PRESIDENT'S BROTHER DIES

Heart Attack Claims Former Bank Executive

President Cancels Plans for Dinner

Kansas City, Mo.—President Dwight D. Eisenhower, the President's eldest brother and runner for a subsequent pattern of family success, died Sunday night of a heart attack at 71.

The former banking executive had been in failing health for almost a year, but his death was unexpected. He had not complained of being ill when, shortly after 7:30 p.m. (c.s.t.) he collapsed in the bathroom of his suburban home. Friends said Eisenhower had planned to fly to New York today.

A family spokesman said funeral arrangements would not be completed until late today. In Washington, President Eisenhower learned of his brother's death at the White House and cancelled plans for a dinner Thursday night. It was expected here that the President would fly to Kansas City some time today.

Dr. Joseph Welker, Arthur Eisenhower's physician, said the thin-haired businessman had suffered from "an insufficient heart for a long while."

Eisenhower, who rose from a 55 a week messenger boy's job to the vice presidency of the Commerce Trust company, Kansas City, had come here when 18 from his family's home at Abilene, Kan. He resigned the post and from the firm's board of directors about a year ago because of poor health.

Though without college training, a fact he sometimes lamented, Eisenhower had served as a director of several prominent organizations, including Trans World Airlines.

Eisenhower is survived by his widow, a daughter, Mrs. Katherine Roueche, Amagansett, N.Y., and a grandson, Arthur Bradford Roueche.

Kadar Resigns as Hungarian Premier

Budapest.—Hungarian Communist leader Janos Kadar resigned today as premier and turned over the reins of government to Deputy Premier Ferenc Mucsnich. But Kadar retained his post as head of the Hungarian Communist party.

Kadar, announcing a major government reshuffle, told Parliament he was stepping down from the premiership because of the weight of his party duties. He said he would be a minister of state in the revamped government.

In a speech to Parliament, Kadar said there would be an amnesty for Hungarians who did not take active part in the revolt of October, 1956. But he declared that the revolt leader, Gen. Pal Malester, and other leading figures would face trial.

Work Now Started On Eighth Street Couplet

Work on the Eighth and Main sts. one-way couplet project has been started, according to Jack McCormick, state highway department official.

He said construction crews are working on the extension of the new Eighth and 10th sts. storm sewer in the area, on which completion is necessary before grading work can start. The cost of the additional section of the storm sewer will be added to the final costs of the street construction on which the city is to pay 25 per cent, according to the city manager's office.

Right-of-way for the project is still being negotiated but will not affect present construction work, McCormick said. Vehicle traffic on

Camp White Plan Told In Phoenix

A resolution urging hospital beds for all Veterans' administration domiciliaries which do not have connecting hospital facilities was passed during the recent meeting on veterans' rehabilitation programs in Phoenix, Ariz., it was reported today.

Eugene Orr, Medford merchant and member of the executive committee of the National Rehabilitation Commission for the American Legion, returned last night from the Phoenix meeting. This meeting included representatives of 11 western states met on Jan. 23-25 with Veterans' administration officials on rehabilitation programs. Orr explained. Orr represents Oregon and the other western states.

Orr said he proposed the resolution, which specifically refers to domiciliaries in Georgia, Iowa and Medford. "Oregon is the only state in the union which has no more Veterans' administration hospital beds than it did before World War II," Orr commented.

The resolution will be brought up again during a national rehabilitation meeting in February when Orr and other Legion representatives will meet with the director of veteran affairs in Washington, D.C.

Orr said today his talk with the western area medical officer for the Veterans Administration made him feel optimistic about chances of getting the requested hospital beds here. If hospital beds are provided here, Orr said he did not know how many there would be.

Orr said he had included the other domiciliaries in his resolution since he felt it had a better chance of passing if made national in scope.

Thursday the board of directors of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce requested the Veterans administration convert the permanent facilities at Camp White into a veteran's hospital providing 400 beds.

