Part Appetite Plays In Controlling Food Intake Being Sought

By DELOS SMITH, United Press Science Editor

New York—Science needs some people to experiment with to see if appetite is capable of controlling the amounts of food people eat.

Delos Smith

This is a hypothesis, you understand, which is a word much used by scientists to describe a logical supposition needing to be proved—or disproved.

Scientific studies in the past few years have shown that military cadets spend 17 1/2 hours out of every 24 lying, sitting or standing.

Originally Used Rats The American physiologist, Dr. J. Mayer, originated the hypothesis back in 1954 with experiments with rats which science now considers "classical."

For rats that is light to heavy exercise. And these rats automatically and presumably unthinkingly adjusted the amounts they ate to the amounts of exercise they had had.

But when they were allowed to walk the treadmill for less than an hour a day, they didn't eat less. In fact, they ate more and fat rats were the result. This would indicate that exercise is needed in order to trigger appetite chemistry which, once triggered, adjusts the amounts needed to the amounts actually needed.

These simple, clear-cut facts about rats have stimulated physiologists around the world, giving many the yen to repeat the experiments in people—if only it could be done somehow.

Passmore, reporting to the technical journal, "The Lancet," noted that many of his scientific colleagues say exercise doesn't cause people to lose weight—that exercise promotes appetite which increases food consumption.

But with people who sit or stand around most of the time which most people are said by science to do that probably isn't so, he said.

Weight Reduction Classes Scheduled The Oregon Heart association has announced that those desiring to join a weight reduction class should contact their family physician.

There is no charge for the classes, an annual project sponsored by the Heart association as a public service, a spokesman said.

HORN BROOK Event To Benefit Grange

By MRS. H. H. CHAPMAN

Hornbrook—Announcement was made at the Grange card party here last Saturday evening that a benefit card party would be held next Thursday, Jan. 23.

Proceeds from the party will go to the Gazelle Grange, whose hall was destroyed by fire early this month.

The party was well attended, with quite a number of friends from Montague and Yreka being present.

Mrs. Fred Mills held high score for the evening and Mrs. John Shinar second high.

A surprise bridal shower was given Friday evening at the Methodist church, honoring Mrs. Glen Shinar, whose marriage took place Dec. 16 at the Little Country church of Hollywood.

Hostesses for the shower were Miss Barbara Burns and Miss Mary Lee Rutledge. The buffet table was centered with two white heart-shaped cakes trimmed with pink rosebuds, and inscribed in pink icing with the first names of the newlyweds.

Guests were Mrs. John Shinar, mother of the groom, Mrs. Ernie Pickard Jr., sister-in-law of the bride, Mrs. Ardon Burns, Mrs. W. A. Rutledge, Mrs. Al King, Mrs. Tom Collier, Mrs. Ed Mason, Miss Sharee Walsh, Miss Lillian Rawhouser, Mrs. Ralph Bennett, Mrs. L. C. Walsh, Mrs. Harry Chapman, Mrs. Ben Phillips, Mrs. Lester Nye, Mrs. Mollie Cole, Mrs. David Holland, Mrs. John Griffin, and Mrs. George McCann.

A belated Christmas was observed last week-end by the Ed Smith family. Since part of the family were unable to be here at Christmas time, the observance was delayed until all could be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chapman drove to Williams, Ore., Sunday, where they attended services at the Williams Bible church and spent the afternoon at the home of long-time friends, Mr. and Mrs. Clem Blodgett and children.

Mrs. Chapman lived at Williams a number of years ago. She and Mrs. Blodgett were girlhood friends in Omaha, Nebraska.

Of special interest to a number of people in the Hornbrook area is an article in the current issue of Reader's Digest, entitled "How the United States Has Aided a New Nation." Mention is made in the article of the "100-million-dollar Wheelus field, seven miles from Tripoli, the largest U.S. air base outside the United States."

The Hollywood Scene By VERNON SCOTT, United Press Writer

Hollywood—Merrie Oldé England may march off with the three top Oscars in the 30th annual Academy Awards with Alec Guinness and Deborah Kerr early favorites for best acting statuette and David Lean leading the pack for best director.

Two elements stand out in this year's balloting: Lack of foreign-made pictures in the competition and a strong showing by independent producers.

Inasmuch as the Oscar Derby is very much up for grabs, a morning line has been set down by the betting fraternity. At post-time here are the pace-setters:

Best movie—"The Bridge on the River Kwai," "The Man of a Thousand Faces," "Sayonara," "Paths of Glory" and "Witness for the Prosecution."

Best actor—Anthony Franciosa, "A Hatful of Rain"; Alec Guinness, "Bridge on the River Kwai"; Charles Laughton, "Witness for the Prosecution"; "Marlon Brando, "Sayonara"; James Cagney, "Man of a Thousand Faces."

Best actress—Joanne Woodward, "Three Faces of Eve"; Deborah Kerr, "Heaven Knows Mr. Allison"; Lana Turner, "Peyton Place"; Anna Magnani, "Wild Is the Wind"; Jennifer Jones, "A Farewell to Arms."

Best supporting actor—Ed Wynn, "The Great Man"; Errol Flynn, "The Sun Also Rises"; Sessue Hayakawa, "River Kwai"; Red Buttons, "Sayonara"; Nigel Patrick, "Raintree County."

Best supporting actress—Carolyn Jones, "The Bachelor Party"; Carol Haney, "The Pajama Game"; Sandra Dee, "Until They Sail"; Miyoshi Umeki, "Sayonara"; Diane Varsi, "Peyton Place."

Best director—Joshua Logan, "Sayonara"; David Lean, "River Kwai"; Sidney Lumet, "Twelve Angry Men"; Nunnally Johnson, "Three Faces of Eve"; John Sturges, "Gunfight at the OK Corral."

Battling it out for most awards will be "Bridge on the River Kwai" and "Sayonara."

Biggest disappointments in critical acclaim are "Peyton Place" and "A Farewell to Arms." Out of the running altogether—"I was a Teen-age Frankenstein."
