

Wood Gives Oregon Edge In Fracas With Beavers

By HAL WOOD
San Francisco — It's "big game" week from Los Angeles to Seattle on Saturday—the last chance a flock of coaches have to "get off the hook" with the alumni this season.

No matter how bad the year, the alumni at most of the Pacific Coast conference schools are well satisfied if they can come up with a victory in the "big game."

At Los Angeles the traditional fight is between USC and UCLA; in San Francisco, Stanford vs. Cal; in Oregon, Oregon State vs. Oregon; and Washington, University of Washington vs. Washington St.

Past performances in these games mean nothing. Anyone making a bet and giving more than one point in either direction just hasn't looked at the facts as presented by history.

For instance, when Coach Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf was taking three California teams in a row to the Rose Bowl in 47-48-49, the Golden Bears always were heavily favored over Stanford in the traditional battle, usually by 13 to 20 points. So Cal wins the first one 21-18; the second, 7-6. The last time USC went to the Rose Bowl after the 1954 season, UCLA gave the Trojans a send-off with a 34-0 shellacking. And Oregon lost four games before playing last year's Oregon State Rose Bowl team to a 14-14 tie.

So take a look at these "big game" selections — but don't bet on 'em:

Stanford over California: Coach Pete Elliott is getting his first taste of "big game" fever, and he can't figure why 90,000 fans would want to see his club with a 1-8 record, play Stanford, which has 5-4. If the Indians kick the extra point, it could be 11-20.

UCLA over Southern California: The West's greatest coach, Red Sanders, has a 5-3 mark against the rojans and off the records the Bruins should win by about 20 points. We'll say 19-18.

Washington over Washington

State: Played on the Huskies' home ground, Washington has the finest set of fancy-stepping backs in the conference. Next problem is to stop the passing of the Cougars' Bob Newman. By 27-26.

Also: Cal Poly over San Francisco State by 20; Fresno State over Hawaii by 13; Whittier over Redlands by six; Pomona-Clearmont over Occidental by one and Arizona Tempe State over COP by 20.

Road Race Ban Favored By S. Hanks

By HAL WOOD
San Francisco — Smilin' Sam Hanks, the crew-cut winner of the 1951 Indianapolis "500," has joined the chorus demanding that "open road" racing be abolished in all countries.

The 43-year-old driver, who will end 22 years of racing on Dec. 1 when he competes in a stock car event at Riverside, Calif., said that he agreed with Piero Taruffi of Italy, who wrote in a national magazine recently that the "dangerous open road races" should be halted. Taruffi is the only driver in history to win all four of the major open road races: In Italy, Sicily, France and Mexico.

No Way To Protect
"There is no way to protect either the drivers or the spectators in open road racing," said Hanks. "This particularly is true of the big races staged in Europe and Mexico."

"However, I believe that races on closed tracks, such as Indianapolis and other tracks around the country do a great service by testing inventions for our pleasure cars."

Hanks, here for an oil dealers convention, said he was quitting at the age of 43 while he was "all in one piece."

"I've been racing 22 years and I feel my reflexes are as good as ever," he said. "But in all my racing I've never had a major accident, never had a broken bone."

Cool Canadian Air Moves Into North Sections of Nation

By UNITED PRESS
A broad mass of cool Canadian air descended over the northern rim of the nation today, causing snow flurries from the plains through the Great Lakes.

At least one man was killed Wednesday night when a sudden, short-lived storm darted out of the cool mass over Detroit. Authorities said at least 15 homes were damaged in a four-block area where high winds battered the east side in tornadic fashion.

The U.S. weather bureau said the storm followed the direction of a tornado tunnel, ripping roofs from houses and tearing garages from their foundations.

Worker Killed
One gust of wind ripped off part of the roof of Chrysler Corporation's Forge plant, killing one worker and injuring 11 others.

Below the belt of Canadian air being fed through the Northern Plains and spreading in all directions, a general cooling prevailed. Nighttime temperatures were "surprisingly" uniform, according to the weather bureau, with 20s common from the Western Great Lakes through the Northern Plains and Plateau states.

Most temperatures in the extreme South were in the 40s, except for Southeast Texas and the Southern Mississippi Valley where warming and a few light showers followed a movement of southerly winds.

Extreme Lows
Extreme lows were reported at West Yellowstone, Mont., 10 below zero, and parts of Colorado and Wyoming, 6 below.

