Gen. Hicks Plans Talk

By LAURA A. McFALL
Eagle Point — Maj. Gen. Joseph H. Hicks, county director of Civil Defense, will discuss what can be done in case of an emergency, and what should be done about radioactive fallout Saturday, Jan. 11, at 8 p.m., at the Eagle Point Grange hall.

Gen. Hicks attended the city council meeting at Eagle Point Jan. 7. A portable radio was purchased to use for Civil Defense and other emergencies.

Word has been received here that Archie Nelson, Newburg, Ore., son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Stonebraker, was killed in a car accident Dec. 20. Mr. and Mrs. Stonebraker went to Newburg to be with their daughter and two granddaughters who survive. Stonebraker returned on Dec. 27 and Mrs. Stonebraker returned to her home on Jan. 5, 1958.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Frei and family have returned from a three-week visit with relatives at LaCrosse and Camp Douglas, Wis.

The Eagle Point Community Bible church will hold its January missionary meeting Jan. 16 at the home of Mrs. Oscar Frei with Mrs. Darrel Stanley as co-hostesses. The Eagle Point Community Bible church will hold an all church potluck fellowship dinner Friday, Jan. 10, at 6:30 p.m. It is suggested each family attending bring a main dish and salad or a main dish and dessert. Table service should be brought.

Larry Clement and Paul McLean went to San Francisco to attend the East-West game. Then they went to La Harba, Calif., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Wagner and family, former residents of Eagle Point.

Pfc. and Mrs. Bob Kimmel of Ft. Lewis, Wash., were home over the holidays to visit his mother, Mrs. Vera Kimmel, and her folks, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Zimmerlee, of Shady Cove.

The Kimmels held a family reunion at Mrs. Vera Kimmel's home on New Year's Day with Mr. and Mrs. Don Kimmel, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Kimmel, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Kimmel and their families, and Mrs. Charles E. Kimmel's father, Ed Holman, Seattle, Wash., attending.

Postmaster Jim Wallis, Eagle Point, announced that Ralph L. Keesler is taking over Eagle Point route 1 to replace Hans Rammin, who retired Oct. 1. Mrs. Dick Spain has been the temporary carrier since then.

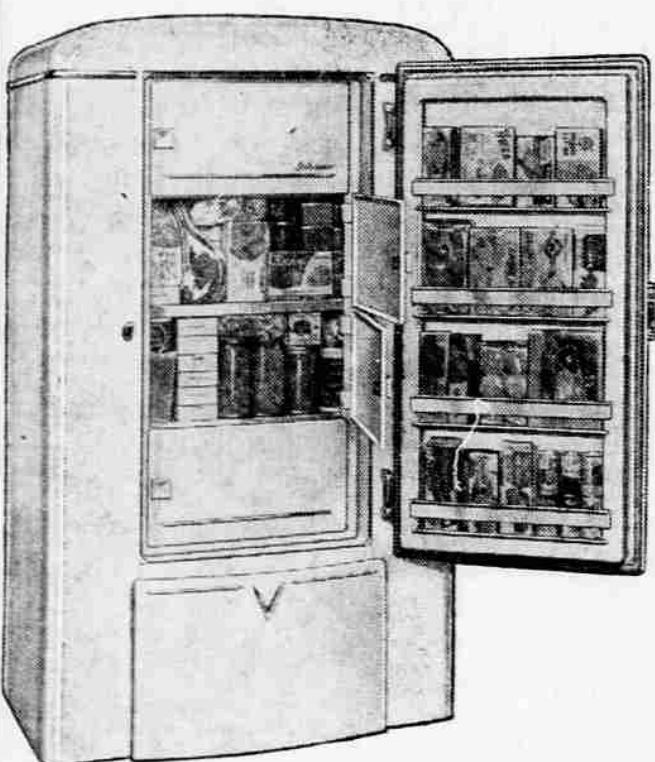

Charles Johnson, Denver, Colo., a disabled veteran, is transferring from the Denver post office to replace Keesler as clerk on March 3.

Vernon Ragsdale has been assisting his father during the recent illness of his mother, Mrs. John Ragsdale, on the Little Butte route, Eagle Point. Mrs. Ragsdale is reported improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake E. Olson went to Vancouver, Wash., Jan. 3 to visit at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Lacey, and daughter, Cindy. Olsen's other son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Girts, and daughters, Dixie and Debbie, of Spokane were visiting the Lacey's at the same time.

The first session of the U.S. Supreme Court was held in 1790 with Chief Justice Jay presiding.

By BENNETT CERF

THERE ARE COUNTLESS stories about Joe Frisco, the stunting individualist who made a fortune starting in night clubs, and lost it all at various race tracks. One of them concerns the day Bing Crosby found Frisco sadly staring into space at a coffee stand in Palm Springs. "What's the matter now?" inquired Bing.

"It's that t-t-third race I'm t-t-thinking about," said Frisco. "I only put $10 on Royal Tiger. I s-s-shoulda put down f-f-fifty."

"Did it win by much?" Crosby asked. "It didn't w-w-win at all," admitted Frisco. "B-b-but it almost did!"

"I'm glad you're going out with Willie," a U.C.L.A. senior told her roommate. "You'll find him a gentleman from the word go."

The roommate returned some hours later, somewhat peeved. "You had Willie just a bit wrong," she reported. "He turned out to be a gentleman from the word stop."

