

Registration Now Open For Adult Education Classes

A score of classes in as many different subjects are being offered in the adult education courses this semester. Registration for the classes is now open, and first sessions will be held the first of next week.

Of particular interest to women are classes in clothing, garment alterations, tailoring, advanced sewing techniques, pattern making, lamp shade making, millinery, cake decoration, nurse's aide and nutrition.

Also planned is a class in conventional English designed to help the foreign born.

Of general interest are the classes in public speaking, Spanish, music and art appreciation, drawing and sketching, water color painting, sculpture, figurine and textile painting, and beginning photography.

A number of unusual courses are also being offered. Representative of these is a class in children's games and one in rocks and minerals.

Those interested in the classes may obtain information by calling Lindsay Vinzel, director of adult education for the Medford Public school system, at Spring 3-

Fun Night Set By Crater PTA

Gold Hill—Crater High Parent-Teacher association has scheduled a fun night for Saturday, January 25, at 7 p.m. to raise funds for the organization's budget. It will be held in Crater High school gymnasium and cafeteria.

A full evening's entertainment has been planned, according to officials of the unit. Activities for the evening will include a program of sports, including volleyball, shuffleboard, ping-pong, and badminton. There will be tables of pinocle, canasta, and bridge, and films for the youngsters. Ballroom dancing is planned for those who do not wish to participate in other activities. A cake walk will be held during the evening.

A small charge per person or by families will be made. Each family is to bring pie, cake, or sandwiches to be sold during the evening. Funds derived from these items will benefit the PTA.

Triumph Credited To Callas

By ROBERT CRAM
United Press Correspondent
Chicago — Tempestuous Marie Meneghini Callas scored one of the greatest triumphs of her career Wednesday night, overcoming a case of nerves to sing seven arias and captivate a Chicago audience.

The prima donna, admitting she was "nervous but happy," appeared near the breaking point when she was rushed by photographers shortly before going on stage, but she suddenly relaxed and her performance came off smoothly.

A sell-out-crowd of 3,800 persons, many of them socialites, jammed the opera house for the Alliance Francaise benefit performance, and she received a standing ovation necessitating more than a dozen curtain calls at the end.

Triumphant return
It was a triumphant return for the temperamental Mme. Callas who began her operatic career in Chicago and once vowed never to appear here again after a hassle with process servers.

The performance also was considered a stern test for the Brooklyn born beauty, coming as it did on the heels of a near riot she touched off in Rome three weeks ago when she quit after the first act of Norma.

Chicago critics lauded her performance in glowing terms. Don Henahan of the Chicago Daily News wrote:

"Maria Meneghini Callas can still cut the mustard as an opera singer.

"The applause was justified, too. No opera singer in active duty today can seize an audience's imagination and command its respect as completely as Marie Callas did here. Not always a triumph of pure vocalism, her performance was great theater.

Still The Queen
"Marie Callas is still queen of that strange kingdom: grand opera."

Claudia Cassidy of the Chicago Tribune called Mme. Callas' singing "magnificent."

"She has a marvelous technique, a deeply probing, vividly projected sense of drama, and the widest range of any singer I have known."

The Callas program was changed at the last minute, and included three arias by Verdi and one each by Boito, Mozart and Rossini.

The climax came in her final aria of the night, the "Mad Scene" from "Hamlet" by Thomas.

After the performance, Maria smiled through tears and said "I'm very happy. Now I can sleep again."

Skiers Leave
A group of six ski enthusiasts left today to spend a week at Sun Valley in Idaho. They are making the trip by car.

In the group are Miss Lynn Williams, William Brooks, Howard Dugan, William Moffat, Robert Bills and William Patton.

Anchovy Chip Dip
For a tempting dip mixture use 2 tablespoons anchovy paste, 1/2 cup minced onion, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar, 1/2 cup dairy sour cream, 1 cup mayonnaise and 1/2 cup finely chopped parsley. Combined all ingredients and mix well. Use as a dip for crackers or potato chips.

Cotton Knit Has Wardrobe Answer

Cotton knits this year answer wardrobe needs for every hour and any occasion. They pack easily and unpack and primp up at a minute's notice, reports the National Cotton Council.

Cotton knits spell high fashion and versatility at easy prices. This season, cotton knits have a dual-personality for double-duty action. They are styled for at-home and play; for town and work and for dates. Striped, dotted, textured and flowered, cotton knits are an important trend in American sportswear.

The ensemble is smart in a ribbed cotton knit chemise with matching Chesterfield coat. Printed cotton knit jackets too solid or printed knit skirts. Even plaid cotton knits are a refreshing addition in soft pastel-colored pants and overblouse coordinates that are worn with a middy-styled jacket.

