Ingrid Bergman, Rossellini Formalize Legal Separation

Rome — Ingrid Bergman and Roberto Rossellini obtained a legal separation in Rome today. The action apparently signalled the end of the "sacred love" for which Ingrid seven years ago sacrificed family and suffered exile from Hollywood.

Ingrid formalized the action in a secret noon appearance before Magistrate Dr. Mario Elia at the Palace of Justice.

A short while later, Ercole Graziadei, the couple's attorney, announced the separation.

The lawyer also released the text of a letter signed by Rossellini and Miss Bergman in which they said they had found "difficulty in continuing life together for some time."

The legal action immediately

Man Goes 2½ Million Miles in Line of Duty

Buffalo, N.Y. — James Bennett started out to earn his living as a school teacher. But he wound up on a job he estimated took him on 2½ million miles of travel in 50 years. Bennett retired at the age of 79 after a half century of employment with the railway Express Agency Inc. He traveled all those miles over railroad tracks in mail cars.

Bennett graduated from the Mansfield State Teachers college in Pennsylvania in 1901. After teaching for several years, he decided on other employment because "the pay wasn't very good."

"As a teacher you only worked seven months a year," he explained. "On the railroad you worked 12."

There is sometimes a difference of as much as 40 feet between the high and low tides as recorded at the station at Windsor, Nova Scotia.

revived speculation of a romance between Rossellini and beautiful Indian movie script writer Sonali Das Gupta, who last was reported in Paris.

Rossellini Disappears

Graziadei said Miss Bergman, scarcely recovered from Asian flu, went to the Palace of Justice and formally declared her legal separation from Rossellini before Magistrate Elia.

"The separation is consensual (by mutual consent), for incompatibility of character," the announcement said.

It said Rossellini left immediately after the visit to the law courts "for an unknown destination."

Miss Bergman returned to the home which she had shared here with Rossellini only since last Thursday after a separation of more than 10 months.

Rossellini went to Paris again during the week end but returned to Rome Tuesday.

The Italian movie director had been in India shooting documentary films during his long separation from Ingrid. In that time, his name had been linked romantically to Mrs. Das Gupta.

He denied any romantic involvements, but Sonali was reported to have preceded Rossellini to Paris before he returned there for a reunion with Ingrid a couple of weeks ago.

Letter Made Public

Along with announcement of the legal separation by mutual consent, lawyer Graziadei issued a letter signed by Rossellini and Miss Bergman in which they said they had found "difficulty in continuing life together for some time."

The letter was dated Oct. 31 and the address was the Hotel Raphael in Paris, where the pair stayed after Rossellini returned from India Oct. 20.

Oct. 31 was the day the couple left Paris to return to Rome together after an 11-day period of reunion that was regarded as a "second honeymoon."

The couple's letter was addressed to Graziadei. It said:

"For some time we have encountered difficulties in continuing our life together. The different directions which our artistic activities have taken during the past two years, have also been affected by differences in viewpoint and interests which divided us and which already had been interpreted in this sense.

Oscar-Winning Movie

"All this has brought us, after long reflection, to the decision to separate for good.

"An unforgettable past, the love for our children and reciprocal profound affection guarantee the serenity of our future relations."

The reference in the letter to an earlier "interpretation" of the factors which finally caused the tempestuous romance to break up apparently was to the announcement of an "artistic separation" which the couple made last year.

Shortly after that announcement was made, Ingrid left for Paris to make the Oscar-winning movie "Anastasia" and to appear in the play "Tea and Sympathy." Just after Christmas, 1956, Rossellini went to India.

Family Chosen To Appear on Posters For MOD Campaign

New York—For the first time in the 20-year history of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, a family, rather than a single child, has been chosen to appear on its nationally distributed March of Dimes poster and coin collectors.

A young Air Force officer's family, the Joseph L. Solomons of Warner Bros., Ga., has been named 1958 March of Dimes Poster Family. It was announced today by Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation. Their picture will appear on millions of pieces of campaign literature and posters. During January, they will make a coast-to-coast tour, appearing at polio fund events.

All Had Polio

Mrs. Helen Solomon and her three children—Joe, nine, and twins Lindy and Sandy, six—all had polio during a single week in 1953, and they have been fighting the effects of the crippling disease ever since. The father of the family, Maj. Joseph L. Solomon, was away on temporary duty with the Air Force at the time.

"As the Salk vaccine makes 'new' polio more and more invisible, the Solomons are a visible, living reminder that the polio problem does not end with the wonderful headlines on declining polio incidence," O'Connor said.

Total March of Dimes aid to the family to date has been over $5,000, in addition to substantial sums the family has spent, O'Connor said. Many more thousands of dollars will be needed for the operations and rehabilitation techniques necessary if Joe and Sandy are to live normal, productive lives.

Since second attacks of polio are possible, all three children completed the full series of three Salk shots when the vaccine became available.

Device Replaces Cheese Makers Taste

Madison, Wis. — Cheese makers' impressions of the taste of their product are no longer exact enough for use in research on ripening.

A report made by two University of Wisconsin researchers, D. G. Vakaleris and W. V. Price, says that a new light-measuring device called the "spectrophotometer" can measure cheese ripening objectively and quickly. The device detects amounts of two cheese protein fractions in the sender, but he's probably a taxpayer.