Ford Foundation Plans Educational Facilities Group

New York — The Ford Foundation announced today an appropriation of $4.5 million to establish the Educational Facilities Laboratories, an independent, nonprofit organization concerned with research and experimentation leading to improvements in the construction of school and college buildings.

The new agency also will serve as an information clearing house. Its data on school design, building, and equipment will be available to architects, local school systems, college trustees, and others involved in the nationwide expansion of educational facilities anticipated throughout the country in the next decade.

Members Listed

Members of the board of directors of Educational Facilities Laboratories are Henry Dreyfuss, industrial designer, New York and Pasadena; James C. Downs, president, Real Estate Research Corporation, Chicago; Morris Duane, attorney, Duane, Morris and Heckscher, Philadelphia; Alvin C. Eurich, vice president and director, Fund for the Advancement of Education; Frederick L. Hovde, president, Purdue University; Devereux C. Josephs, chairman of the board, New York Life Insurance company; James L. Morrill, president, University of Minnesota; Milton C. Mumford, executive vice president, Levee Brothers company; Frank Stanton, president, Columbia Broadcasting System; Thomas J. Watson Jr., president, International Business Machines; and Benjamin C. Willis, superintendent of schools, Chicago.

The $4.5 million appropriation from the Ford Foundation will finance the organization for the next five years. More than half of EFL's funds will be used for experimentation in the field of school construction and equipment through grants to educational institutions.

They will also support several cooperating experimental centers that will serve as research laboratories and demonstrations of efficient construction and furnishing of educational facilities. The projects may be in elementary and secondary schools, colleges and universities, both public and private.

Morse Says Race To Lead To War

Washington — Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) said Thursday "I am convinced that the stress that is being placed on the armament race will lead to war."

Morse said "I am strong for adequate defense so that Russia will understand she has everything to lose and nothing to gain from war, but I am also strong for American leadership that will strive to lead the world toward the only hope for peace, which is the beating of armaments into plowshares."

The Oregon senator issued his statement after attending a briefing Thursday by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles with the Foreign Relations Committee. He said "The Foreign Relations Committee and the American people are entitled to know the facts about the disarmament issue."

Morse said the briefing "convinced me all the more of the bankruptcy of the administration's foreign policy. There was not a word in it that showed that the administration recognizes that the greatest need in worldwide foreign policy on the part of all nations today is worldwide disarmament."

Eisenhower Wows House and Senate In Spite of Slips

Washington — It's true President Eisenhower blew some of his lines. By one count he goofed a word or so on 23 separate occasions.

But the consensus of those who heard his State of the Union address was that this wasn't bad for a 5,000 word speech and in any event no worse than Ike would have done one, two or five years ago.

If everybody hadn't known Eisenhower had suffered a mild stroke Nov. 25, with a temporary impairment of speech, nobody would have thought a thing of such slips as Thursday's "civilians" for "civilians," or his back-up-and-start-again on such tongue-twisters as "among our assets, let us first briefly glance..."

Hardly a Cicero Better orators than Eisenhower have stumbled in public on phrases like that. After all Eisenhower was hardly a Cicero even back in 1952 when he was wowing audiences from New York to California with his grin, his charm and his manifest sincerity.

Some of those same qualities showed through Thursday, more than five years and three major illnesses later. For this or some other reason his jampacked audience in the big house chamber loved him right from the start.

They not only stood and applauded. They cheered and roared, more maybe than the Democratic side but enough from both to warm the old soldier's heart.

Ike grinned and beamed. When the first ovation finally was quieted he touched off a couple more by tossing verbal bouquets toward his wife in the gallery (she wanted to join in best wishes for the new year, he said) and to Speaker Sam Rayburn and Vice President Richard M. Nixon behind him (they both were celebrating birthdays this week, their 76th and 45th, respectively).

Then he settled down to the business at hand. He fished his plastic-rimmed glasses out of his outer breast pocket, pulled a clip from his manuscript and slipped a sheet at a time off to the left, gradually unstacking one pile of paper and neatly building another.

The speech was a long one, intended to run about 35 minutes. With 39 interruptions for applause it ran to 43 minutes.

DEATH TAKES PIANIST

Helsinki, Finland — Martti Simila, 59, pianist and conductor, died Thursday at his home in Lahti. He made his debut as a pianist at the age of five and at 14 was male conductor of the orchestra at the Oulu Theater. He was conductor of the Finnish Opera at Helsinki for 17 years and then became conductor of the Helsinki City Orchestra, specializing in the music of Jean Sibelius.

Message Disturbs Sen. Neuberger

Washington — Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.) said today of President Eisenhower's State of the Union message that the President's "lengthy references to proposed cutbacks in non-military federal functions are disturbing."

Neuberger said the American people were willing to assume increased burdens "but not if these are to be used by the administration as a screen behind which to carry out its long-standing desires for gutting, delaying and abandoning federal responsibilities in the nation's economic and social welfare."

BLM Schedules Meeting Tuesday

Portland — A public meeting will be held in the Jackson county courthouse Tuesday, Jan. 14, at 1 p.m. by the bureau of land management to advise the public on 1958 timber sales and road building programs.

Other open meetings will be held in Roseburg Jan. 13, Coos Bay Jan. 15, Eugene Jan. 16 and in Salem Jan. 17. All meetings are scheduled to start at 1 p.m. to allow interested parties travel time between the meeting sites.

Purposes of the road projects and questions from the public on the roads and sales will be answered at the meetings, according to Virgil T. Heath, state supervisor of the BLM. He said the meetings are informal and should not be considered as hearings.
