

Mr. and Mrs. Paul George Juveland

Home Rites Wed Couple

Central Point—Miss Betty Jo McCann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al McCann, Route 1, Box 572, Central Point, became the bride of Paul George Juveland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Juveland, 585 Bush street, Central Point, in a home ceremony Wednesday, November 6, at eight o'clock in the evening. Officiating at the ceremony was Clayton Crisman, pastor of Medford Friends church. Twenty relatives and friends attended the wedding and reception which followed at the McCann home in Central Point.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a pink satin frock and carried white orchids on a white ribbon.

Mrs. Albert L. McCann attended her sister-in-law. She wore a pale blue dress with a corsage of pink carnations.

Albert L. McCann served as best man. The bride attended Crater High school and is employed by the First National Bank of Portland, Central Point branch. The bridegroom attended Crater High school and is a student at Southern Oregon college.

Historian for the Old Times branch of Southern Oregon College Alumni association is Mrs. Anna Beeson Carter, Medford, who graduated in 1906 from the old Southern Oregon Normal school. It was later discontinued in 1910 by act of the legislature, and not re-established at its present site until 1926. Active in civic and social affairs, Mrs. Beeson is presently coordinating plans with Hugh G. Simpson, director of alumni affairs, for an alumni room at SOC which will feature displays of old time pictures, class flags, and other mementos of historical interest and value.

Turkeys Cost Less This Thanksgiving Than 10 Years Ago

Corvallis—The high cost of living can appropriately go out the window on Thanksgiving day.

While most costs continue to soar, price tags on the traditional Thanksgiving turkey will be 18 to 20 cents a pound less for oven-ready birds than 10 years ago, Noel Bennion, Oregon State college poultry specialist, reports.

This year's big crop of low-cost turkeys comes at a time when average wages are at an alltime high. This puts the high-protein, low-fat holiday meat within the price range of everyone, says the specialist.

Mr. Bennion points out, for example, that in 1947 the average factory worker in this country had to work 29 minutes to earn the price of one pound of turkey—this year it requires only 12 minutes work. The comparison is based on U.S. department of labor reports of $1.24 average factory wages in 1947, against $2.08 this year. Also in 1947, oven-ready turkeys cost 60 cents a pound compared to 42 cents average in 1957.

Bennion attributes the low-cost meat to three things: an unusually large supply of birds, efficiency of production, and automation in processing. Benefits of all three are being passed on to the food shopper this Thanksgiving, he adds.

Pickle Eating Facts Said Astronomical

Chicago — The National Pickle Packers' association has some astronomical gastronomical statistics about America's pickle-eating habits.

Americans eat 114 per cent more pickles today than 20 years ago.

In 1930, the association said, we devoured pickles in the annual proportion of 2.34 pints per person. Today the average is five pints.

The 1930 national population of 122,775,046 men, women and children gobbled its way through 28,712,400 pints of pickles — sweets, sour, dills, gherkins—every kind purchasable.

With the 1956 pickle consumption figures just in, it is obvious that 26 years makes a difference in eating habits.

Last year's population was 166,000,000, and the pickles consumed totaled 829,312,000.

Hawaiian Sandwich Good For Breakfast

Sandwiches no longer are restricted to the lunchbox. And, versatile as they are, there's no reason why they should be. Here's a sandwich that's a natural for breakfast time. To make fried Hawaiian sandwiches, mix 1/2 cup mashed ripe banana, 1 3-ounce package cream cheese, 1 cup crushed pineapple, drained (9-ounce can), and 1/4 cup chopped pecans. Combine 1/4 cup milk, 1 egg, beaten, and a dash of salt in a shallow dish. Spread banana mixture on 4 slices enriched bread. Cut each sandwich in half diagonally. Dip each side of sandwich into egg mixture and brown quickly on both sides in 1/4 cup butter or margarine in skillet. Serve hot. Makes 4 sandwiches.
