

Banquet To Open FTA Meet

Thirty Future Teachers of America clubs will be represented at a state convention of the group which will open here tonight with a banquet at Medford High school. Saturday sessions will be held at Southern Oregon college, Ashland.

Several students from each club are running for state officers. Region 2, which is Southern Oregon, is running candidates for president.

Tuesday night the Medford chapter conducted an initiation ceremony in order that new students could attend the convention as qualified members.

Chairmen of the banquet, which will be held at Medford High school at 6:45 p.m. are Miss Marilyn Brown, general chairman; Miss Sharon Wymore, printed programs; Miss Jenine James, serving; Miss Stephanie Anderson, registration; and Miss Sharon Gebhard, program numbers.

Officers elected last year at Portland and who have served as the state FTA officers for the past year are Miss Sally Sterns, Bend, president; Miss Nancy Adams, Medford, vice-president; Miss Jackie Fisher, secretary; Carolyn Heath, Vernonia, historian.

Demonstration On Frozen Foods Given for Group

Butte Falls—Frozen desserts, vegetables and meat dishes were demonstrated for the Butte Falls Home Extension unit by Mrs. Duane Burton and Mrs. Daniel McKeen at Mrs. Burton's home at the last session.

Mrs. McKeen and Mrs. Burton showed how to blanch and cool vegetables, such as broccoli and cauliflower, quickly and then package for the freezer. Speed of preparation prevents loss of flavor and food value, they said. Thorough cooling prevents spoilage in the deep freeze, the demonstrators declared.

Cranberry ham loaf made by placing cranberry sauce in a bread pan and adding a seasoned mixture of cooked ground ham and veal with oatmeal, egg and spice was baked for an hour. The loaf was then ready to cool and freeze.

Apples, the firm winter kind such as ortleys and newtowns, were sliced into a light salt brine, heated, cooled and packed for future pies.

Stuffed baked potatoes topped with cheese, wrapped in foil, were taken from the freezer and opened enough to expose the cheese to prevent sticking to the foil. These were heated in the oven and served to the guests.

A baked Alaska was made with pretzels. The pretzel pie shell consisted of rolled pretzels, sugar and butter. Into this was put vanilla and strawberry ice cream topped with stiffly beaten meringue. The Alaska was oven-browned and placed in the freezer until ready to serve.

New members and guests at Mrs. Burton's were, Mrs. Virgil Conley, Mrs. William Oden, Mrs. George Nunes, Mrs. Burrell Facey, Mrs. William Bowen, and Mrs. D. A. Smeltzer.

Committee chairmen appointed for the year by Mrs. Duane Burton, unit chairman, were: Mrs. Virgil Conley, recreation; Mrs. Henry Tygart, publicity; Mrs. Earl Remsen, hospitality; Mrs. James Arnold, Azalea House; Mrs. Harry Dalton, ACWW; Mrs. William Bowen, program planning.

The next meeting of the unit will be at the home of Mrs. Ted Fredenburg November 7. The subject will be "Credit Buying" and project leaders will be Mrs. D. A. Smeltzer and Mrs. Fredenburg. Women of the Butte Falls and Derby communities are invited.

BPWC Federation President To Be Here for Conference

Mrs. Margaret Gordon, We-coma, Ore., president of the Oregon Federation of Business and Professional Women's club, will speak for the annual fall conference of the Southern Oregon district to be held at the Medford hotel October 19. A dinner Saturday, October 19, at 6:30 p.m. will open the conference and a breakfast October 20 at 8:30 a.m. will close the event.

Mrs. Harriet Watson, past president of the Medford club and district chairman, has arranged the program.

Also present for the conference will be Soo Jae Moon, Japanese girl who is the Oregon BPWC sponsored oriental scholar. Miss Moon arrived in Corvallis and enrolled at Oregon State college in March, 1956.

She had graduated from Ewha Women's university, a Methodist school in Seoul, and had taught home economics in Sook-Myong Girls High school before coming to this country to do further study in home economics.

Miss Moon worked at Good Samaritan hospital in Corvallis this summer as an assistant dietitian. Miss Viola Dietrich, Mrs. Genevieve Collins, Mrs. Muriel Preston, Mrs. Ruth Smith and Mrs. Muriel Burns, are serving as conference hostesses. Mrs. Florence Lance, Mrs. Jean Mast, Mrs. Bert Pree, Mrs. Ruth Simmons and Mrs. Bertha Haskins are the registration committee.

Mrs. Margaret Gordon

Couple Observes 63rd Anniversary

Cave Junction—Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Wilber of Cave Junction celebrated their 63rd wedding anniversary October 9 at their home on Westside road.

