Naked Pledge in Laundry Bag Shocks College Coeds

Lincoln, Neb.—A University of Nebraska fraternity has been stripped of its social privileges because several members delivered a laundry bag to a sorority house. There was a naked fraternity pledge inside.

The incident was hared Wednesday but a school secrecy lid covered the story's details much better, apparently, than the pledge was covered when squealing coeds opened the bag.

According to one report, the hapless youth was seized by his future fraternity brothers, tied up, stripped of his clothes, and put in the laundry bag which was then tied to the door of the sorority house. The incident happened last week.

The coeds, so the report goes, reacted with swift, if misdirected justice. They gave the unfortunate pledge a pummeling, then sent him packing in a pair of girl's slacks.

The incident became known when university officials said they had turned the matter over to the Inter-Fraternity Council.

The IFC's decision bars the fraternity, identified as the local chapter of Theta Chi, from participating in university social events.

University officials, who regarded the prank as something less than amusing, said it was not a part of "Hell Week" hazing which takes place in a couple of months. But they were reluctant to bare any more details.

Neither university nor fraternity officials would identify the students involved. The coeds weren't talking either.

Marie Wilson Bedded By Adoption Debate

Hollywood — Grief-stricken Marie Wilson was reported to be in bed and under a nurse's care Thursday over prospects of losing her 3-month-old foster child to the baby's unwed mother.

The actress was put to bed after tearfully promising to fight with every legal means to keep Christine, the black-eyed little girl she has cared for since she was three days old.

Miss Wilson, her husband—TV producer Bob Fallon—and the infant have a date in court Monday with the baby's mother, Linda Leabow, a statuesque 21-year-old UCLA coed.

Miss Wilson admitted that she agreed to the adoption of Christine by the blonde actress and Fallon, but she said she changed her mind.

"I'm afraid," she said, "that I did not do very well."

Under California law a mother may withdraw her consent for the adoption of a baby within six months after birth.

Little Rock, Ark. — The Little Rock integration crisis slipped back into a tense routine today, with a reduced soldier guard protecting Negro students at Central High school and no end of the deadlock in sight.

The Army flew 500 men of the 101st Airborne Division in Little Rock back to their home base at Fort Campbell, Ky., Wednesday.

The Army's decision to leave 500 paratroopers in Little Rock, besides 1,500 federalized National Guardsmen showed the White House has no intention of relenting on the continued integration of Central.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus said he has no intention of giving President Eisenhower additional assurances that the Negroes will be protected and integration continued if federal troops are withdrawn.

Borris Morros' Wife Requests Separation

Hollywood — Counter spy Borris Morros, 67-year-old former movie producer, today faced a suit for separate maintenance filed by his wife of 34 years, Mrs. Catherine Morros.

In a brief complaint filed Wednesday, Mrs. Morros charged her husband with extreme cruelty and asked for "reasonable" support payments. The suit was filed by famed filmland attorney, Jerry Geisler.
