

College Lists Plentiful Foods For Holidays

Deck the Christmas table with plentiful foods — they provide both taste and eye appeal for holiday feasting.

Whether entertaining the crowd at a tree-trimming party, a Yuletide buffet, or the traditional family dinner, it's wise to plan meals around seasonal and abundant foods. Suggestions for shopping for these plentiful are offered by food marketing specialists at Oregon State college through the county extension office.

Headliners on the meat list, they say, are turkey and pork. Supplies of beef are also good. Order ahead to assure size and kind of cuts.

In the vegetable counter, potatoes, yams and sweet potatoes carry attractive prices. Choose the yellow sweet potato if you want a fairly dry one; yams if a moist, orange potato is desired advise college experts.

Plenty of white and yellow onions, brussels sprouts, broccoli, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower and squash round out other vegetable needs. All should be in good quantity and quality at local stores.

Retailers are featuring both frozen and canned peas, providing consumers a chance to take advantage of this year's bumper crop.

As colorful as bright tree ornaments are glowing red cranberries, red, yellow and green apples, avocados, and green and yellow Comice and D'Anjou pears. Citrus fruits in a gamut of golds—from pale, clear yellow lemons and grapefruit to red-gold of tangerines—are other plentiful. Consumers are also reminded of the typically seasonal fruits—pomegranates and pomegranates.

A final tip on another Christmas purchase: When buying the Christmas tree, look for a tree that will hold its needles. Run your hand gently over the boughs to see if the needles feel moist.

Group Announces Christmas Party

Women especially are invited to attend the Christmas meeting of the National Association of Retired Civil Employees, it was announced this morning. It will be held Friday, December 20, at Room 210, Post Office building at 2 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

Sorority Party Set For Tonight At Sleeter Home

Mrs. Mamie Sleeter will be hostess tonight for a Christmas party for Alpha Rho chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. The party is set for 7:30 p.m., at her home, 1715 East Main street. Mrs. Sleeter, chapter director, is being assisted by the chapter's new sponsor, Mrs. James Callan. There will be a gift exchange after the buffet supper.

A meeting December 17 was held in the home of Mrs. Fred Danielson, with Mrs. Richard Henselman and Mrs. Richard Riggs serving as co-hostesses. The program was given by Mrs. Harry Barker and was titled "Poetry into Music." Several Christmas records were played in conjunction with the program.

It was announced that the state convention of Beta Sigma Phi will be held in Salem May 16-18. During the meeting Mrs. William Tycer, president of the chapter, read the rules and regulations and the constitution and Mrs. Richard Henselman read the new by-law submitted for approval by a committee of which she is chairman. Serving on the committee with her were Mrs. Riggs, Mrs. David Legg, Mrs. James Tengesdal and Mrs. W. G. Werner.

Mrs. Gerald True is moving to Portland in January leaving vacant the office of official photographer. Mrs. Barker will fill the vacated post.

Mash a ripe avocado and season with salt, lemon juice and Tabasco sauce. Spread on crisp, hot toast to eat with steaming tomato soup. Looks as good as it tastes.

Altrusans Display Christmas Dolls; Annual Party Held

"Miss Altrusa of 1957" voted the best dressed doll in an Altrusa doll contest held during the club's Christmas party last Friday is now on exhibit in Hadley's window. Surrounding the charming doll, dressed in bright red by Mrs. Esther Mohr, are 27 other dolls, all reconducted from discarded dolls sent into the Lady Lions but now carefully dressed. Some have hand crocheted booties and jackets, some have pinafores, some are dressed as brides; all look new and just right for some little girl who otherwise would not have a dolly for Christmas.

Altrusans, business women and executives have helped the Lady Lions for two years in this project which they consider vital for the happiness of the children of this country.

Mrs. Maude Codding, chairman of the Altrusa project, is giving window space for the dolls in order to interest other women in dressing dolls before it is too late for this year's project.

Adler's own brown hair is worn in what he calls "Mr. John Style," for the noted hatmaker. Formerly known as a Napoleon hairdo, this appears to be nothing more than a crew cut that won't stand up.

If Adler's hair suddenly turns gray on him, chances are it will happen on a Saturday, his most hectic time.

At 11 a.m. on Saturday, he usually starts by hustling over to the Como show to dry comb the girls. Como, a former comb-and-scissor man, attends to other details of the show. Then Adler hops over to the Metropolitan Opera house to prepare the singers for the matinee performance. After this, it's back to Como, time out for a quick snack, back

Stylist Ernest Adler Combs Tresses of Prettiest TV Stars

By FRED DANZIG
United Press Correspondent
New York—With Joe Di Maggio retired, hair stylist Ernest Adler can stake a claim to the old nickname of "The Yankee Clipper."

The 32-year-old native of Boston has the privilege of running his fingers through the tresses of television's prettiest performers and getting paid for it.

His satisfied customers include the 13 girls on the Perry Como show, Patti Page, Patricia Munsel, Polly Bergen, Faye Emerson and the multitude of performers female, who drop in for TV guest shots.

Adler, with seven assistants, heads a strategic hair force that also tucks in or fluffs out the curls of actresses in Broadway shows. "The hair designs for 'My Fair Lady' are my greatest work," says Adler. "They thought so much of hair for that show they spent $7,000 on it," he adds proudly.

