

Grange Notes

Upper Applegate Grange

Four candidates, including Lloyd and Marie Louise Nordwick and Forbes and Lila Brown, were initiated into the third and fourth degrees when Upper Applegate Grange held its final meeting for 1957 Wednesday, Dec. 18.

Beautiful tableau scenes arranged by lecturer Gladys Williams, with sister Ethel West participating, were presented during the degree work. Sister Eleanor Ramsey was soloist, singing "In the Garden" and "The Old Rugged Cross."

In the regular business session which followed, the relief committee reported sister Evelyn Williams and her daughter have been ill at their home in Medford. Rolland Smith is convalescing with a fractured foot sustained when he fell some 30 feet from a barn window while loading hay; and Louis Straub is recovering from a crushed finger.

Price trends reported by the agriculture committee indicated an increase of 8 cents in the price offered for beef cattle in 1957 over that of the preceding year, and a 2-cent increase in the price of milk to the producer. In addition, it was pointed out, both dairy operators and cattlemen enjoy a further advantage in the abundant supply of low-priced hay now prevailing.

Letters of congratulation to Upper Applegate Grange for its entry in the 1957 National Community Service contest were read from the National Grange Master Herschel Newsome and State Grange Master Elmer McClure. Accompanying them was a wall plaque for display in the Grange hall meeting room, and a check for $40 from the Sears Roebuck Foundation which co-sponsors the contest in conjunction with the National Grange.

Purchase of lumber necessary to construct benches for use in the dining room was authorized. It is hoped these may be completed in time for the first meeting in January, 1958.

The ways and means committee, composed of brothers George Redhead and Morris Byrne, and sisters Mamie Winningham and Grace Buck, was given full responsibility to complete arrangements and publicity for the New Year's Eve public dance to be held in the Grange hall.

Community singing of Christmas carols led by sisters Eleanor Ramsey and Kathleen Scovell, and a tableau portraying the manger scene comprised the lecturer's program. Participating in the tableau were sister Ethel West as Mary, brother Fred West as Joseph and brothers George Redhead and Omar Culy as shepherds.

Old toys including dolls, doll dishes, a teddy bear, and a zither were exhibited on the display table. A lovely wreath of silver evergreens and cones, the award for the oldest toy displayed, went to sister Grace Pearson for a doll's tea set presented in 1873 to her mother on the latter's sixth birthday anniversary.

The evening concluded with a social hour in the dining room during which the home economics committee served refreshments of gingerbread men, assorted Christmas cookies and coffee at tables made festive with groups of tall red candles in arrangements of silver pine boughs and cones.

Talent Youth Fined In District Court

James S. Cullop, 18, of Old Pacific highway, Talent, pleaded guilty in district court Friday afternoon to petty larceny and was sentenced to one year in jail.

Cullop was also given the right to obtain probation after 60 days.

Two 17-year-olds, one from Talent and one from Ashland, apprehended with him, were referred to juvenile authorities.

They were apprehended by Ashland city police while breaking into a car behind Busch Ford Sales on Siskiyou blvd., Ashland, Wednesday night. Ashland police said the youths took two boxes of clothing from the car and transferred it to their own car when caught.

According to the district court report a charge is pending against Cullop on non-support.
