Style Show and Tasting Tea To Be Held in Eagle Point

Eagle Point—Fashions from Town and Country shop will be modeled at the Eagle Point Jayettes style show and tasting tea to be held Thursday, December 5, at the Eagle Point Grange hall.

Mrs. Doreen Vaughn will moderate the show and community women, Jayettes and high school girls will model the fashions for the coming seasons. Mrs. Keith Krombeal will play the background piano music.

The show at 3 p.m. will be preceded by the tasting tea at 2 p.m. Refreshments will be served in taste-size portions and recipes will be available of the individual's favorites.

Entertainment will start at 2:30 p.m. with Mrs. John Ousterhout introducing the numbers. Included on the program will be a reading by Miss Yetta Olson, several vocal selections by Miss Barbara Henderson and Miss Margaret Curly, and a group of Blue Birds will sing and give the Blue Bird wish.

Free baby sitting will be provided in the Grange hall lobby.

The event, open to the public, is the annual fund raising project of the group for use in community service.