In a letter to Sumner G. Whittier, administrator of veteran affairs, the Chamber said it "has become vitally interested in the development of a veteran's hospital in connection with the veteran's domiciliary at Camp White."

A number of farm and civic groups have gone on record favoring the Camp White proposal. One of the most recent is the Machinist Local 1468 which voted unanimously in favor of reactivating the hospital facilities at Camp White for a permanent veterans hospital.

Japanese Marine Toll Reaches 224

Wakayama, Japan.—The toll of dead and missing climbed to 224 today in a series of marine disasters in a violent winter storm that sank a ferry boat with all aboard near the Devils Whirlpools of Naruto.

Revised figures by the Japanese coast guard said 168 persons were aboard the 500-ton inter island ferry which was thought to have capsized near the mouth of the fast-running Naruto Straits Sunday night. No bodies were recovered.

DOW-JONES AVERAGES

New York.—Dow Jones final stock averages: 30 industrials 448.46, off 2.20; 20 railroads 107.74, up 0.11; 15 utilities 72.27, up 0.34, and 65 stocks 152.86, off 0.29. Sales today were about 2,320,000 shares compared with 2,830,000 shares Friday.

Dulles, Baghdad Talks Marred by Bomb Attacks

Ankara, Turkey.—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles met today with the five Baghdad Pact nations in a conference marred by bomb attacks on the U.S. embassy here and new propaganda blasts by the Soviet Union.

Informed sources said Dulles would open the door for further U.S. aid to the four Moslem members of the pact—Iran, Iraq, Turkey and Pakistan—but would make "no dramatic or flamboyant plans" during the 3½-day session.

The promised U.S. aid is likely to be smaller than that asked by the Moslem nations which with Britain form the anti-Communist pact. The aid is needed for building communications, especially highways, between the nations and rerouting imperiled oil pipelines.

Strong Appeal Planned The pact members indicated they would make a strong appeal to the United States to join the pact but Dulles was unwilling to join in full. He is here as an "observer" with the United States subscribing only to the military, economic and anti-subversive committees of the pact.

One of the two bomb attacks came shortly before midnight when an unknown terrorist threw a bomb which damaged a warehouse on the embassy grounds. The second came shortly after midnight when a bomb was tossed at a Turkish bookstore which sells American books near the embassy, and is often mistaken for the nearby U.S. Information Service (USIS) bookstore. No injuries were reported.

Only Two Cases Noted In Quiet Weekend Here

Medford city police reported two cases between 12:01 a.m. Sunday and 8:30 a.m. Monday morning. Officials said the city was quiet during the weekend and the lack of cases was possibly a record.

More Funds For Defense Available

Washington.—The Eisenhower administration is ready to open the purse strings further if defense needs require it. This was made clear Sunday night by Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson, who asserted "survival is our first priority," and by Deputy Defense Secretary Donald A. Quarles. It came in the midst of continuing demands by some Democrats for a bigger defense budget and a call for an added $15 billion yearly arms outlay by the author of a secret Army report on U.S. security.

In another defense development, the Democratic and Republican leaders of the Senate Armed Services committee told the United Press they now favor some form of defense reorganization, but not supreme military authority for a single chief of staff. The senators plan to give the Pentagon time—expected to be about two months—to come forward with its plan before putting forth their own specific ideas.

The money for defense line was laid down by Quarles. He said the President would ask Congress for more defense funds if his new $40 billion defense budget proves inadequate. Quarles said he thinks the budget will be sufficient. Budget Director Percival F. Brundage added the chief executive's requests were "carefully thought out."

Anderson said the Defense department will decide what is required for national defense, not the Treasury department. Asked what would happen if the Pentagon says that it needs an added $3 billion or $4 billion, he replied:

"I think that survival is our first priority. And if the military people are able to convince the President and those who have the responsibility for our country, then I conceive it to be a part of our responsibility to as nearly as we can meet whatever those requirements are."

