Dropsy

Many old people want to know what dropsy is and what can be done for it. By dropsy, they usually mean that their ankles are swelling, especially if they will stay in bed, and especially if they will keep their legs up on pillows, much of the water will run back out of their legs. In severe forms of dropsy, the abdomen is enlarged and full of fluid, and then sometimes it has to be tapped with a trocar, which is a tube with a sharp point which can be pushed through the abdominal wall. In some cases, fluid accumulates at the base of the lungs and in the sac which surrounds the heart.

In cases of nephrosis, a peculiar disease of the kidneys which often attacks youngsters, the whole body may look as if it were in a diving suit, and the face may be badly swollen.

Before a doctor starts to treat dropsy he likes to know what the difficulty is. Sometimes, if he sees a swelling in one leg and not in the other, he will realize that the disease is not generalized but is probably in one of the blood vessels which supplies that particular leg. Or, the person may have what is called lymphedema, which is not a true dropsy. It is due to something wrong with the tiny vessels which carry away the lymph—a fluid which bathes the cells and tissues. Unfortunately, as yet there is no good treatment for this disease. I imagine it is based on a hereditary defect. Sometimes it is in one leg and often it is in both. Sometimes it is so deforming that the poor girl who has it wishes she were dead. In those cases in which the leg is huge, an operation can be performed to cut out the swollen tissue, but it is not ideal, and surgeons hate to perform it.

Some Fluid Remains

In perhaps most cases dropsy is due to a failure of the function of the heart. When the blood is not pumped around rapidly, some of the fluid remains in the tissues. Often, when the heart is not working well, the kidneys also fail, and when the kidneys do not get rid of the excess of water in the body, there is a still greater tendency to dropsy. In rare cases of severe anemia the ankles will become swollen. Sometimes people with big and dilated veins in their legs will get swollen ankles. The person with so-called ascites, or abdomen full of water, generally had a bad cirrhosis of the liver. Unfortunately there is no way of giving him a good new liver in place of the one that is all shrunk up.

In some cases, the doctor is able to help dropsical people by giving them medicines which strengthen the heart and make it work better. Also, he can give so-called diuretics, which make the kidneys work better.

People keep asking what canker sores in the mouth are due to, and hence I will say here again that, in my experience, they are due to the eating of some food to which the person is otherwise sensitive. For instance, one night I were to eat a piece of chocolate candy, tomorrow I would almost certainly have painful canker sores in my mouth, sores that would stay for the next five days. First, a little blister forms; then this turns into a white patch which is painful. Usually, on the fifth day, the pain lets up, and the little place heals.

The way to find out what the cause is is to keep a record of the unusual—not the ordinary—foods which one has eaten just before the canker sore, or a crop of them, appeared. After one has had four or five attacks, all one has to do is to look at the list, and usually the answer is there. One sees that a certain food was eaten before each attack of canker sores.

A Diet For Gout?

Many keep asking how to keep from getting attacks of gout. I think the main thing is to live on a sensible reduction type diet, with just enough food to maintain the person's weight and no more. Experts do not deny people meat, but they ask them not to eat large amounts of liver, sweetbreads, and kidneys which contain the substances out of which uric acid is made easily can be made. Curiously, a man can sometimes throw himself into an attack of gout by fasting, as when he has a cold or has been operated on. The reason for this probably is that then he lives for a while on his own flesh. Fortunately, today there are medicines, that tend to pull a man quickly out of an attack of gout.

Dr. Alvarez hopes his readers will understand that it would be impossible for him to answer requests for information or to attempt to diagnose by mail.

Damage Suit Filed In Circuit Court

Lillian E. Houser, St. Helens, is seeking $15,000 in general damages and $1,505 in special damages from the Doctors Clinic at 1032 East Main st., Medford, as the result of a fall on the sidewalk.

According to a complaint in the Jackson county circuit court, Mrs. Houser caught her toe in "an elevated portion" of the sidewalk in front of the clinic Jan. 10, 1957, and fell receiving severe injuries.

She alleges that the clinic was negligent in not removing the dangerous condition and that it had existed for several months previous to the accident.

Mrs. Houser also charges in the complaint that the clinic was negligent in failing to maintain the sidewalk at an even grade, failing to set up a guard around it, and failing to warn pedestrians.

It is also alleged in the complaint that the clinic violated the charter provisions of Medford by failing to maintain it and keep it in good repair and allowing the sidewalk to become and remain in a dangerous and unsafe condition.

LOW DOWN DOG AWOL

Milwaukee, Wis.—The Coast Guard is searching for an AWOL dachshund, which holds the honorary rank of chief boatswain's mate, which went over the hill here. The serviceman described their mate as built low to the deck and sporting a torn ear suffered in a fight with a land-lubber colie.

Sunnyvale, Calif.—Dr. Margaret Hamilton Smyth, noted California physician and former superintendent of the Stockton Mental hospital, died at a rest home Tuesday at the age of 84.
