

Defense Director Is Speaker For Retired Teachers

Maj. Gen. J. H. Hicks was speaker for the November meeting of Jackson County Retired Teachers' association, held in the home of Mrs. Glenn O. Taylor, 1334 Reddy avenue, November 11. Thirty retired teachers were present.

Clarence Smith sang a group of songs, accompanied by Mrs. Alice F. Willits, Ashland. General Hicks talked about civil defense, saying that during these unpredictable days, everyone should be prepared for any emergency. The general said he had visited many of the devastated areas of the world, and had seen the folly of unpreparedness. The general stated each family should keep in the home a generous supply of staple foods and some containers of pure water.

One of the foreseeable dangers appears to be bombardment by atomic weapons, the speaker added. In that event, the main danger in our area would be the accompanying "fall-out", which cannot be detected by any of the five senses, the speaker said. At the first warning of such a catastrophe, people should seek shelter and should remain indoors until they are told, by the proper signals, that it is safe to go outside, according to the general. If possible, one should warn neighbors and friends of the danger. He warned that no one should go outside, and that that houses should be made as tight as possible.

Refreshments were served by a committee composed of Mrs. S. E. Trent, Mrs. Iva D. Murray and Miss Jane Snedcor. The December meeting will be held in Ashland.

Fashions To Assist Lady With Spare Tire

BY GAY PAULEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
New York — It pains me to report this, but the shape of things to come in fashion is pretty shapeless.

Spring 1958 gives all the breaks to the woman with a spare tire. The waistline, which used to count for some come-hither, won't even show. It got lost when designers re-discovered the chemise, a tubular garment which began its fashion career as underwear. It also is dubbed the sack, and the shift—the latter an archaic word, according to Webster.

Well, as the clothes industry sees it, the chemise was too good a thing to relegate to antiquity.

The fashion group of New York in its semi-annual preview of the new collections, called the chemise the number one silhouette for spring.

The "Sack" Of Paris
Margaret DeMille, co-chairman of the show, said the group's ready-to-wear committee had started out by saying, "after the chemise—what? After all, Paris featured the sack last fall.

But, she added, the committee "after a month of covering the market decided there is no 'What?' It is the chemise."

The fashion group said all due credit should go to the French for giving the chemise a "new look" and "authority." But it pointed out that several American designers showed it a decade ago, and proved it with models parading the runway in a Train-Norell chemise of 1948 vintage; one from B. H. Wragge, 1950; Jeanne Campbell, 1951; Claire McCardell, 1952.

"This shows it is a product of evolution, not revolution," said the group.

One word of caution to the girl who figures that if waistlines don't count, neither do calories. The sack still hugs the figure through the hips.

With the unbelted look for day-time will come longer gloves, stronger accents in jewelry. Skirts will be shorter and heels lower for "balance," said Miss DeMille. "We on the committee find we already have shortened our skirts an inch to two inches," she said.

"For evening wear, anything goes," the committee forecast.

The chemise isn't all tube in the new collections. Some designers featured the "break-front"—cut to look like a two-piece dress in front, one piece behind. Others showed the front fitted, the back an unfitted, fully rounded oval. Still others were semi-belted, the one type which the group said "probably will be the bridge to the true chemise for most women."

Others forecast for spring
Continued popularity for the "blouse," fashion's term for bloused top worn with slim skirt, especially in dress-jacket combinations cut to look like one piece.

Mohair a favorite fabric for spring coats; and a new silhouette in coats, called the "bathrobe" and cut with low-slung belt like its namesake.

Bold colors and bold combinations in both prints and solids. One designer showed a red-orange greatcoat for evening, lined with American Beauty red. Another combined an orange coat, lined in lemon chiffon, with a lemon chiffon cocktail dress.

Lutherans Hold Harvest Festival

The annual harvest festival of Zion Lutheran church held November 15, attracted a record attendance. The colorful decorations in the Scandinavian theme featured dolls dressed in native costumes. A candelabra with five then tapers topped the tiered smorgasbord table. This decoration came from Norway and was loaned by Mrs. Martin Westvong.

Included in the menu were many Scandinavian dishes, such as lefse, fattigman, krumkaker, rosettes, flat brod, swedish meat balls and spiced herring.

Chairman of the decoration committee was Mrs. Frank Kuoni and hostesses were Mrs. William Myers and Mrs. Carl Borg. The tables were served by young women from the Lutheran League under the direction of Mrs. Bernard Neihaus. Those taking part were Misses Loretta Turman, Lynn Peterson, Janice Hillerman, Dianna Kunkel, Barbara Myer, Donna Johnson, Vicki Ingram, Terry Perky, Judy Alder, and Sally Reule.

