News About Servicemen

Camp Pendleton, Calif. — Marine Pvt. Charles P. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Johnson of Star Route, Cave Junction, Ore., completed four weeks of individual combat training Dec. 23, at the Marine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton, Calif.

The course included the latest infantry tactics, first aid, demolitions, field fortifications and advanced schooling on weapons.

Johnson also told reporters the subcommittee, which he heads, will go into the whole submarine question "thoroughly and I trust accurately."

A matter of top concern was the status of the Navy program for development of an atomic sub to fire the Polaris intercontinental ballistic missile when it is perfected.

Guide To Books Now Available In Library Here

A mammoth new reference book, "Subject Guide to Books in Print," which indexes some 91,000 in-print books under more than 22,000 subject headings, has been added to the Medford Public Library, according to Librarian Helen Webster. It is the first time in the history of the book trade, the librarian said, that such a comprehensive listing of in-print books by subject has been published.

The 1,424-page bibliography, published by the R. R. Bowker Company, indexes by subject just about every book that is currently available from some 861 United States publishers. In many cases books cover more than one subject and have been listed accordingly under two, three, or more headings, with more than 28,000 cross references.

The librarian said the reference tool will be invaluable to library patrons who wish a list of books currently available on such widely varied subjects as photography, flying saucers, child care, Mormonism, landscape gardening, embalming, salesmanship and thousands of other topics. Book stores and libraries throughout the county, she added, will also find the "Subject Guide" very helpful.

The bibliography is edited by Herbert B. Anstett, librarian at Franklin and Marshall college in Lancaster, Pa., and Sarah L. Prakkien, Latin professor at the college. It will be revised annually, Miss Webster said.
