

Men to Prepare Spaghetti Dinner

Eagle Point — Don Pulley, chief cook at the Veterans' Administration domiciliary, Camp White, and his two assistants, C. Miller and N. H. Chapman have volunteered their professional chef's services to prepare a spaghetti dinner Friday, November 8. Serving will be from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. The meal will be cooked and served in the Eagle Point school cafeteria as the one fund raiser of the year for the Eagle Point Elementary Parent-Teacher association.

Harold Jaffrey, assistant manager at the Domiciliary, is chairman for the event, and states that the menu will include a special spaghetti sauce and an unusual salad dressing; dessert will be homemade pies. Committee members and volunteers are parents of students attending the Eagle Point school.

Mr. Jaffrey has announced that entertainment will be provided throughout the evening at no extra charge.

Tickets are on sale at Olsen's Confectionery in Eagle Point or may be purchased from any executive committee member. They will also be available at the door Friday night.

Museum Curator Lays Art Exhibit

Salem — The Oregon State Fair art exhibit may develop into the "most important art exhibit by Oregon artists in the state," in the opinion of Francis J. Newton, curator of the Portland Art Museum. In a letter to State Fair Manager Howard Maple, he added:

"It was encouraging to see the standard of quality insisted upon in other areas (i.e. livestock) applied to the visual arts."

He praised the fine work of Mrs. Terry King, art director, and Professor Carl Hall of Willamette university who assisted in making the art show outstanding at the recent fair.

Also referring to the art show, Dr. Gordon W. Gilkey, head of the art department at Oregon State College wrote:

"A new standard has been established to build upon for future fairs."

Plans to make the 1958 art show even better than this year's exhibit are already under way, Mr. Maple said.

Three men will prepare a spaghetti dinner Friday which will be served as a benefit for Eagle Point Elementary Parent-Teacher association. The chefs will be (left to right) C. Miller, Don Pulley, chief cook at the Veterans' Administration domiciliary, Camp White, and N. H. Chapman, who have volunteered their services for the fund-raising event. The meal will be cooked and served in the school cafeteria.

Sack Look Vetoed by Designer

San Francisco—Stephanie Koret, San Francisco designer, vetoed "the sack look" in her preview of spring and summer fashions for 1958 held yesterday in the Bay city at California National Fashion Press week. Instead Mrs. Koret concentrated on "The California Look," emphasizing gently rounded hip-lines, natural bust lines and the small waist, and "time-saver" fashions.

Many of her dresses are made from totally press-free polished ranchino cotton and cotton travel twill. Cotton knit coats, dresses and separates that practically take care of themselves and after-sundown fashions that need never see an iron, were emphasized.

Mrs. Koret also introduced a group of sports separates in printed polished cotton and cotton lawn. In stunning delphinium blue or hibiscus red tones, the fabric has a lovely "silk print" look. Brand new, too, is her versatile 28-inch cruise coat. Shown in floral damask knit, popcorn and corded travel knit, it can be worn over shorts, a swimsuit, pants or teamed with a dress.

Colors in the collection are eye-catching ones—spicy yellow, brilliant red and turquoise, flower pink, mocha and luscious delphinium blue.

Two press-free sportswear groups are in ranchino cotton—in solid colors as well as print—and in good-looking corded cotton travel twill. The secret of their carefree quality is the exclusive Koraset process, which makes them machine-washable and completely press-free. Even the leg creases in pants and shorts are guaranteed to stay sharp through limitless washings.

Slim pants, shorts in Carmel, classic and brief lengths, skirts, contoured camisoles and shirts were shown in these fabrics. Another sportswear group, which needs just a touch-up with an iron, is in Sharnelle (Arnel sharkskin). Each group has its own coordinated cotton knit shorts, pants, jackets, skirts and T-shirts in a variety of textures including new Birdseye pique weave, floral damask and gay striped and solid popcorn weave. One intriguing T-shirt—shown in several knit textures—has a hideaway collar, which may be tucked out of side to give the shirt a classic V-neck.

For travel and city wear, Mrs. Koret showed a slim travel knit coat over a matching knit sheath, smart Sharnelle suits and cool, sleeveless knit dresses with separate blouses.

Permanently pleated Tricotia (Arnel tricot jersey) styles were featured for after-five. One outstanding dress was a scoopneck sheath with all-around pleated skirt in a rose print. All of the Tricotia styles are washable and need no ironing.

A NEW SAW — Chicago — Plumbing manufacturer Joseph A. Graziop said Monday that what America needs is not a good five-cent cigar but a "bathroom in every bedroom."

Four U.S. presidents before Dwight Eisenhower were able to drive their own automobiles. They were Harding, Coolidge, Roosevelt and Truman.

Party to Precede League Follies

A group of Colony club members and their husbands will gather at the club Wednesday night for dinner, and will later attend the opening night performance of the 1957 Follies of Medford Junior Service league. About 30 are expected to attend the dinner.

A number of other before-theater parties are also being planned for both Wednesday and Thursday nights.

The Follies, given every other year by the league to raise funds for the group's kindergarten for hard-of-hearing children, will be presented at the Craterian theater with curtain time each night at 8:30 o'clock. The show is planned in typical Follies fashion, with many fast-paced songs, dance and comedy numbers.

The show is directed by Robert Stevens of the Jerome H. Cargill company, N.Y. and the costumes are also supplied by that firm.

Tickets are on sale at Barker's, Swem's, the Music Mart and Puruckers or may be obtained at the door both nights.
