

Stanford 'Lily White' State To Come Under Fire Today

BY PETER HAYES
 San Francisco — Stanford's "lily-white" status in the bickering Pacific Coast Conference came under scrutiny today when Al Masters, the Indians athletic director, faces an Assembly subcommittee investigating the PCC.

Among others scheduled to testify before the group headed by Frank Bonelli D-Huntington Park are Chancellor Clark Kerr of California, who is scheduled to become university president next year and Rixfor K. Snyder, Stanford faculty advisor on conference policy.

The committee is seeking information on whether collegiate athletic sports in California should be governed by a state commission, Bonelli has termed the PCC "on the way down" and has proposed that an "all-California" conference be formed with the four main schools in this state acting as a nucleus.

The probe is an offshoot of last year's conference scandals which saw UCLA, Southern California, Washington and California heavily penalized for infractions. The first three teams remain banned from the Rose Bowl for various periods as a phase of the penalties.

Bonelli is from Los Angeles County, where sentiment runs strong for the two schools in that area to break out of the PCC.

Clean Bill
 Stanford emerged "clean" from the disclosures of 1956 as did all the Northwestern schools with the exception of the Huskies.

Among those invited to testify Monday was Prof. Emmett B. Moore, PCC faculty advisor from Washington State, but he wrote that he could not attend because of the flu, Bonelli said he would see if Dr. Moore could be subpoenaed but committee counsel Francis R. Ruggieri said that he only probably would attend voluntarily.

Monday's all day session, which is the second part of an investigation that started in Los Angeles and may end there brought out that:

—California has no argument with the $25,000 fine levied against it by the conference for illegal loans to a few players;

—The Bears may secede from the conference if the latter does not go along with a new athletic code that the university, which includes UCLA, adopted last June;

Some Opposition
 —The Association of Independent California Colleges and Universities private schools is opposed to formation of a state commission to regulate their sports.

Greg Engelhard, California's athletic director, told the group he personally was against the fine system but that the Bears legally were assessed because "we were caught with our finger in the pie."

Engelhard also said the Bears "will try and sell the conference a five-point program adopted by the regents last June and if not successful, we'll probably end our participation in the PCC."

Robert E. Burns, president of College of Pacific, spoke in behalf of the collegiate association and said that a commission would "confound and complicate" matters in the sports scene.

Among others who appeared were Coach Pete Elliott of California and Chuck Taylor of Stanford.

BOTTLED UP—Penn's Fred Doelling is hemmed by Navy tacklers after gaining seven yards on an end sweep in the first quarter of their game in Philadelphia. Two of the Navy tacklers are Ned Oldham (27) and Tony Anthony (76).

DeMarco, Akins Clash Tonight In Title Bout

Boston — Ten-round Tony DeMarco, fretting more about the first round, and Virgil Akins, lights-out puncher, turned cautious boxer, collide tonight in a 15-round welterweight "title" fight as muddled as their new styles.

Conditioned to go the distance by the most strenuous training sting of his career, DeMarco, the 25-year-old Boston boy was a 10 to 7 favorite to win tonight— if he gets past the first round.

His 29-year-old opponent from St. Louis ranks one-two with DeMarco as the hardest puncher in the division, but has been working on his left jab and boxing generally in training sessions here.

A controversy blew up when the Massachusetts Boxing Commission sanctioned this as a title fight, ostensibly in accord with a National Boxing Association mandate. Chief opposition has come from New York Commissioner Julius Helfand whose state is the only one not in the NBA.

Russian Surgeons Tell of Creating Two-Headed Dogs

New York — Two Russian surgeons said Monday they had achieved a feat medically equivalent to the phenomenon of the Soviet space satellite circling the earth.

The doctors showed movies to a group of Columbia University surgeons and medical students to bolster their claim that the Russians have created two-headed dogs and replaced the hearts of dogs with a new arterial sewing machine.

Dr. V. V. Kousnov, dean of the First Moscow Medical School, and Dr. P. J. Androsev, head of the Surgical Institute of Moscow, gave details of what they claimed to be a revolutionary achievement in a lecture at Columbia's College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Not Soon For Humans
 They said they did not believe animal experiments such as theirs could be applied to human beings very soon. But they related the case of a woman whose nearly-severed hand was reattached and restored to normal through use of a new device for mending blood vessels.

In the dog experiments, they said, a head was removed from one dog and placed on another. The dog survived seven days with two heads. And a dog that received a heart from another dog lived 32 days, they said.

All this was made possible, the doctors claimed, by the new arterial sewing machine.

The doctors, who plan to tour the country with their "medical fantasy," said they hoped to exchange information with American medical researchers.

Morse, Byrd Lead Senate Dissenters During '57 Session

By Congressional Quarterly
 Washington—(CQ)—Two very different Democrats—Sens. Harry Byrd of Virginia and Wayne Morse of Oregon—established themselves as the Senate's leading dissenters in 1957.

Byrd and Morse took the minority viewpoint on just about one-third of the roll calls where bipartisan majorities agreed, according to Congressional Quarterly's analysis of Bipartisan Support.

The analysis was based on 69 Senate and 41 House roll calls on which a majority of voting Democrats and Republicans took the same position.

