

PLANNING EARLY MARRIAGE, Actress Paulette Goddard and Author Erich Maria Remarque meet at New York airport after she quit role in Detroit play. (International)

Registration for Classes Is Open

Registrations still are being accepted for adult education classes sponsored by the Medford school system, according to Lindsay M. Vinsel, director of adult education.

He said commercial subjects seem to be popular, but registrations are lagging in some courses offered. Advance registration is necessary, he noted, to determine whether sufficient adults are interested to hold the class.

Residents wishing to register for a class may telephone Vinsel at SPring 3-5341 to enroll. Registrations will be accepted today, Friday and Saturday, he said.

Courses offered include clothing, garment alterations, advanced sewing techniques, pattern making, lamp shade, millinery, cake decoration, general mathematics, advanced mathematics, conversational English, business letter writing, beginning typing, beginning bookkeeping, beginning shorthand, public speaking, radio workshop, Spanish, music appreciation, blueprint reading, mechanical drawing, art appreciation, drawing and sketching, water color painting, sculpture, industrial arts project, show-card writing, children's games, figurine and textile painting, beginning photography, rocks and minerals, electric arc welding, driver training, nurses' aide course, and nutrition course.

Maria Callas Cancels Eddie Fisher TV Show

Hollywood — Miss Maria Callas, who walked off the stage in Rome, has cancelled her appearance on the Eddie Fisher television show here next month. Miss Callas blamed rescheduling of her appearance at New York's Metropolitan Opera for Feb. 6 for the cancellation. She said she will be in rehearsal Feb. 4, the night of the Fisher show on NBC.

10-Year-Old Mother Hasn't Asked To See Baby Born Tuesday

San Francisco — A 10-year-old San Jose, Calif., school girl, who gave birth to a seven-pound boy Tuesday night, still doesn't realize what happened, according to officials at St. Elizabeth's Shelter.

The third grader, of Spanish-American ancestry, was carrying her doll when she was brought to the Catholic home for unwed mothers a month ago. She was delivered by caesarean section.

Dr. Chester L. Cooley, chief of the medical staff of St. Elizabeth's hospital, said both the mother and the baby were in good condition, but pointed out that the girl hasn't even asked to see the child.

"We will leave that up to her, of course," he said. "It's her baby, and if she wants to see it she can."

Asked for Orange
The doctor said the 85-pound mother asked on the delivery table if it would hurt.

The youngest such case in medical annals was that of a 5½ year old Peruvian girl who gave birth some years ago. A nine-year-old Negro girl gave birth in Little Rock, Ark., last summer.

Sister Celestine of St. Elizabeth's said the San Jose girl came to the hospital as a ward of the Santa Clara County juvenile court.

The girl charged that the father of her child was Harry N. Lee, 29, her mother's common-law husband. Lee denied the accusation and pleaded innocent to charges of lewd and lascivious conduct in superior court last week. His trial is pending.

Sister Celestine said the girl's mother may adopt the baby as her own, but said the future of both the child-mother and the baby will be determined by the court. The nun said 61 other inmates of the shelter, all unwed mothers, have made a pet of the child and "mothered" her during her confinement.

"She's had more attention here and better food than she ever had in her life," the nun said. "I think she'll adjust very well."