All kinds of styles and colors are featured for the women who like to mix, match, pair-off and interchange her wardrobe. Half-belted, bloused, buttoned or bowed, cotton knits have an individuality all their own.

As a striped chemise day dress sporting a front half-belt, cotton knit looks smart for daytime. It looks right for after five in a matelasse knit.

Callers Announce Spring Jamboree

A spring square dance jamboree will be held in Medford Saturday and Sunday, March 29 and 30, Ray Hagemann, president of the Southern Oregon Square Dance Callers association, has announced. The association is sponsoring the event.

Dances will be held at Hedrick Junior High school Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon. Saturday dances will be called by members of the callers association, and the group is attempting to obtain out-of-town callers for Sunday afternoon's dance.

Callers or dancers who have extra rooms available for out-of-town callers have been asked to contact Mrs. Kenneth Hood, Medford.

Among other events being planned is a no-host breakfast, Mrs. Hagemann said.

Students Listed On Honor Roll

Corvallis — Ten students from Medford, two from Central Point, and one from Gold Hill are listed on the fall term scholastic honor roll released by Oregon State coll ge.

Medford students listed are Robert F. Kennedy, Karl D. Cummings, James R. Welty, Kenneth R. Arnold, Charles E. Bray, Meredith F. Martin, Stanley M. Purcell, Orlin M. Stansfield, Jack L. Terzenbach and Daniel B. Voorhies.

Listed from Central Point are Miss Sally J. Elden and Miss Linda M. Obenchain. Mrs. Gail P. Smith is listed from Gold Hill.

To be eligible for honor roll listing, students must have at least a B plus average for the term.

Kennedy, Cummings, Welty and Mrs. Smith were singled out for special mention as four of only 69 students making straight-A grades.

New Yorker Seeks Members For Anti-Chemise Society

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Women's Editor
New York — Man in our office is so wrought up about the sack look for us females in '58 he's formed the "Society For Preservation of the Female Shape as Nature Shaped It."

No dues. A man can be married or single. Only one special membership requirement — to join, you must loathe the sack, or what some parts of the dress industry call the chemise or shift. I'll relay all inquiries.

Said irate and married, founder of the society today: "Ever since I realized that the return of the sack look was not a gag, I've been toying with the idea of instituting a national movement of organized revolution by the

Roxy Ann Court Initiates Three; Smorgasbord Set

The program for the last meeting of Roxy Ann court, Order of Amaranth, included initiation, honors for past matrons and patrons, and final plans for the seven annual smorgasbord. The smorgasbord is set for Sunday, January 26, in the dining room of the Masonic temple and tickets may be obtained from Fred Purdin or any member of the court.

Mrs. Vernon Turpin, royal matron, and Ole Skoog, royal patron, presided over the session.

Mrs. Sam Mallon, Mrs. Harley Dressler and George Wimer, with Mrs. Wimer as courtesy candidate, were initiated into the order. An adjournment was given for past royal matrons and patrons; handmade handkerchiefs, corsages were presented to the ladies and handkerchieves to the men. Fred Graten, accompanied by Mrs. Elizabeth Dressler, sang a solo in their honor. Greetings were extended by the Royal matron. Past royal matrons and patrons present and so honored were Mrs. Elton Waldron, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Linn, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoppe, Mrs. George Rehart, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Canfield, Jack Kennedy, Clarence Harwood, all of Roxy Ann court; Mrs. Hazel Harrison, Mrs. Lena Miller of Tacoma, Wash. Courts, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gilbert of Honeylake court, Sacramento, Calif.

Refreshments were served in the dining room after the meeting by Mr. and Mrs. Melvin McGrew, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Graten and Mrs. Lena Miller.

The smorgasbord will be served from 12 to 5 p.m. Sunday, January 26, in the dining room of the Masonic Temple and tickets may be obtained from Fred Purdin or any member of the court.

Mrs. Marshall Day and Mr. Purdin, associate matron and patron are general chairman, assisted by Mrs. Frank Little, chairman of the kitchen, Mrs. Frank Salyers, chairman of the dining room and Mrs. Iris Peirce, table chairman. All members of the court are asked to bring salads ready to serve.

Students, Parents Talk Code

Eagle Point — "Students and parents should inform each other of their whereabouts while away from home. Parents should know what their sons and daughters are doing and with whom they are spending their time, and should also know what time their young people return home. A proper attitude consisting of cooperation, respect and love should exist between parents and youth."

This first basic rule quoted from the Oregon Code of High School Students was presented as the foundation for a student panel discussion at the January meeting of the Eagle Point High School Parent-Teacher-Student association.

Miss Sandra Farlow, Miss Phyllis Briggs, Dick Schauble and Duane Anderson were the student panel members who had represented this school at the governor's conference for youth held in Salem recently.

