the No. 1 spot among the league passers. Le Baron's top position with the passers came from average gain of 10.67 yards for every pass thrown, the league's method of determining the ratings. The Redskins' mighty mite completed 27 of 43 for a 62.8 percentage. He threw four touchdowns while gaining 459 yards and had two interceptions.

Clyde Conner of the Fortyniners led in pass receptions with 16 caught for 218 yards and one touchdown. Jim Mutscheller of Baltimore leads the scorers with five touchdowns for 30 points, all on pass receptions.

Chicago — Quarterback Ted Marchbroda, signed as a free agent early last month, has been put on the active player list by the Chicago Cardinals. Marchbroda completed 12 TD passes last year while with the Pittsburgh Steelers, who named him their No. 1 draft choice in 1953.

When we wondered recently why Jack Morris, ex-Medford high gridiron great, was not carrying the ball more for the University of Oregon Webfoots, we would have found the answer had we read the Duck Dope book more thoroughly. The booklet mentions that Duck Coach Len Casanova gives the fleet fullback top-flight ranking in the vital department of blocking.

The importance of Morris's blocking in the Duck offense has been pointed up in stories and publications in the past couple of days. A story in the Oregonian but originating from the university tells that the unsung Morris was described by Coach Casanova to the squad as the key to the Oregon offensive this fall.

Said Cas: "Morris did the finest job of blocking against San Jose State that I have ever seen. There's no doubt about it, Morris makes our offense go."

Jack, despite his major assignment as a blocker on the attack, is second in scoring and third in ground-gaining for the Ducks.

George Pasero, Oregon Journal sports editor said in his column concerning Morris: "Against San Jose he handled the ends as if he owned them, making Oregon's wide stuff go . . . It was Jack's block which sprung Jim Shanley loose on his fantastic 58-yard run . . . Jack also cleared the way for three or four good gains by Left Half Charlie Tourville . . . Shanley and Tourville are quick to give Morris credit for their brilliant running of past two weeks. And when Jack does carry the ball, his fellow backs do their darndest to give him same kind of good blocking."

BAKER UNBEATEN IN FIVE Ferd Borsh in his Portland Oregonian Prep Patter mentions Baker among four Oregon prep football clubs unbeaten in five games this season. What should be added is that Coach Stan Smith probably has the smallest squad in the tough Blue Mountain conference. At the last report we had, Smith had only 22

BOUT SIGNING SET Detroit — Light-heavy-weight champion Archie Moore and Chuck Spieser are scheduled to sign Oct. 23 for their January title fight in Detroit. Negotiations got beyond the talking stage Tuesday when Spieser's backers posted $10,000 with the Michigan boxing commission $100,000 at the down payment on their $10,000 guarantee to Moore.

players on his squad and was sweating out the possibility of crippling sickness and injury. Stan took over the Bulldog helm this fall after guiding Eagle Point to the A-2 state semi-finals in 1956.

HOCKEY NATIONAL LEAGUE

By UNITED PRESS The Richard brothers, Maurice and Henri, seem to be taking turns harassing their rivals during the early stages of the National Hockey league season.

Maurice raised his regular-season career output to 497 goals with a "hat trick" against the Detroit Red Wings Sunday night and then Henri came through with two goals Tuesday night to earn the Montreal Canadiens a 3-3 tie against the Chicago Black Hawks.