Byrd bucked bipartisan majorities 33 per cent of the time; Morse, 32 per cent. Leading dissenters among the Republicans—26 per cent of the time—were Sens. William E. Jenner (Ind.) and John J. Williams (Del.).

Fifty-three per cent of the 1957 roll calls were bipartisan votes, the CQ analysis showed. Bipartisanship was up slightly from 1956, when 50 per cent of the roll calls produced party agreements, but was well below the 1955 level of 65 per cent agreement.

Local Scores
 Senator Morse backed bipartisan majorities on 55 per cent of the roll calls, and opposed them on 32 per cent.

Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D) voted with bipartisan majorities 83 per cent of the time and against them 17 per cent of the time.

The average Republican Senator backed bipartisan stands more frequently than did the average Democrat. The typical GOP Senator's Bipartisan Support and Opposition scores were 75 and 11 per cent; the typical Democratic Senator's 70 and 15 per cent. Absences accounted for the remaining votes.

Similarly in the House, bipartisanship was stronger among Republicans than among Democrats. The average GOP Representative voted with the bipartisan stand 71 per cent of the time, and against it 16 per cent of the time. The typical Democratic Representative supported the bipartisan majority on 69 per cent of the roll calls and opposed it on 19 per cent.

Rep. Charles O. Porter (D) voted with bipartisan majorities 78 per cent of the time and against them 10 per cent of the time.

URGES SCHOOL AID

New York — General Motors President Harlow Curtice has called on the nation's 14,825 largest corporations to help the nation's 82 medical schools through their present financial emergency. # Nautilus Went Near North Pole

Groton, Conn. — The atomic-powered submarine Nautilus traveled within 180 miles of the North Pole during the five and one-half days she was submerged exploring the waters under the Arctic ice pack, the Navy disclosed today.

The Navy said the Nautilus was out of contact with the outer world for 74 hours while nosing her way under the thick permanent ice of the Polar pack.

The Navy also disclosed that the conventional-type submarine, Trigger, accompanied the Nautilus during part of the underwater exploration. The Trigger is the Navy's newest snorkel-type sub. It was not revealed to what extent the Trigger took part in the dangerous assignment, which the Navy described as taking the submarine farther north and at a faster speed than heretofore accomplished by any other known ship.

Rear Adm. Frederick B. Warder, commander Submarine Force Atlantic Fleet, said sonar equipment helped in locating and avoiding submerged ice formations. Also, he said, a major significance of the Nautilus' trip was the fact she didn't have to fight the heavy ice fields normally encountered by surface ships in Arctic waters.

Suit Filed Against Medford Corporation

Burton F. Shults, 64, of 1465 Spring st., Medford, has filed a complaint in circuit court against Medford corporation asking $22,000 general damages and $92.75 special damages plus compensation for injuries received last March while employed by the corporation.

According to the complaint, Shults sustained a severe and permanent injury which disabled him from performing his duties for a long time when an adz struck his left leg March 4, 1957. He charged that the company was careless and negligent in requiring the plaintiff to perform hazardous work with a hand tool at a time when the weather was stormy in an unsheltered area. Attorney for the plaintiff is Stanley C. Jones Jr., of Medford.

Portland — About 250 National Guard and Army officers, including 10 generals, gathered here Monday for the eighth annual National Guard Bureau, Army division conference of the 6th Army area, which includes Oregon, California, Utah, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Arizona, Hawaii and Alaska.

Maj. Gen. Donald W. McGowan said the high ranking group would discuss how to maintain a strength of 400,000 men "without our appropriation."

McGowan, who heads the conference, explained that the guard has been directed to maintain a minimum strength of 400,000 with less money than was asked of Congress.

Argentina Wildly Grooms Armstrong

Buenos Aires — Firemen turned high-pressure hoses on a jumpin' and jivin' crowd of 5,000 Argentine jazz aficionados who turned out to welcome trumpeter Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong Monday night.

The perspiring and disheveled Armstrong said it was the "roughest welcome I ever got."

The demonstrators swirled into Ezeiza International airport, outside of Buenos Aires, and spilled out across the runways when the famed American Negro trumpet player and his jazz combo arrived for a 10-day stay.

The streams of water failed to dampen the spirit of the crowd which had been whipped into a virtual frenzy by a variety of impromptu jazz bands at the airport.

Armstrong waited inside the plane for almost half an hour before braving his fans. With two federal policemen running interference, he dashed into the chating, cheering crowd.

Crowds of visitors continued to flock to the hospital here to view the girls. Visitors can see the quads in their incubators from behind a glass window of the hospital nursery.

A glucose feeding Monday was the first nourishment the quads received since their birth Friday. Physicians said that was a normal procedure in the case of premature children.

The quadruplets were born to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Meier, who live in a four-room house on a 320-acre farm. The couple also have boys, aged 3 to 10.

Washington Run 'Out of Bounds', TV Film Shows

Portland — Films of last Saturday's Washington-Oregon State football game, won 19-6 by Washington, show that Husky quarterback Bobby Dunn stepped out of bounds on a 26-yard run to the OSC 9-yard line in the second period, the Oregon Journal said today.

Dunn's run set up the touchdown which put Washington ahead 12-6.

George Pasero, Journal sports editor, said in his column "Pasero Says," that the film "shows clearly that Dunn stepped on the left sideline stripe at the 21-yard line and was clearly out of bounds at the 17."
