

Marriage Rites Held in Historic Church

The ringing of the old steeple bell by one of the attendants put the final traditional accent on the wedding of Miss Sandra Joan Paquin and Edward James Kelly, held in the recently restored pioneer St. Joseph's Catholic church at Jacksonville, Saturday, October 19, at ten o'clock in the morning. It was the first wedding held in the nearly 100-year-old church since it was closed in 1940.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth F. Paquin, Grants Pass, and the bridegroom is the younger son of Judge and Mrs. Edward C. Kelly, 906 West Fourth street. The nuptial mass was celebrated by the Rev. John A. Ilg of Sacred Heart parish, which has jurisdiction of the Jacksonville church. The ceremony, as well as the little frontier church itself, presented many nostalgic aspects that made the wedding unique.

Seated with the bridegroom's family were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Applegate of Medford, who had been married in the church 52 years before. Mr. Applegate was baptized in the church and the couple repeated their vows on their golden wedding anniversary there two years ago.

The bride wore a ballerina length dress of white Chantilly lace over satin, made for her as a wedding gift by a family friend, Mrs. Raymond Byrd. The dress, of Nettie Rosenstien design, had a sweetheart neckline, empire bodice with sheath line front and side pleats at the fitted waist graduated into graceful skirt fullness at the back. A standup lace collar encircled her shoulders and she wore long lace mitts and satin pumps. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations centered with pink roses, and her short circular veil was held by a pearl and crystal tiara.

Miss Sally Ruth Smith of Grants Pass, maid of honor, wore a ballerina length pink taffeta dress with matching shoes and heart shaped pink velvet and lace headpiece. She carried a smaller version of the bride's bouquet.

Mr. Paquin escorted his daughter to the altar and James C. Murray Jr. was best man. Patrick Dugan and Arnold Widmer, who, with James Murray have been close friends of the bridegroom from the first grade through high school at Medford's St. Mary's, acted as ushers.

Philip Paquin and Sam Story, Grants Pass, brother and cousin of the bride, served Mass. The Young Christian Workers choir, to which the couple belong, furnished the wedding music with Regina Hannon at the organ and Frances Thrun directing. Miss Noreen Kelly, sister of the bridegroom, sang in the choir. At the conclusion of the mass the couple went to the Blessed Mother's altar where the bride left her bouquet and they knelt while the choir sang the familiar Catholic hymn, "On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother."

The altar decorations of white chrysanthemums and fern with flower and satin sprays at the sanctuary posts were the gift of Mrs. E. B. Hanley and Mrs. Hanley Heffernan, whose suggestion the young couple followed in selecting the little Jacksonville church for their wedding.

The wedding breakfast and reception following the ceremony were held at the Kelly home in Medford. Around 80 attended. Arrangements of white chrysanthemums and fern, silver candlesticks and white candles were used in the home decorations. Tiny pompon chrysanthemums and maidenhair fern encircled the cake on the bride's table and the punch bowls in the reception room, presided over by Paul Haviland and Mrs. Joseph T. Anthony.

Pouring coffee were Mrs. Lewis Ulrich and Mrs. John M. McCabe, while Mrs. E. H. Hedrick and Mrs. Moore Hamilton assisted Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. Paquin as reception hostesses. Mrs. John Compagnoni cut the wedding cake and serving it were Mrs. Paul Haviland, Mrs. John P. Cooney and Mrs. James C. Murray. Mrs. Francis Heuer took charge of the guest book.

For the wedding and reception the bride's mother wore a sheath dress of Dior blue wool crepe with Ascot grey accessories, long white gloves and a corsage of white spider chrysanthemums. Her contour hat was of iridescent pearl beading. The bridegroom's mother wore a sapphire blue wool crepe sheath dress, matching sequin hat, cream colored gloves and cream shatter chrysanthemum corsage.

Mr. Kelly and his bride spent a week's honeymoon on the Oregon coast. For traveling the bride wore a Windsor blue dressmaker wool suit and matching velvet hat and a corsage of pink roses. They will be at home after November 1, at 748 West Fourth street, Medford.

The bride is a graduate of Grants Pass High school where she won considerable recognition as an art student. She won a scholarship and is a graduate of Medford Beauty college, being presently associated with the Vogue Beauty shop. The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of Santa Clara and is employed in the IBM Department at Bear Creek Orchards.

Among those attending the wedding were the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Agnes C. Kelly of Medford and his uncles, Guy Kelly, Longview, Wash., and Robert E. Kelly, Myrtle Creek, Ore. Others from out of town included Mr. and Mrs. Paul Story, Mrs. Cabot Smith, Mrs. Cecil Boyer, Mrs. Orrie Boyer, Mrs. Donald Baker, Mrs. John Mahaley and Mrs. Oscar Brolin, Grants Pass; Judge and Mrs. L. Peers Wilmett and Mrs. Homer Johnson, Ashland and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Sheehan, Rogue River.