All circles participated under the direction of the general chairman, Mrs. A. G. Cummings.

Schools Hold Open House In Gold Hill

Gold Hill — Open house was held at Gold Hill schools last Thursday evening in observance of National Education week.

About 150 parents, friends and teachers of the two schools were welcomed by Mrs. Walter Doherty, vice-president of Gold Hill Parent-Teacher association, at a meeting in the unit held at a meeting in Hanby school gymnasium, following open house at Patrick school. At the conclusion of the business session parents and friends went to the Hanby building to visit classrooms and meet the teachers.

Mrs. Doherty introduced "The Singsters," a choral group made up of about 45 fourth and fifth grade students organized a few weeks ago under the direction of Mrs. Norman Gail, school music teacher. In place of the usual invocation, the Singsters sang while the audience remained reverently silent.

Kerby Koopman announced the special music arranged for the occasion.

Other music by the children included a solo by Patty Boye, with the chorus voices in the background. The choir sang a miner's song which was depicted by Ronald Lamb.

Climax of the Singsters' debut came when the youngsters while singing "Smile," used facial expressions and laughter ranging from a hearty to a timid laugh.

Mrs. Doherty, school pianist, accompanied the choir.

The new slide projector was on display and a note of appreciation was read from teachers of Patrick school. The projector was a PTA project for 1956-57.

It was announced that Gilbert Mack, principal of the two schools, has been named parliamentarian by the executive committee.

Members voted to buy Christmas treats for the school youngsters again this December.

Mrs. Doherty appointed a committee to meet with Mr. Mack on the matter of changing one of the organization's by-laws. Named on the amendment committee were Mrs. Allen Hilleke, Mrs. Jack Williams and Mrs. Clyde Kell.

Norman Gail, chairman of the district 6C school board thanked residents of this area for supporting the recent bond election. He stated that plans are underway for building the new addition to Crater High school.

Mrs. Melvin Johnson, ways and means chairman, reported on meeting of the budget committee. Following an open discussion the budget was approved. Serving on the committee besides Mrs. Johnson and Gilbert Mack, were Mrs. Ida von Buskirk, Mrs. Mildred Black and Mrs. Floyd Taylor.

A hand-made washable cotton quilt was on display during the meeting. It is made up of 24 various sized blocks on which are embroidered the names of teachers and personnel of both schools. A large yellow school bus makes up the center of the quilt. About 30 women donated time to make the quilt, and it will be used as a fund-raiser.

Mrs. Vera Steele's fourth grade room won the room count according to Mrs. Edsel White, hospitality chairman.

Refreshments at the Hanby school were served by various room mothers under the supervision of the four hostesses, Mrs. Ralph Hixson, Mrs. Jesse Flenner, Mrs. Ruth Cameron and Mrs. Robert Schmidt, who were in charge of serving the capacity crowd.

Mrs. Paul Molloy assisted the hostesses as chairman of the refreshment hour held at Patrick school.

Programs presented in the classrooms by teachers of both schools were designed to give parents a better understanding of the school work. The students' work was on display in each classroom.

H. P. Jewett, superintendent of schools in district 6C, attended open house at both schools and also attended the PTA meetings.

New Fund-Raiser Project Adopted By Medford Unit

A new plan for raising money was presented to Medford Home Extension unit at a meeting Wednesday in the County Court-house auditorium. The business meeting was conducted by the vice-president, Mrs. W. Naylor. Mrs. E. H. Trefren introduced the new plan for making money for the unit. This fund-raising campaign is scheduled to start January 15, and run for thirteen weeks. Mrs. Trefren was appointed chairman.

Mrs. R. H. Peterson, Mrs. W. Naylor, Mrs. Harry Buckmaster and Mrs. Leland Knox served the noon luncheon on tables gaily decorated in the Thanksgiving motif.

Program chairman, Mrs. R. G. Hunter and Mrs. Harry Buckmaster, introduced for the afternoon program on "Consumer Credit." Stanley Stark of Stark Finance company and Bruce Hammond, assistant manager of the Commercial Finance corporation, both local concerns, were speakers. Following an informative discussion on credit buying, they showed a colored film entitled "The Littlest Giant," put out by the National Consumer Finance company.

Final plans were made for the Christmas party of the unit which will be held Wednesday, Dec. 18, at the courthouse auditorium. Mrs. Naylor is chairman for the turkey luncheon to be served at noon. Decorations and entertainment will carry out the Christmas motif. Handmade articles in cost will be exchanged as gifts.
