

Four Braves On National Loop All-Star Team of United Press

New York — Hank Aaron, Red Schoendienst and Warren Spahn, the three key men in the Milwaukee Braves' march to a world championship, were the only unanimous selections today on the United Press' 1957 National League All-Star team.

A fourth Milwaukee star, third baseman Ed Mathews, was named to the team which also included first baseman Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, shortstop Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs, outfielder Willie Mays of the New York Giants, catcher Ed Bailey and outfielder Frank Robinson of the Cincinnati Reds, and rookie pitcher Jack Sanford of the Philadelphia Phillies.

The team was selected for the United Press by a special committee of 24 baseball writers from each city in the league. The Brooklyn Dodgers and Pittsburgh Pirates were the only teams not represented on the squad.

The voting was close only at shortstop where the hard-hitting Banks beat out slick fielding Roy McMillan of the Redlegs, 10 votes to eight. The other six votes were divided among Dick Groat of the Pirates, Al Dark of the Cardinals and Chico Fernandez of the Phils.

Although sound defensively, the team's outstanding attribute could be actually taking the field in the flesh—would be hitting. The eight regulars walloped no less than 247 home runs this year—an average of 31 per man—and five of the stars hit more than 300.

The top average of course was compiled by the 36-year-old Musial, who won his seventh N.L. batting championship with a .351 mark. Other 300-plus hitters were Mays, .333; Aaron and Robinson, .322 each, and Schoendienst, .309. Mathews hit .292, Banks 285 and Bailey 261.

Red Raiders Bounce Oregon Tech 33-12

Ashland — Southern Oregon college today shared the leadership of the Oregon Collegiate Football conference with Oregon College of Education. Each has two wins and no losses after Saturday's triumphs. The Red Raiders of the Rogue drubbed Oregon Technical institute 33-to 12 Saturday night while OCE clipped Portland State 31 to 6. The Red Raiders were paced by the running of Lee McGill, Eldon Francis and Ron Maurer and the pass throwing of Larry Yarnell. Their defense gave considerable ground but held often enough in the clutch against the Owls.

OTI opened the scoring in the conflict but Southern Oregon came back with second quarter touchdowns for 13 to 6 lead at the half. The Ashland club took a 20 to 6 bulge in the third quarter. The Owls cut it to 20 to 12 before SOC padded its lead in the final stanza.

A 45-yard punt return by Richard Pekala to Southern Oregon 20 set up the first Owl TD. Belfon Ollison went to the last 11 yards.

A 75-yard pass interception rumbuck by Ron Maurer in the second quarter was the first SOC score. A 52-yard screen pass play, Yarnell to McGill, a Klamath Falls combination, was good for the second quarter and Delmar Brood kicked the bonus. In the third quarter McGill skirted end for the last 11 yards of a 41-yard drive for the third SOC touchdown. George Stavros ran the extra point.

OTI marched 72 yards in the fourth quarter and scored on a 26-yard pass play, Charley Gantner to Bill Edinger. The Raiders came back with a 56-yard drive with Lance Locke going the last 15 to the goal on a bootleg. Locke also kicked the conversion. A 28-yard pass play, Yarnell to Cy Perkins, was the payoff of a 53-yard surge to a concluding SOC TD.

Southern Oregon ran the Owl ends well but had little luck through the middle. It was the opposite for Oregon Tech which gained 192 yards on the ground. The Owls bettered the Raiders in rushing 192 to 103 in total net yards 218 to 207 and in first downs 10 to six. SOC outpassed OTI 104 to 26.

The Klamath Falls club completed only one pass against Southern Oregon. It threw only eight and probably was discouraged from more aerials by three interceptions. Pekala, Ollison and Al Everson were the big gainers for OTI.

Civilians Guard East German Border

Berlin — East Germanians to the east-west city border today. Earlier, they detained six West German postal freight cars carrying an estimated 90,000 packages.

In defiance of four-power agreement, civilian guards on the inter-city border were armed with revolvers carried in holsters under their coats.

The civilian guards supplemented police and customs officers who searched travelers in an effort to halt east-west German mail trading.

