In Spain's southern provinces entire communities live below ground in natural caves, the National Geographic magazine says. Their homes vary only as houses do: some have only a single room, others as many as 20 chambers with tiled floors and whitewashed walls.

APPLEGATE VALLEY
Birds Arrive, Fish Leave

By MAUDE ZIEGLER
 Applegate Valley—A strange sequence of events has occurred among the feathered friends at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mitchell on Top of the Hill.

The Mitchells have all sorts of bird life around their place this winter owing to the sheltered feeder built by their young son, Jim, in which birds find suet, cereal, peanut butter, cracked corn, or a mixture of all, flavored with balm drippings.

Simultaneously gold fish began disappearing from the pond near by, and with no tracks nor signs of animal marauders, the Mitchells were perplexed to find 12 gold fish and two catfish disappear. One day the family noticed an owl perched on the premises, and to him goes the blame for the missing fish. It is believed that the fish were endangered owing to a crack in the bottom of the pond, which caused a low water level. Two fish remain.

A grosbeak, which ordinarily frequents higher elevations, has been attracted to the sanctuary, as well as several unidentified species. A flock of blue birds has appeared, and Mrs. Mitchell notes that these friends usually leave in September, not to appear again until spring. Other visitors include wood peckers, robins, wrens, sparrows, blue jays, juncos and others. Mrs. Mitchell notes that many of the birds get into battles, but the lowly sparrows maintain their peace.

Seventy-two pounds of turkey were served at the sixth annual Thanksgiving luncheon held Wednesday noon at Applegate school for 125 guests. Mrs. Una B. Inch, assistant county school superintendent, and Miss Alena Makinen, public health nurse for this area, were invited as were school board members and their wives, including Mr. and Mrs. Francis Krause, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tolle, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Head, Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman, and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hill. Room mothers attended, as well as the teachers and staff. The luncheon was prepared by Mrs. Estelle Nelson, cafeteria cook. Pupils presented a musical program after the meal.

Mrs. Frank Johnston of Huntington Park, Calif., has returned home after spending a week here with her daughter, Mrs. Wilbur Johnston.

Mrs. Virginia Hunsaker of Jacksonville assumed duties Monday as an additional teacher at the Ruch school, teaching the sixth and seventh grades. Her husband, Gene Hunsaker, is band instructor at Jacksonville. The couple came to southern Oregon last year from Nebraska, where Mrs. Hunsaker taught elementary grades at Bird City. She also taught in Wichita and Ogden, Kan. Classrooms at Ruch had been overcrowded, school officials said, and the addition of another teacher raises the teaching personnel to six besides the principal.

Henry Mapston has returned from Hillsboro, where he was called by the death of a cousin.

Ruch Parent-Teacher association will meet at the school gym Friday, Dec. 6, at 8 p.m., according to Ed Ramsay, president. Band students will be heard, and recreation has been planned around contributions to the school Christmas candy fund. Mothers of pupils in the fourth grade room will serve.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Stewart, employed for two months as caretakers at private holdings at Squaw lake, have returned to their home at Hood River.

Members of the Little Applegate Knitting club announces that the December meeting has been cancelled, because several members will be busy with other events.

Mr. and Mrs. John Horner recently made a trip to Eugene, where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Cotey. They also visited in Salem.

Annual Red Cross solicitations are being made in this community.

Man Pleads Guilty To Hobo Slaying

Vancouver, Wash.—Dexter Yates, 38, of Othello, Wash., pleaded guilty Wednesday to second degree murder in the hobo slaying last spring of Tullis Glen Malcolm, 47.

The guilty plea came as a surprise move. Superior Judge J. Guthrie Langsdorf sentenced Yates to a maximum of 20 years in the state penitentiary at Walla Walla.

Yates was arrested in eastern Washington last September and returned to Vancouver for extensive questioning by Vancouver detectives about the slaying. Malcolm's body was found two or three days after the death at a hobo camp inside the north city limits.

Divers Seek Clues To Plane Wreckage

Eglin Air Force Base, Fla.—Divers sought clues today in the sunken wreckage of a B47 Stratofort to help determine what caused the big plane to explode and crash during a practice bombing run over the water range near here.

Three crewmen were presumed dead in the crash. They were identified by authorities at MacDill AFB near Tampa Wednesday night as Lt. Col. Willie P. Gregory, 34, Springfield, Tenn., commander of the plane; 1st Lt. Ronald R. Farnsley, 25, Jeffersonville, Ky., pilot, and Lt. Col. Odie F. Rogers, 37, Central City, Ky., observer.

The biggest part of the wreckage was found in about 18 feet of water in the Gulf of Mexico off the north Florida Coast. Planes and ships hunted for survivors Wednesday after the plane went down, but without success.

The plane was attached to Strategic Air Command units at MacDill and was on a training mission over the bombing range. The Air Force was not able to explain immediately what caused the plane to crash.