The Wilbers believe they are exceptionally fortunate. Their immediate family consists of 83 persons, and there have been only six deaths in the family in the entire 63 years.

Married in their home state of Michigan in 1894, the Wilbers and their four children came to central California by train in 1901. It was not until 1905, after another baby was born, that they took a covered wagon and headed north into Oregon. Five more children made life busy and happy for the family who in the 1920s homesteaded in the Illinois valley.

A variety of hobbies and a lively interest in people help to keep Mr. and Mrs. Wilber and young Mrs. Wilber's bottle house and button collection are well known in southern Oregon, and her husband's wood carvings and pen and ink sketches are prized among their friends and relatives.

Five of their sons and daughters still live in the valley.

The Wilbers have 27 grandchildren and 23 great grandchildren.

Nickel Deposits Topic of Program In Cave Junction

Cave Junction — Mrs. Earl Boyd, who with her husband has worked closely with Nickel Corporation of America since explorations began here, gave an interesting talk on nickel laterite deposits in the Illinois valley at the last meeting of the Federated Women's club. Members and guests gathered at the home of Mrs. Jack Spitz for the afternoon event.

Describing the different formations of rock where nickel is found, Mrs. Boyd said the local deposits are similar to those being developed in Cuba. They differ from the large deposit in Canada in that the latter is a sulphide type ore.

Mrs. Boyd mentioned as an interesting sidelight to the nickel work here the finding of Josephinite ore in the mountain explorations. Discovered on Josephine creek over a hundred years ago, the ore has been sought by miners and rock enthusiasts. Collecting Josephinite is one of Mrs. Boyd's hobbies, and she brought many specimens to display at the meeting.

Mrs. Sam Bunch, another "rock-hound" gave an instructive talk on gem stones, displaying exquisite Rhodinite jewelry. The gem stones came from the Bunch-Floyd mine on Caves creek, and had been cut and polished by Mrs. Bunch, who also told of other cutting rocks to be found in this area.

Taking charge of the business meeting was Mrs. Frank Knight, vice-president, who substituted for the president, Mrs. Frank Rauber. Mrs. John Milburn was in charge of the entertainment.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Spitz and her co-hostess Mrs. Milburn. Mrs. Alice Hogue was introduced as a guest.

The November 8 meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George Simmons. A program on CARE will be presented by Mrs. John Milburn.

Decorators Return To Ages of Past

Chicago — Decorators continually return to "ages past" in planning rooms, no matter how severe furnishings may become, how vivid the colors, how plain the designs.

Exhibitions at the Modern Living Exhibition held here recently did just that.

Grecian, old European, Oriental and early American sculpture and art were used to complement even the most ultra-modern decor.

Grecian accessories were shown widely. Black and white ink sketches of characters from mythology formed the contrasting wall decoration for a brightly-colored modern room.

Ceramic figures of sword-swinging cavaliers, court jesters and Shakespearean-type busts were used for the base of many table lamps beside contemporary furniture.

Most of the table lamps shown at the exhibition were quite large. Many reached to eye-level, although they stood on extremely low tables.

Aztec, Indian and Japanese art were the source for a wide variety of decoration. Silk screens, Indian prints used in room dividers, and mosaic table tops were popular.

Aztec figurines carved from rough stone furnished a striking contrast to contemporary furnishings.

Two wall picture boxes of ancient sailing vessels dressed up another modern interior.

Knights in armor, and battle shields were used as themes for other accessory planning.

Modern adaptation of "praying chairs" were the center of attention in one room. Another room was highlighted by Japanese "birdcage" floor lamps and polished brass "tree" lights.

Square Dance

Central Point — Happy Harvesters will hold a square dance Saturday, October 19, at the American Legion hall, Central Point, at 8:30 p.m. J. D. Lubbers will call, and all square dancers are invited to attend.

Potluck refreshments will be served.

Decorators Use Red, White and Blue For New York Functions Honoring Queen

By VIVIAN SANDE
United Press Correspondent
New York — Queenly notes from here and there in Manhattan:

Red, white and blue show up in the floral arrangements for the three big events in the Queen's day in New York . . .

Red and pink is the color theme at the Mayor's luncheon for Queen Elizabeth in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel. The Queen's table will be covered lightly with smilax, a delicate greenhouse twining plant with bright green leaves, and garlands of red carnations. The four tiers of tables on the dias behind her will be decorated with continuous heads of light pink, rose pink and red carnations. Guest tables, covered with pink tablecloths, will have centerpiece of carnations.