There were several light showers below the snow flurry front along the northern border, and a few sprinkles in the foggy mid-section of the West Coast. Scattered snow flurries occurred in the Rockies and the Central Plateau.

The weather picture today showed generally fair skies over most of the country, excepting the snow flurry areas—the Central and Northern Plains, the Great Lakes and the Rockies.

CLOSELY GUARDED by two 49ers, Steve Junker (88), Detroit Lions, is unable to grab hold of Layne's pass on San Francisco's 24-yard line in second quarter of game at Detroit. Lions clobbered Californians, 31-10, to go into tie for first place. (International)

Hunting and Fishing Southern Oregon

By MEL REES
The "most disappointing season in years" continues to plague Rogue fishermen. The water was too low and clear then came the rains and the water came up and muddy now the river is clear and still poor fishing.

Earlier this week Chuck Planko, river guide, reported seeing many fish rolling in the river but for some unexplained reason they refused the juicy offerings of his customers. Most anglers were sure that a day or two after the clearing would be tops but all reports indicated that if anything the fishing was poorer.

One angler hiked down to Rainey falls and reported that in a couple of hours of watching he didn't see a fish either above or below the falls.

TURN TO ILLINOIS
Many anglers are now turning their eyes towards the Illinois and hoping that it won't be a repetition of the Rogue season which closes with the end of the month.

Encouraging reports are filtering in from the Smith with a number of Chinooks landed. Most of the fish were taken on anchovies but one angler limited with a half-cougar Silver Hot Rod. He also took a large steelhead in the pool below the south fork of the river and reported that this was the first of this kind taken that far upstream.

This would seem to indicate that the steelhead are starting to enter the river and should furnish good fishing in the fore part of December.

HUNTERS LURED
A lot of eager hunters are being lured into the Klamath basin by the news that the "northerners are in!" Most of them on returning are saying that the "northerners" are few and far between. Many hunters are now begining to resign themselves to the obvious fact that the hunting just isn't what is used to be and not too long ago either.

The winter season which is just commencing is by far the most interesting, fish-wise, of any season we have in the Rogue valley and surrounding areas. Although the Rogue, itself, closes from Dec. 1 to Jan. 15, the Illinois usually furnishes some excellent steelhead fishing. If anything, the Illinois is more interesting to fish than the Rogue for it is extremely rugged and for the most part the fish run larger. There are eager Illinois fishermen who have stated that they "wouldn't trade one rock on the Illinois for the whole Rogue river when it comes to winter steelhead."

This may sound a little over-enthusiastic but it gives some idea of the kind of fishing that can be expected there.

RUN TO CHETCO
There are also many anglers who take a run over to the

BONNIES OPEN TOURNEY
Cincinnati — Cincinnati will play St. Bonaventure and Marshall college meets Xavier in the first round of the two-day University of Cincinnati Invitational Basketball Tournament starting Dec. 13. The winners play for the title and the losers meet in the consolation.

Washington — Second-ranked heavyweight contender Zora Folley of Phoenix, Ariz., and Carvin Sawyer of Pittsburgh, a protege of former world champion Joe Walcott, have signed for a 10 round television bout at Capitol Arena Jan. 1.

End to Mass X-Ray Programs Sought
Washington — Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney called today for an end to community-wide mass X-ray programs for spotting tuberculosis cases.

The government's chief health officer said such surveys should be restricted to the "greatest risk" groups because of potential radiation hazards. He mentioned hospitalized persons, low-income groups, migrant workers and persons known to have been exposed to the disease.

Burney urged communities to use the tuberculin skin test as the first step in discovering tuberculosis. Chest X-rays, he added, should be limited to those showing a positive reaction to the skin test.

He sent the recommendations to the state and local health officers. He explained they were based on the findings of a group of medical experts summoned here recently to consider the problem of X-ray radiation and the changing tuberculosis picture.

Marine Fisheries Ask Change in High Seas Fishing by Japanese

Portland — The Pacific Marine Fisheries commission asked Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to urge Japan to change its practice of net fishing on the high seas.

The commission, concluding a 3-day convention here Wednesday also endorsed a resolution urging that a zone be established in the Pacific before the 1958 season in which there would be a halt to all fishing in waters where a large portion of North American salmon are found.

