REMOVE WASTE—NOT GOOD FOOD

Here's a secret millions have discovered about FEEN-A-MINT, the wonderfully different chewing-gum laxative.

FEEN-A-MINT is different because you chew it. It's different, too, because it removes mostly waste—not good food! FEEN-A-MINT does not work in the stomach, where food is being digested. That's why it does not take away a lot of the good food you need for energy.

Doctors know that FEEN-A-MINT works chiefly in the lower bowel...removes mostly waste, not good food! And it's non-irritating, too.

So to feel like a million, chew delicious FEEN-A-MINT. 16 tablets, 35¢—also small and economy sizes.

How to Shop with Children.

Many mothers dread shopping with small children. I know one who uses a little ingenuity to make this chore easier on herself and more pleasant for the youngsters.

Her three children are all below counter height and could easily become lost or get into mischief. So this young woman buys them each a brightly colored balloon and attaches the strings to their belts.

Thus, as they wander about, the balloons bob several feet above the counters, and she can tell at a glance where each one is.—Mrs. I.H., Belle Fourche, S. D.

How to Win a Promotion.

The only man I know who got ahead by stopping was a Korean GI I met during the war. I was driving on a dirt road when I saw a parked jeep with a Korean general and colonel in the back seat and the driver up front under the hood. I stopped to help, but the GI (who spoke English) said he didn't need any.

Watching, I could see that the things he was messing with had nothing to do with making the car run, and I told him so. Then he whispered his story. He said a friend got promoted for fixing a jeep on a lonely road when his commanding officer was in a hurry and, in the last four months, he himself had made four promotions the same way.

I got back into my truck and drove off. That guy didn't need any help from me.—James F. Mara, Las Vegas, Nev.

Two Points of View.

I'm a letter carrier. You know the slogan. "Neither snow, nor rain, nor heat, nor gloom of night . . ." One morning a shower came down and I was drenched. I was feeling pretty sorry for myself as I trudged through water and mud on my appointed rounds when I saw two boys coming toward me. They were splashing in a ditch, laughing and having a big time.

We were all on the same street, in the same rain. Yet I was miserable and they couldn't have been happier. I guess it's in your point of view.—Wilburn Carnes, Albertville, Ala.

A Priceless Heritage. In traveling with my salesman-husband, I usually spend my time visiting sites of interest while he makes his calls. Recently, in a small community in South Carolina, I found a beautiful old cemetery nestled in the heart of the business district. As I strolled through it and read the markers, I found one epitaph that told me everything I should know about a man and his way of life: "Here lies . . . , who left his heirs the priceless heritage of a spotless name."—Mrs. L.D., Rome, Ga.