Seven hours later, at eight, the grand ballroom will take on a blue and white look, the color theme for the formal dinner at which the Pilgrims of the United States and the English Speaking Union and 4,000 guests honor Britain's Queen. The color scheme, created by stage designer Donald Oenslager, picks up the blue of the ribbon on which the Queen wears her Order of the Garter. Judith Garden, the floral designer, is using miniature white chrysanthemums arranged in a solid hedge of blue boxes to decorate the three-tier dais tables which will be swathed in antique satin swagged with blue to match the boxes.

The flowers on the dais will be the only flowers in the grand ballroom, but tables in the other five dining rooms being used for the occasion will have centerpiece of white chrysanthemums combined with English boxwood.

Red, white and gold, are the colors chosen by decorator Dorothy Hammerstein for the Commonwealth ball to be held for Queen Elizabeth at the Seventh Regiment armory on Park avenue. She will use red and white roses, 26 crystal chandeliers and flags for her decor.

A high tea will be served in a reception room on the 80th floor of the Empire State building. Besides tea, champagne, cocktails, finger sandwiches, and asparagus wrapped in whole wheat bread are on the menu. Two television cameras will share the Queen's dais with honored guests at the formal dinner at the Waldorf. They will bring, via closed-circuit TV, details of proceedings there to those of the 4,000 guests who are seated in the five dining rooms being used in addition to the grand ballroom.

In the whole of her 14-hour and 35-minute visit to New York, two hours is the longest Queen Elizabeth gets to stay in any one place, and she has just two two-hour stops. One is the two hours she has to rest from the rigors of the day's schedule and dress for the formal dinner at the Waldorf. The other is the dinner itself.

They're toting out the red carpets . . . and looking for more . . . to welcome the Queen to Gotham.

It's a pretty safe bet that never before in the history of New York City have so many red carpets appeared on any one day in some instances in places red carpets never appeared before as will on the Queen's visiting day, Monday, October 21.

The Queen will begin her 14-hour and 35-minute visit to New York City by stepping on a red carpet at Staten Island, where she and her prince will first officially arrive on New York soil at 10:20 a.m.

The Army would like to put a red carpet on the Queen's ferry, the Samuel S. Coursen, which will take her through the harbor to the Battery.

The city of New York will lay a red carpet for the Queen at City hall, and flank it with flags and bunting-bright stands for the mayor's welcoming ceremonies.

The Waldorf-Astoria hotel where the Queen will make her headquarters in Suite 28A where Queen Juliana, Queen Fredrika, Winston Churchill, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor and Harry Truman also stayed, will cover the sidewalk at the Tower entrance with red carpet which will remain there from the time the Queen arrives until she leaves.

Curb to Lobby

The Empire State building is laying a red carpet across the sidewalk from the curb to its 34th street entrance, running it under the revolving doorway to the lobby which will be wall-to-wall red-carpeted.

The Queen will use three elevators to reach the top of the world's tallest building and all of them will have the red floor covering for her visit.

And there'll be a large red carpet at the Seventh Regiment Armory at Park avenue and 67th street, to welcome the Queen to the Commonwealth Ball, her last official appearance in New York, before she takes off for home from Idlewild Airport at 12:45 a.m. Tuesday.

DO YOU LIKE YOUR JOB?

Answer each question yes or no:

1. Do you usually "talk shop" when you are together with co-workers?
2. Would it take more than a week to replace you?
3. If your son wished to enter your work, would you encourage him?
4. Do you suffer nerve-fatigue from your work?
5. Are you usually cheerful when you come home?
6. Do you feel that your job leads somewhere?
7. Do you feel that you are appreciated, and that your boss is fair?
8. Are you in general opposed to a 5 or 6 hour day?
9. If you heard your firm criticized, would you defend it?
10. If your firm paid tuition for courses relating to your work, would you take them?
11. Are you habitually on time?
12. Have you made a suggestion for the improvement of your work? Have you written a "paper" represented your company at a conference in the past three months?
13. Do you think of your present schedule than of your future retirement?
14. Would you like to live near co-workers?
15. Do you think your salary is fair?

New Drapery Prints Have Landscape Scenes

New York — One new group of drapery prints helps solve the problem of decorating wide window areas.

The prints, all landscape scenes, are designed so that each scene is repeated every 96 inches instead of the usual 48. Dolph Moore, who designed them for the D. B. Fuller Co., said the pattern is spread over two panels together for a 96-inch scene. To create even greater sweep, the landscape has been designed on a 30-inch "pedestal"—actually 30 inches without pattern—so that furniture will not hide the design.

All patterns are in Eastman's "Andante," an acetate and rayon fabric for which dry cleaning is recommended.