The commission's request to Dulles on Japanese net fishing backed up a resolution adopted earlier in Vancouver, B.C. by the International North Pacific Fisheries Commission which protested against a fishery operated off the Aleutian Islands by Japanese.

Two Alternatives
The U.S. section of the Vancouver resolution said that if Japanese high seas fishing was on the same scale as in 1957 and if it takes as many Bristol bay red salmon the U.S. government would face two alternatives. One would be to close our fishery entirely and deprive Bristol bay fishermen of a season in 1958 to achieve a reasonable escapement. The other would be to allow fishermen to fish seven days a week as the Japanese do and thus destroy the cycle.

The commission is made up of members from Oregon, Washington and California. Other recommendations included: Closure of the petrale sole season from Dec. 15 to April 15; abolish the present closed season on sablefish; study advisability of a winter closure on all other troll fish; ask for more

Convention Delegates Urge Signature
Portland — A telegram from delegates to the 52nd annual convention of the Association of Oregon Counties Wednesday urged Gov. Robert Holmes to sign, at his earliest convenience, legislation removing the state from the property tax field.

Ninety county judges and commissioners have registered for the convention at Imperial hotel headquarters.

The tax measure was passed by the recent special session of the Oregon Legislature and would take the state out of the property tax field except for debt service. The telegram urging the Governor to sign the bill was sent by Judge Raymond A. Lathrop of Josephine county, president of the association.

F. L. Phipps, secretary, said that the present law amounts to a tax on the counties whenever the state tax is levied because counties must remit regardless of their own financial situations.

Moore Schedules Portland Fight
Portland — Archie Moore, veteran light heavyweight champion, will fight Robert Rischer, California state heavyweight king, in a 10-round here Nov. 29. Promoter Tommy Moyer said today.

Gresham Radio Man Killed in Accident
Gresham — Robert Wayne Amsberry, 29, an announcer for radio station KEX, was killed early today when his car left Highway 26 three miles east of here and struck a telephone pole.

Multnomah county police said there were no witnesses to the accident which occurred about 2:30 a.m. Amsberry was driving to Mt. Hood to stay at the cabin of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Amsberry. Police said he may have fallen asleep at the wheel.

Amsberry's car traveled 333 feet after leaving the highway before striking the pole.

Amsberry had been known as "Uncle Bob" on a program he originated for youngsters called "The Squirrel Cage." He also has worked for Walt Disney and was to have worked for him again later this year.

Elkins Ordered to Appear in Court
Portland — James B. Elkins today was ordered to appear in Circuit Court next Wednesday for a hearing on his motion seeking to quash 10 bootlegging indictments returned against him.

The Elkins motion claims that he was compelled to testify in connection with matters that would tend to incriminate him. It asserts that Elkins was indicted in violation of his state and federal constitutional rights.

The indictments were returned at the height of Portland's vice uproar and accused Elkins of committing an act grossly disturbing the public peace, outraging the public decency and injuring public morals.

Lakeview Citizens See Business Boom

Lakeview — Citizens of Lakeview looked forward today to a spurt of business activity on word that the Atomic Energy commission will finance construction of uranium reduction mill near the southeastern Oregon city.

But the Lakeview Mining company which will operate the mill has already hung out a "no help wanted" sign to forestall what the firm feared would be an influx of job hunters.

The AEC announced that a plant costing $2,600,000 and producing 210 tons of uranium concentrate, or "yellow cake," daily would be built by the Lakeview Mining company, which already operates the only two uranium producing mines in Oregon.

Dr. Garth Thornburg of Grand Junction, Colo., president of the Lakeview firm, said the present operation would be speeded up and the present crew of 40 would be increased to 70 in order to increase the stockpile of ore from the mines. An additional 60 men will be employed in the mill.

Dr. Thornburg pointed out that preliminary engineering work must be completed first, and negotiations for a construction contract probably won't get under way until sometime next spring possibly around the first of April.

Flu Epidemic Said Over in Some Areas

Washington — The Public Health Service said today "the peak of the current epidemic of influenza probably has been reached in some parts of the United States."

It said the 780,000 new flu cases were reported or estimated by 36 states for the week ended Nov. 16. This raised to 6,630,000 the number of cases reported since the outbreak of Asian flu last summer.

The weekly total was down 320,000 from the figure reported for the previous week, however.
