Many Here For Holidays

Holiday visitors continue to arrive in the valley in large numbers.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Colton, 1619 East Main street, have their son and daughter and Mrs. Colton's mother with them for the holidays.

The Colton's son, Gary, has arrived from San Diego, Calif., where he just completed indoctrination training with the United States Navy. He is on a 14-day leave.

Their daughter, Miss Jacque Colton, student at the University of Washington, Seattle, is also home for the Christmas vacation. Miss Colton, a freshman in liberal arts, is a pledge of Phi Sigma Sigma sorority.

Mrs. Colton's mother, Mrs. Sara Wood, Seaside, Ore., will spend several months with the Coltons. Mrs. Wood visits here often, and has many friends in the valley.

The Misses Nancy and Melissa Jennings are both in Medford to spend Christmas with their parents, Dr. and Mrs. George S. Jennings, Saginaw drive. Miss Nancy Jennings teaches the fourth grade in Oswego, Ore., and Miss Melissa Jennings is a student at Brigham Young university, Provo, Utah. Also with the Jennings Christmas day will be their son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. G. Scott Jennings and sons, Douglas and Scott.

The Jennings' third daughter, Mrs. John E. Bullock, and her husband, Dr. Bullock, are now making their home in Milwaukie, Ore. Dr. Bullock's parents, Col. and Mrs. Fred Bullock, who formerly made their home here, are spending the holidays with their son and daughter-in-law in Milwaukie. The senior Bullocks now live in Solvang, Calif.

Miss Dorothy McGraw, another student at Brigham Young university, has also returned home for Christmas vacation. A junior in physical education, Miss McGraw is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett McGraw, 1650 Grand avenue.

Miss McGraw and Miss Jennings made the trip home with Paul Eckel Jr., who also attends Brigham Young university. He is one of the university's outstanding football players. The student is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Eckel, 2409 Happy Valley drive.

Mrs. Joe Francis arrived in Medford from Corvallis by plane Saturday morning to spend the Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Neathamer, 1119 Jeanette avenue. Her husband, star player on the Oregon State college football team, is in San Francisco training for the annual East-West game. Later he will go to Honolulu to play in the annual Hula Bowl game.

Mr. Francis was recently named winner of the Pop Warner award for being the most valuable player on the Pacific coast for the 1957 season. The award will be presented at a banquet set for January 28 at Palo Alto, Calif.

Bubble Centerpiece

New York—(AP)—Looking for a centerpiece to delight children or amuse adults? Put a handful of moth balls in a tall apothecary jar, an over-sized brandy snifter or fish bowl. Add ¼ cup of vinegar and 1 teaspoon baking soda for every glass of water needed to fill the container. The moth balls will bounce around for about an hour. When they slow down, add more soda and vinegar. The water may be colored for added effect.

Help Yourself to Happiness

Readers are invited to present their problems. All queries will receive individual attention and should be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope, directed to MARY HARRIS SEIFERT, M. A., Department of Education, The AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF FAMILY RELATIONS, 5287 Sunset Boulevard, Los Angeles 27, California.

Are You Really Making Your Husband Happy?

"Of course my husband is happy," you say. "I'm keeping him well-fed, and no top sergeant could run the house better than I do. I do a good job of keeping the children well-behaved. I watch my diet and visit the beauty shop twice a month. I listen to Bob's old jokes, and I never complain when he brings the boss to supper unexpectedly. What more could a man want to make him happy?"

But is he happy? Would you really like to know?

Happiness is a cooperative situation, depending upon environment, friends, material possessions —and you, Mrs. Woman. You have a lot to do with your mate's happiness. Want to check for danger signals?

Is your husband:

1. Usually cheerful, even at breakfast — or is breakfast a time a period of arguing about permission to read the morning paper before the dash to the office?

2. Anxious to please you, beyond the flowers-once-a-year-on-your-birthday routine?

3. Honest with you, so that you feel confidence in his word no matter what the subject?

4. Interested in the children, the home, and you?

And does he:

1. Show that he loves you, so there is no mistaking his meaning?

2. Like to spend evenings at home with you?

3. Present an even disposition?

4. Seem to have many friends?

5. Believe that his marriage is good, and that he would marry you again, "if he had his life to live over"?

Miss Anna Streed Speaks for Session Of Medford Union

Miss Anna Streed spoke on "Fats—Their Use and Misuse as Regards Health," at Thursday meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union held at the Girls Community club.

Miss Streed mentioned that the word "cholesterol" had become more widely known since President D. D. Eisenhower's heart attack as this product found in foods was important to one's health.

Miss Streed mentioned the two kinds of fats, saturated and unsaturated. She included in the first group, butter, cream, lard and suet, or fats that are obtained from animals. The unsaturated fats are those obtained from vegetable oils and cotton seed oil.

The Rev. Rosse Long, minister of the West Main Church of Christ, gave the devotional at the meeting. During the business session the group voted to donate $25 to Miss Verna Cingcade for her work in teaching Bible classes.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. H. G. Wilson, Miss Elizabeth Burr, and Mrs. Ina Renker.