Adler's own brown hair is worn in what he calls "Mr. John Style," for the noted hatmaker. Formerly known as a Napoleon hairdo, this appears to be nothing more than a crew cut that won't stand up.

If Adler's hair suddenly turns gray on him, chances are it will happen on a Saturday, his most hectic time.

At 11 a.m. on Saturday, he usually starts by hustling over to the Como show to dry comb the girls. Como, a former comb-and-scissor man, attends to other details of the show. Level of Mediocrity Rising In America, Says Designer

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Women's Editor
New York—Paul McCobb, a leader in home furnishings design, says the year 1957 produced a higher "level of mediocrity" than we've had in years.

"I'm encouraged about the future," said McCobb, who in 15 years of design has won numerous citations. "We had many highlights, and some all too obvious low-lights. But the high-lights won." McCobb said our taste generally is improving. "The level of mediocrity is up."

McCobb, a man who speaks his mind no matter what the results, offered to list for the United Press the good and bad of the 1957 design word, from cars to coffee tables.

Color Proper—Except Cars
"There were some highlights in 1957 not easily recognizable because they had been growing in acceptance previously," said McCobb. He referred to proper use of color, other than in automobiles, noticeable in fabrics, floor coverings and other home products.

"I was delighted to see the comeback of the sky and sea blues," said the designer. "Two years ago in decorating, blue was a dead word. Yet it's one of the basics."

"The island carpet is another of the cumulative design effects... an innovation that creates little focal points of warmth and eye appeal in the home."

"And here, we might mention as one of the highlights, the growing interest in warm, textured woods, such as walnut and teak."

Okay for Haciendas
"Another has been the use of plastics in its true sense, for the new and colorful accessories for the kitchen. And beyond all doubt, the re-discovery of the versatility of aluminum is the beginning of a new and exciting trend. Its cool, handsome look... will unquestionably be further developed... for our homes in 1958."

"Low-lights in design almost always fall into the category of gimmicks," said McCobb. "Its equivalent in furniture is the new pseudo Spanish-Mexican trend, totally unsuited to the demands of our life today, except maybe for the few... who still live in haciendas."

McCobb chastised the automotive industry for its "Christmas tree arrangement of headlights, tail lights, spotlights and the standard affliction—chromitis. Not to mention the decorator-selected three-toned color schemes... conceived by whose decorator?"

Two Oregon Students To Take Rhodes Exams

Portland—Two Oregon students, one from Linfield and one from the University of Oregon, go to Epokane Saturday to compete with 10 others for four Rhodes scholarships.

They are James Gunton from Linfield and David Cass from Oregon. Both are seniors. Cass is an economics major and Gunton majors in physics and chemistry.

Turkey-Macaroni Salad
New York—Leftover turkey and macaroni combine to make a different salad. Add 1 tablespoon salt to 3 quarts rapidly boiling water. Gradually add 8 ounces elbow macaroni (2 cups) while water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water and drain. Combine macaroni, 2 cups diced, cooked turkey, 1½ cups chopped celery, ½ cut sweet fresh cucumber pickles, ½ cup mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon grated onion, 1½ teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon pepper. Toss lightly. Chill and serve on crisp lettuce. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Candy Cane Cars
New York—Handle candy canes with care to keep them fresh and non-sticky. Keep in a cool, dry place until ready to eat or use as decoration, says candy maker Fanny Farmer. Eat within three or four days if you leave the canes unwrapped in an open candy dish. If exposed longer, they will become moist and sticky. When hanging candy canes on Christmas trees, tie a thin ribbon to the crook of the cane without pressure. Do not use wire, wire cord, metallic string or cellophane tape.

HILTS Annual Club Party Held

By MRS. M. F. CAVIN
Hilts—The annual Christmas party of the Hilts Community Card club was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Graves, Dec. 10. A dessert luncheon was served to the 15 ladies present on tables which carried out a red and green color scheme of holly and berries on the tablecloths.

Each table had a candle in the center and candy canes were used as favors. Secret pals revealed their names with an exchange of gifts from under the Christmas tree. Names were drawn for a new pal for the coming year.

Canasta was played with prizes going to Mrs. Frank Ayris, high; Mrs. Malcolm Robinson, second; and Mrs. Joe Caston, low.

Others present were Mrs. Ozie Bernheisel, Mrs. Ernest Spanaus; Mrs. M. G. King, Mrs. Art Hartman, Mrs. Art Blanchard, Mrs. Ethel White, Mrs. Italo Marin, Mrs. Gilbert Luper, Mrs. Fred Haynes, Mrs. Donivan Ward, Mrs. Frank Ohlund and the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tibbles and children of Grants Pass were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gwinn.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wasson and family were Mrs. L. W. Stepp and baby of Merced; and Mrs. M. Clemmons of Los Angeles. Mrs. Wasson and Mrs. Stepp are sisters and Mrs. Clemmons is their mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ohlund have moved from their home on Cottonwood Creek to Yreka to spend the winter months. Activities at the local school for the past week have been getting the rooms and trees decorated in readiness for the parties to be held Thursday afternoon. Gifts will be exchanged by the pupils. School will be out at noon Friday, Dec. 20 for the Christmas vacation, and will remain closed until Jan. 6.

Lloyd Jones of Redding visited friends and relatives here recently.

Dinner guests Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Wilcox and family were Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Wilson and Sheldon Wilcox, all of Ashland.
