Red Cross Guides Expectant Mothers

Fort Worth, Tex.—One of the less publicized projects of the Red Cross is a class for expectant mothers such as is held in Fort Worth.

Such superstitions and fears as the false belief that babies are "marked" by pre-natal fright are quieted in the classes and other important questions are answered.

"Doctor knows best" is the slogan of the Red Cross teachers but the nurses do try to give general answers to satisfy curious mothers-to-be.

In general the limit for increased weight is 25 to 30 pounds. More increase occurs during the last three months of pregnancy.

Maternity clothing should be lightweight and attractive emphasizing comfort. Low shoes with stout broad heels give better support, but if the expectant mother has been used to wearing high heels, the shift should be gradual to avoid strain on leg muscles.

The Red Cross says some exercise, rest and recreation are essential and suggests moderate exercise such as light housework and walking. Movies and television are good relaxation and rest.

Eight hours sleep each night is desirable for the pregnant woman. Short work periods during the day should be alternated with 10-minute rest periods to prevent overtiring.

Some women fear that pregnancy will be nine months of illness. But in most cases there are only minor complaints of nausea, heartburn, backache and shortness of breath. For nausea, eating dry crackers sometimes helps and rest will help the other ailments. In the event of prolonged symptoms the doctor should be consulted.

Classified Ad Pages Reveal Strange Facts

A study of the classified pages of a newspaper often reveals facts about a community, it has been said.

Two items in the classified pages of the Middleburg, Va., Chronicle might indicate old Virginia families in the town are having a hard time meeting expenses or the kids have grown up.

Charley Jones Takes City Council Office

Cave Junction — Charles Jones, newly appointed member of the Cave Junction city council, was sworn in by Mayor Carol Banks this week.

Jones' appointment leaves one vacancy on the council. Nominations to fill the post were tabled until a later meeting when Postmaster C. Y. Arnold, a proposed nominee, can get a ruling from the postoffice department on taking a city office.

TWICE IN A ROW

Giddings, Tex. — The Giddings Junior Livestock show and rodeo was called off today because of nearly 10 inches of rain since Sunday. It was cancelled last year because of a severe drought.