Panel members discussed parent-youth planning, home entertaining, citizenship, general dating and hours, driving and state curfew, liquor and tobacco laws. During a question and answer period that followed, it was brought out that youth ethics concerning these subjects reverts back to the basic rule of parent-youth understanding.

Charles Martin, music instructor, presented a preview of the opera, "Singing Freshmen," which will be given Thursday, January 23, in the elementary school gymnasium at 8 p.m. Barbara Henderson and Bill Pfeifer, who hold the leading roles, sang a selection from the production; they were accompanied at the piano by Georgia Weidman.

A nominating committee was elected to select a slate of names for officers to be elected at the March meeting. Mrs. Carl Webb and Mrs. Ed Gray, Eagle Point, and Mrs. Caroline Chubb from Shady Cove were elected as committee members; Mrs. Raymond Tresham and Mrs. Edna Cunningham will serve as alternates.

William T. J. Andrews, president, announced that Mrs. Dale Ackerman is moving from the community, and Clarence Davies has consented to fill her unexpired term as parliamentarian.

Mrs. Ackerman gave a report from Jackson County Council of Parent-Teacher associations explaining tuition scholarships that are available to high school graduates.

The assembly adjourned to the gymnasium where Gail Schoppert's tumbling classes gave a demonstration. All of Mr. Schoppert's tumbling groups were represented, both boys' and girls' classes, in a display of the variety of abilities learned.

Refreshments were served in the home economics room by parents of students from the Shady Cove area.

down-trodden males of the republic.

"I have yet to find a man look."

"I went to a party the other night," he continued, "where a woman guest wore one of those things—straight all the way from shoulders to hem.

"I said it was a nice dress when she asked me, but I had my fingers crossed. She looked like a mental patient."

"I'm convinced that all we men have to do is muster our courage and tell the women-folks how ridiculous they look."

Well, his brave effort to stem the tide of spring fashion started me thinking. Do men in general really disapprove of the loose-fitting style which dominated spring collections shown by New York leaders recently?

Man On The Street
Man on the street should provide the answers. So I set forth with examples, in picture form, of chemises and some which showed off the shape, including one model of an Oleg Cassini cocktail dress bare to the waistline and kept from the censors only by black lacing and nude net underneath the slash.

Results of study: The society has plenty of potential members, a few "antis," and some neutrals.

"What's her phone number?" said cab-driver Aaron L. Siegel, when he looked at the picture of the Cassini model. "Like that sack look? Lady, I didn't like it when the flappers wore it."

Neutrals included husbands of two men on this year's list of the world's best-dressed women, compiled by the New York Dress Institute.

William Paley, chairman of the board of CBS, whose wife is a perennial, said "I don't wish to comment on the chemise."

"I don't pay much attention to those things," said Thomas Bancroft, Jr., New York textile executive whose wife is a first-timer on the list this year.

A Diplomat
"The sack looks great on a tall, slim figure," said one Madison Avenue type. "Turned out he dates a tall, slim girl-model."

Another found the loose fit a welcome change because it "suggests curves, instead of throwing them at you." He is in the apparel industry.

I asked Michael Futas, a

District Nurses Honor Member During Roll Call

Mrs. Margaret Hamilton Nelson, member of District 4, Oregon Nurses association, and former member of the Army Nurse corps, has been selected by the district to be honored during the annual roll call week of American Nurses' association. The observance opened Monday and continues through January 27.

Mrs. Nelson, who has lived in Medford since 1952, is supervisor of the operating room of Rogue Valley Memorial hospital. A native of Minnesota, she received her nurses' training at St. Mary's School of Nursing in Superior, Wis., and Milwaukee County hospital in Wisconsin.

Her professional career includes hospital duty in Wisconsin, and service as an industrial nurse at Butler Ship yards in Superior. Mrs. Nelson entered the Army Nurse corps in 1945 and after training was sent to the 50th Station hospital located in the jungle about 100 miles from Calcutta, India. Returning to the United States, after a year, Mrs. Nelson was employed as an office nurse for an internist for six years before coming to Medford.

She has served as treasurer of District 4, and on the membership committee of the state association for two years. Mrs. Nelson is the wife of Walter G. Nelson.

Pinkerton man who guarded the door of the Pierre hotel ballroom for one full week during the Dress Institute showings. It was his first fashion assignment.

"Lady, this has been an education!" said Futas. "I used to stand outside a store while my wife shopped. Now I'm going in with her, and she won't buy one of them chemises. A woman should look womanly."

One company which beats Paris and New York to the sack by several seasons is Bemis Brothers, in the business of making bags—cotton, bur-lap, paper and canvas — for the last 100 years.

"The silhouette is horrible!" said New York sales manager, A. F. G. Raikes. "It's insulting a sack to call that new style a sack."