The Delimonts may make their home here permanently.

Filbert Stuffing

New York — (AP) — A different turkey stuffing combines filbert nuts and cognac. For a 6-lb. turkey, chop a medium sized onion and saute in a tablespoon of butter. Mix with 3 cups of fine dry toasted bread crumbs. Add 1½ cups of chopped filberts, ¼ cup butter, 1 cup chopped celery, 1 teaspoon of thyme, salt and pepper to taste. Moisten with a dash of cognac. Rub the cavity with salt and stuff.

When sewing silk, nylon, or rayon, put a pillow case over the leaf of the machine to keep the material from sliding.

Satin leads the popularity poll in evening wear this season. The fabric appears in long ball gowns, short cocktail dresses, and coat and sheath ensembles. Top colors are red, green and white. Satin also teams up with other fabrics, chiefly in bows and cummerbunds.

Clothing Gifts

Don't remove laundry instructions from clothing you give for Christmas gifts. It is very important that manufacturers' instructions be followed for satisfactory laundering of many of the new fabrics. Hundreds of dollars on dry cleaning are saved each year by families who own dryers. Snow suits, leggings, coats and caps can be laundered while children nap. Controlled drying time and temperature help to keep garments looking nice.

Markets Filled With Many Fruits For Yule Basket

Add avocados, persimmons and pomegranates to traditional holiday fruit baskets. They provide taste and eye appeal and can be used in desesrts or salads.

Seasonal supplies of these special fruits are now on Oregon markets, say home economists at the local extension office and Oregon State College. Quality and prices are generally very good. To help homemakers get acquainted with some of these fruits, they offer these brief descriptions and uses.

Avocados are in season the year round with peak supplies beginning this month and continuing through the winter. Giant avocados are especially good buys now, they state. Producers from California, the country's largest avocado supplier, says the avocado crop is better than during the past two seasons. Good news to Oregon homemakers, explain home economists, as good supplies are usually accompanied by reasonable prices.

To satisfy the sweet tooth, persimmons are suggested. Persimmons are about the size of an apple and acorn shaped. They range in color from yellow to red and are usually seedless. When buying persimmons, homemakers are reminded to choose fruit that has fresh looking pale green leaves. Skin should not be broken or bruised.

Chill, peel and eat persimmons plain or with a dash of lime or lemon juice. They're good in fruit and avocado salads. Or use persimmon puree in muffin or griddlecake batter.

Pomegranates resemble a flattened orange in appearance. The top of the fruit has a small crown or petal-like projection. Its tough, thin, leathery rind may vary in color from pale yellow or red to purple. Buy pomegranates that have thin, tough rinds free from cracks and with fresh looking crowns. Seeds should not be exposed.

Ruby red kernels of the pomegranate brighten fruit cups, salads, or desserts. One pomegranate has enough kernels, home economists say, to garnish many salads.

How To Store Cookies

Home economists of the Gas Appliance Manufacturers' association sayt here are two ways to store Christmas cookies — and they are not interchangeable. Crisp, delicate cookies like spritz, butter or sugar cookies should be stored in a can with a loose cover in a cool place (not the refrigerator). Cookies rich in fruit, like filled cookies and soft drop cookies, should not bestored in an air-tight covered earthen jar or can.

Perhaps the first monument erected to a woman in the United States honors Hannah Duston, who was captured by Indians at Haverhill, Mass., in 1697, the National Geographic magazine says. Hannah, another woman, and a boy supposedly killed 10 Indians to make their escape. The statue at Haverhill shows Hannah with her tomahawk in her hand.

Holiday Salad

The old-lace shade of fresh pears combined with the brilliance of salad greens, sparkling persimmons and red grapes make a pleasing appearance for a holiday salad. Fresh pears are one of the best salad fruits, since their flavor compliments both fruit and vegetables as well as seafood, fowl and meats. Dip them in lemon juice as soon as you slice them and you can make your salad in advance without harm to either the flavor or the appearance of the pears.

For this salad use 1 or 2 ripe fresh Anjou, Comice or Bosc pears, 1 ripe persimmon, red grapes and endive or other salad greens. Wash, core and slice pears into 8 slices each. Sprinkle with lemon juice. Slice persimmon and arrange alternately with pear slices on bed of endive. Add grapes, which have been halved and seeded, saving a cluster or two for garnish. Fill other half of salad platter with a tossed green salad. Serve with french dressing. Serves six.

JACKSONVILLE Garden Club Meeting Held

By BETTE HOSKINS

Jacksonville — Jacksonville Garden club met last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Farley of Medford.