He added he thinks the national economy "can stand more than it is doing now" for defense.

More Money Sought by Some Democrats Some Democrats, dissatisfied with the administration's defense program, have indicated they will try to add about $2 billion more to the President's $40 billion defense budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1. Others have suggested a need for still bigger outlays.

Dr. Ellis A. Johnson, director of a recent top secret report to the Army on U.S. defenses, said today the nation must pay an extra $15 billion yearly for defense "indefinitely" if it wants to survive. The report was made by the Operations Research office of Johns Hopkins university, a hush-hush study group under Army contract.

Johnson, in a copyrighted dispatch in U.S. News & World Report, said U.S. defenses against Soviet attack are inadequate and growing worse. He said he thinks Russia could attack now with "several hundred" bombers and 50 or more missile-launching submarines and "more than half" would get through.

Land Exchange Set Along Rogue River

Washington, D. C.—A land-for-land exchange can be made for timber lands owned by the U. S. Plywood corporation along the Rogue river, Congressman Charles O. Porter was informed recently by Richard E. McArdle, chief of the U. S. Forest Service.

Porter had asked McArdle last December if such an arrangement couldn't be made to allow for important roadside and recreational sites. The plywood corporation is building a road up the Rogue river.

"We find that 3.8 miles of the proposed road is located within the boundaries of the Siskiyou National Forest where land-for-land exchanges are authorized," McArdle wrote Porter. "In this area the corporations appears to own nine lots and a 40-acre tract, totaling 292.5 acres which the road will either traverse or which are located on or close to the river or the road," the forestry official said. "It would be highly desirable that these tracts be obtained so their recreational values might be protected and preserved for use by the public."

"Our field representative has already contacted a representative of the Plywood corporation concerning possible land exchange negotiations," McArdle stated. "It is hoped mutually beneficial exchanges may be agreed to in the near future."

Butte Falls Youth Held For Checkup

A 21-year-old Butte Falls youth is being held for a mental examination after being arrested by Medford police on charges of attempted rape Saturday evening.

Medford police said the youth attempted to assault an 18-year-old Medford girl in her apartment about 11 p.m. The girl told police she had been talking with the youth about an hour before he attempted to force his attentions on her.

She told police a 20-minute struggle took place in which she smashed an alarm clock on his head and broke an ashtray on his forehead in addition to scratching his face and arms. Police said blood from the youth's wounds covered several articles in the apartment's two rooms.

The youth was held by two of the girl's friends who arrived and called police. Police said the youth is a former mental patient and further action would be postponed until a psychiatric examination was held. They said the youth told the girl he had "just come out of the woods and had not seen a woman in a long time."

Young Republicans Pick Portland Woman

Portland.—The executive board of the Young Republican Federation of Oregon Sunday named Miss Joyce Spillman of Portland as chairman to replace Jack Miller of Salem, who resigned to become manager of Secretary Hatfield's campaign for the GOP gubernatorial nomination.

Career Planning Urged By SP Man

Career planning to achieve success was urged by B. F. Biaggini, vice president of Southern Pacific railroad, San Francisco office, during his speech before the Distinguished Service Award banquet at the Rogue Valley country club Saturday night.

"The accomplishments of the past and future have been and will be the result of careful planning," he said. "Planning for the future" is a task which will enable the individual to direct his energies into the areas where they will do the most good.

In planning ahead, three main categories must be considered, he pointed out. They first involve the private life of the individual, his business and community life. Proper development of each of these categories and relationship to each other is clearly the most important task of everyone and for young men of Jaycees ages it presents their greatest challenge.

Biaggini spoke with special regard for community planning. Company officials always want to take a measured look at a city before committing their new plant in a community, he said.

Suit Filed Here On Hartsook Land

A condemnation complaint has been filed in Jackson county circuit court by the state highway commission against Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hartsook, 1529 West Main st., Jackson County Federal Savings and Loan association, the city of Medford and the state of Oregon.