Actor Errol Flynn, Actress To Plead On Drunk Charges

Hollywood — Swash-buckling Errol Flynn and an Irish-born actress had dates in court today to plead to charges of being drunk at a gay film-land party.

The actor and red-haired Maura Fitzgibbons, 21, were hustled off to jail Saturday night after an off-duty police officer claimed they stole his badge during the screen publicists' ball at the Riviera Country Club.

There were reports that the actor was mad enough to sue someone over the arrest, but his attorney, Robert Ford, said that the rumors were "premature."

"Flynn told me," Ford said, "it was outrageous being arrested for nothing and somebody ought to sue these people and get them in line."

The object of the actor's anger was officer William Friedman, a Los Angeles vice squad officer hired to keep peace at the party, attended by some of Hollywood's top personalities.

Friedman was the officer who took Flynn and Miss Fitzgibbons to jail and charged them with taking his badge after he had asked the actor to autograph a menu for his wife.

Flynn insisted he had not been drinking to excess and he took Friedman's badge and handed it to Miss Fitzgibbons as a "playful joke."

The actor was tossed into the drunk tank and later released on $20 bail. He demanded a "drunk test" but didn't get it.

After his release, Flynn immediately went to the jail where Miss Fitzgibbons was being held and paid her $20 bail on the same charge he was arrested on.

Friedman insisted he attempted to get the actor to give him back his badge but that Flynn tossed a $5 bill at him and told him to buy himself another one.

Tropical Hurricane Lashes Mexico Port

Mazatlan, Mexico — A tropical hurricane roared toward the gulf of Lower California today lashing this Pacific port city with heavy rains and strong winds.

Advance winds of more than 60 miles an hour swept the city Sunday night. The storm was located 90 miles east of Mazatlan at 1 p.m. (edt).

All ships were advised to head for port before the center of the storm struck.

The city's power plant was temporarily knocked out by daylong torrential rains. Many downtown streets were flooded.

A shrimp boat went down three miles south of Mazatlan but all seven crewmen were picked up by another shrimp-boat.

A swallow-proof pin for baby diapers was patented in 1956.

Religious Crusade Almost Finished

Santa Fe, N.M. — Frank Takes Gun has almost finished a religious crusade to legalize the use of peyote—holy tranquilizer and "good-food" of American Indians since pre-Columbus days.

Gun, a Montana Crow Indian, is president of the Native American Church of North America, an adaptation of Christian morality to ageless Indian tradition.

Recently he watched New Mexico change its anti-peyote laws to legalize the eating of the cactus during solemn Indian religious ceremonies.

It was the seventh step in an 11-state campaign to allow the use of the plant as a sacramental ingredient in night-long rites observed by the sect's 14,000 adherents among dozens of Indian tribes and groups.

Peyote (rhymes with coyote) apparently has drastically different effects on Indians and palefaces.

When the Indian eats the plant—in the proper religious setting—he becomes more able to reach God and more spiritually receptive, Gun said. Anthropologists say the Indian may experience color hallucinations and increased senses of power and well-being.

But let a white man try it and he'll get just plain sick.

"When the white man takes peyote," Gun said, "he'll start vomiting and become ill in other ways. But Indians can take it and have been taking it for more than 700 years."

Three Cars Collide, No Injuries Result

Cars operated by Gertrude Emily Heitkamp, 2929 South Pacific highway, and Neil Richardson, 965 Siskiyou blvd., Ashland, and a logging truck driven by Charles Wiley Spence, Trail, were involved in an accident in front of 2929 South Pacific highway Saturday about 2:20 p.m., according to state police.

Police said the logging truck operator, Spence, was cited for following too close. No injuries were recorded in the three-vehicle collision, state police said.

The Heitkamp car was waiting in the left-hand turn lane to make a turn when the logging truck struck it on the fender and shoved it into the north-bound lanes and into the path of the Richardson car, state police reports show.

The attorney was former general counsel for Bonneville Power administration and is now a member of the law firm of Hart, Davidson and Veazie, in Portland.