Co-hostesses for the Christmas meeting were Mrs. Bernice Jansoky and Mrs. Fred Smets of Jacksonville. The table was decorated with an evergreen and bronze arrangement by Mrs. Leonard McKee. Each member brought Christmas cookies and candy to be used in filling handmade baskets for the patients at the Mitchell Sanitarium in Jacksonville.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Mrs. J. W. Ostrander of 1402 Saling st. in Medford. Her topic was "How Christmas is Celebrated in Bohemia" and of their days of cooking and baking before hand. Miss Clair Hanley read an explanation of the old fashioned Christmas in the States. About 16 members were present for the meeting. Mrs. R. T. Nichol and Miss Hanley poured. A recipe from Bohemia, handed down in her family for many years, was given to the group by Mrs. Ostrander. The recipe was for kolachky cookies, made with 1 cup sifted flour, 1 cube butter or margarine, 1 pkg. cream cheese (3-oz.), cream shortening and cheese together, work in the flour. Roll out paper thin on floured board. Cut into two inch rounds. Spread with fruit jam (takes a cup for this recipe), fold edges of cookie in towards center and press down so cookies won't spread. Put on lightly greased pan and sprinkle cookies with sugar or poppy seed. Bake in 375 degree oven for 15 minutes.

Fred Reisdors is recovering this week at home after a recent stay in the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Offenbacher and children, Gayle and Curtis, moved last week to their new home recently completed on Sterling road next door to Mrs. G. W. Godward, Mrs. Offenbacher's grandmother.

"Jiggs," the Offenbacher's bobtailed family cat, after residing eight years on South Oregon st. takes a very dim view of the move and must be daily transported back to his new home. "Missy," another feline pet with a more modern outlook is quite content with her new domicile.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Burnfiel, of Merriman rd., Medford, will occupy the home vacated by the Offenbachers.

Robert Fox from Saskatchewan, Canada, arrived here December 13 to visit his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. William Iden. They all plan to spend the holidays in San Francisco with Jean Iden and S/Sgt. Dale Iden who will fly up from Waco, Tex.

Funeral services for Hugh L. Martin, a Jacksonville resident, are to be held Tuesday at the Camp White chapel with committal in the VA cemetery at Camp White. Martin is survived in this area by two daughters, Mrs. Omar Culy and Mrs. Willard Moss, both Jacksonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Arlan Hukill have announced the birth of a daughter, Diana Lynn, born Dec. 7.

The Family Council

Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual report. The Family Council does not give advice; it merely reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors.

Victor B.—Should a 15-year-old boy have to do housework?

Mrs. H.B.—But we all hate housework.

Victor B.—I would like to know if a 15-year-old body is supposed to do housework—like washing, ironing or cooking.

My mother went to work recently and she said we all have to pitch in and help with the housework. That "pitch in" stuff is a big laugh. My 10-year-old sister does practically nothing except dry the dishes and my father does nothing except take out the garbage. My mother expects me to do things like peel potatoes, put the laundry in the washer, iron all the handkerchiefs.

I never heard of any boy who has to do jobs like that and I know quite a few whose mothers are going to work. What a life!

• • •

Mrs. H.B. — Victor certainly exaggerates the picture! Sure, I asked him to peel potatoes—exactly once when I couldn't be home in time. I may have asked him to "cook" by putting a light under something I had already prepared. His sister is awkward at these things.

I know these household details are just awful, but they do have to be done and our expenses now make it necessary for me to work for a while. My husband would be willing to help more with the housework, but his job is very exhausting and he is too tired at night.

The trouble is that everyone—including me—hates housework.

• • •

The Council: Mrs. H. B. has put her finger right on the problem—"the trouble is that everyone—including me—hates housework."

Mrs. H. B. cannot expect any member of the family to "pitch in" with goodwill to do a job acknowledged as detestable. The children may have a strong urge to cooperate and to please Mother, but it is inevitable for them to want to pass the buck or to perform their jobs with a chip on their shoulder if they have the feeling that both Mother and Dad are trying to run out on that very job.

Mrs. H. B. should recognize that the first step in changing Victor's attitude should be to change her own attitude. Of course there is drudgery in housework—as there is in any kind of work. There is also a creative side and a pleasantly routine aspect to the work.

This entire family should learn something about the fun of cooking. Victor should do more than peel potatoes or turn the light on under an already prepared dish. If he ever belonged to the Boy Scouts, he would know that cooking can be a delight and a privilege—and surely he knows that the armed forces don't consider potato peeling as outside the realm of man's work.

On the other hand, Victor's sister is by no means too young to handle her share of this work, and his father may find such work relaxing rather than tiring.

Even routine jobs, like ironing can be pleasant if they are done willingly. Routine physical tasks often help the mind and imagination to work better.

We don't blame Victor for resenting drudgery. We do think his whole family is missing a great deal by not learning to enjoy work.

The Bible Points Out Four Ways to Healthful Living

1. Victory over inner conflicts, resentments, fears and worries.
2. By natural means—rest, exercise, nourishing food, etc.
3. By means of remedies, medical and surgical.
4. By the direct touch of God's power. There is a new book that gives a brief treatise on each of these four Bible themes. Look for the book, "IT'S FUN BEING WELL" in Your Favorite Book Store