The property being condemned is a triangle piece of land containing approximately 50 square feet on the corner of Main and Elm sts. The lane is now part of the lawn at the Hartsook residence.

The property is needed for part of the widening and construction needed in the completion of the one-way couplets on Eighth and Main sts.

The other parties listed as defendants, according to the complaint, were concerned as the loan association is the holder of the mortgage on the property, the city of Medford has curbs, gutters and street improvements on the property, and the state of Oregon has certain state income tax lien against the property.

This is the second condemnation suit filed by the state highway department for right-of-way during the past week. The other suit is against Myron Root and company for the old Root packing house at Eighth and Fir sts., which is now under lease to Sloan Electric company.

Texan Arrested On Theft Charges

Raymond Craighton Newman, 28, Amarillo, Texas, was arrested by Oregon state police Saturday on charges of grand larceny of an automobile and mail theft.

Police said that Newman signed a statement admitting car theft in Colorado and taking mail in several Southwest states.

The case was turned over to Federal Bureau of Investigation agents for arraignment in federal court. Newman was lodged in county jail Saturday.

Over Million Dollars Spent Locally To Improve Valley Telephone Service

To keep pace with industrial and residential growth in Medford, Pacific telephone spent more than $1,000,000 in 1957, stated Manager Jack Creager.

Recently compiled figures show, according to Creager, the company spent $1,030,000 on expansion and improvement of service the past year. That brings to $2,833,000 the amount spent on construction here in the past four years.

Next highest amount in the four-year period was $969,000 in 1956, the manager said.

Eisenhower Tells Plan To Maintain U.S. Leadership

No Dollar Figures Cited in Message

Washington.—President Eisenhower sent Congress today an "emergency" four-year program to speed up and expand scientific education and maintain American leadership.

Its key provision was for 10,000 scholarships a year for "able" high school graduates who lack the financial means to get to college.

To provide an adequate staff of trained college teachers, the program calls for 5,500 graduate fellowships over the next four years.

The President cited no dollar figures in his special message to Congress, but the estimated four-year cost was placed roughly at $1,600,000,000, about $1 billion in federal funds and $600 million in matching funds put up by the states and local communities.

The President's budget called for an expenditure of $247 million in the fiscal year starting July 1, including $225 million in new money, to get the science-weighted education program underway.

The National Science Foundation would get $80 million to expand its scholarship program, bringing to $119 million the total recommended for the support of basic scientific research and study.

Would Supply Scientists The President said the new, five-point program would help supply "additional highly competent scientists and engineers vitally needed by the country at this time."

The heart of the President's program was the recommended provision of 10,000 federal scholarships each year for the next four years.

The college scholarships would be financed by the federal government but administration of them would be handled by the states. Scholarships would be allotted among the states on a population basis.

Not Compulsory It would not be compulsory for students to promise to study science or mathematics but the states would be encouraged to give preference to students with "good preparation or high aptitude" in these two fields.

When the program was first announced by the White House some weeks ago, Marion B. Folsom, secretary of health, education and welfare, estimated that the scholarships would average about $750 to $800 per student each year.

Krouse Elected Region 4-H Leader

Francis Krouse, Applegate, was elected vice president of region 3 of the state 4-H Leader's association, at the regional meeting of the annual 4-H leader's conference held last week in Corvallis.

Krouse, who automatically becomes a member of the state executive committee of the association with his new position will preside at all southern Oregon 4-H region meetings.

Scio Man, Doctor For 64 Years, Dies

Albany, Ore.—Dr. Albert G. Prill, 88, of Scio, who is believed to have practiced medicine in Oregon longer than any other physician, died in an Albany hospital Sunday night. Dr. Prill practiced medicine 64 years in Oregon, 58 of them in Scio, before retiring Jan. 1, 1955.
