

Unions Ask Pay Hike for Aircraft Workers

Big Three Auto Firms Accused of Rigging Prices

Congress Urged To Require Explanation

Washington — Walter P. Reuther accused the big three auto firms today of rigging prices to insure fatter profits without regard for demand. He urged Congress to require major corporations to explain their need for price hikes before putting them in effect.

Reuther, president of the AFL-CIO United Auto Workers union, also suggested that Congress set up an "independent office of consumers' counsel" to protect consumer interests before all government agencies.

Denies Responsibility — The UAW leader made his proposals in testimony prepared for the Senate anti-monopoly subcommittee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.). He denied that wage boosts for his union were responsible for the recent hike in car prices.

Prices have gone up $5 for every $1 advance in wages, Reuther contended. The UAW plans to seek a share of industry profits as well as wage increases during negotiations with auto makers this spring.

Reuther was called as the first witness as the subcommittee opened hearings on prices in the auto industry. It looked into steel prices last year. Auto industry heads will testify later.

No Punitive Purpose — Kefauver said in an opening statement that the new inquiry has no "punitive purpose" and the subcommittee does not aim to "mediate a wage dispute" by making recommendations either on profits or wages in the auto industry.

He said his group is concerned with preserving competition and voiced confidence and understanding of auto price-making will help Congress and the public.

Ike To Attend Funeral Rites

Washington — The White House announced today that President Eisenhower will fly to Kansas City, Mo., Wednesday to attend brief funeral services for his brother, Arthur, who died Sunday night.

The President will be accompanied by his brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins university. They will arrive at the Kansas City Municipal airport where they will meet another brother, Earl, LaGrange, Ill. The White House said it did not appear likely that the third brother, Edgar, would come from his home at Tacoma.

GREETING AFTER 51 YEARS are Waclaw Deticki and his mother, Mrs. Antonia Gzik, 79, in Gary, Ind. He was kidnapped by a baby-sitter in his native Poland when he was three days old.

Planners Get Report On Sewage Disposal

A report on a survey of the sewage disposal in Jackson county was given to the Jackson county planning commission last night. Jack Eaton, planning technician for the commission, made the report.

Members of the commission decided to defer action on the survey until they had a chance to study it. Further action will be considered at the next meeting when it may be referred to the county court.

Chairman John Pletsch said the survey would be made public then. It was made in cooperation with the sanitarians of the county health department.

Eaton said his survey shows that Ashland is operating a sewage disposal system far beyond its capacity. The recent annexation to the city has made the situation there even worse, he said.

Future Annexation — Medford will operate at 100 per cent of its capacity with possible future annexations, he said. Central Point has a screening process and the disposal wastes flow into the Medford system. Gold Hill is in the best shape of all the cities in the county, he pointed out. It is operating its sewage disposal system at only 50 per cent of its capacity, and it has been designed for many years to come.

Eaton said a county sanitation authority which would bring all municipal sewer systems under one operation would probably be feasible. The existing systems could be integrated and enlarged to provide for population growth for some years to come, he said. It would be much less expensive for the individual home owner if all systems were tied into a metropolitan

Lions Club Beats Kiwanis in Race

Medford Lions club won its March of Dimes race against the Kiwanis club Saturday and Lou Martin, chairman of the event for the Lions, received a 1 1/2 block ride to United States National bank with Frank Dorigan, Kiwanis chairman, pushing.

Approximately $350 was collected for the fight against polio with Lions soliciting about $200 in donations. The two service clubs, starting at Eighth st., moved their wheelbarrows north on Central ave. one yard for every dollar collected. At the end of the two-hour time limit Lions were about 2 blocks north of the starting point and Kiwanis were about 45 yards behind.

MONTANA CO. ACTS ON STRIKE

Prisoners Refuse Work in Shops; Meals, Heat Off

Guards Appear To Control Situation

Deer Lodge, Mont. — More than 230 defiant convicts, ignoring cold and hunger, refused to return to their individual cells in the Montana State Prison today or end a day-old sitdown strike. It was the latest disturbance since last July 30 when the convicts rioted.

The strike began after breakfast at 8 a.m. Monday. The prisoners refused to work in the prison shops. Returned to the cell block in which they rioted about six months ago, the defiant convicts jammed benches between the walls and doors of their individual cells so guards could not close them. Food To Be Withheld

Convicts won't be fed until they comply with the order to return to their cells. If hunger doesn't work, guards hoped to freeze the convicts into submission. Heat was reported shut off in the cell block shortly before midnight. Guards appeared to have the situation under control. They reported a calm and quiet night.

Warden F. O. Burrell said that the prisoners went to work as usual Monday morning after breakfast was served. "After this the word was passed along the grapevine and the sitdown strike began," he said.

The warden added that he had no idea how long the strike would last or what it was caused by. "We're going to get on top of this situation," he said.

Discipline Lacking — "Not since the July 30 prison riot, when the attorney general promised the convicts, there would be no reprisals for those creating the fracas and gave assurance that other desires and demands would be complied with, have we been able to develop the type of discipline and security required for the administration of the prison."

The July riot ended and hostages were released when Attorney General Forrest H. Anderson spoke to the prisoners and assured them their demands would be given consideration by the Prison Board.

Sheriff's Deputy Files Damage Suit

Dean H. DeBerry, Jackson county sheriff's deputy, is seeking $7,622 damages in a first cause and $246.52 for second cause from L. V. Peterson, Medford, as the result of an auto accident in Medford Oct. 13, 1957.

Army To Attempt 'Moon' Launching

New Storm Front Expected to Bring More Rain to Area

Rivers to Remain Within Banks Today

"Maybe We Should Propose Shooting This Stuff Across in Rockets"

Jupiter C May Be Blasted Off Later This Week

Vanguard Apparently Undergoing Repairs

Khrushchev Accused Of View Distortion

Missile Defense By 1962 Possible

Fay Due To Take Stand in Probe

Stumbo Clan Awarded $125 Plus Interest

Control Board Approves Money To Move Church

Yreka Man Killed In Crash Near Weed

Atomic Arsenal Request in Works

Washington — Congress went to work today on a request to give President Eisenhower broad powers in helping America's allies beef up their atomic weapons arsenals.

Proposals for relaxing "unduly restrictive" provisions of the Atomic Energy Secrets Act to share nuclear materials and weapon design information were sent to the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee by Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The committee scheduled hearings on the proposal today.

At the same time Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy opened the door wider to seeking more missile and defense money. He said he "wouldn't hesitate" to ask for more if the $40 billion record peacetime defense budget proves inadequate.

Washington — KPOJ, Inc., has asked the Federal Communications Commission for a permit to operate a new television station on channel 2 at Portland, Ore.

Control Board Approves Money To Move Church

Salem — The State Board of Control today approved giving the Salem First Baptist church $12,000 to move its church buildings from a site in the Capitol Mall where a new labor and industries building probably will be built.

Long Negotiation — The decision came after long negotiation with the church which had been asked by the board to move by Jan. 1, 1959 to make way for the new building.

Board members said it would cost from $10,000 to $30,000 to wreck the building and both board and church agreed it would be more fair to move the building intact. Tentative approval also was given to granting the city of Salem an easement to extend 17th st. through the state fairgrounds. In return, the city would give the Fair board some 3.4 acres of city land for parking.

Unander Wants Agreement — Both Gov. Robert D. Holmes and Secretary of State Mark Hatfield agreed with the proposal, but State Treasurer Sig Unander wanted included in the agreement a statement from Real Estate Commissioner Clarence Hyde that the dollar values in the exchange would be approximately equal.

Atomic Arsenal Request in Works

Washington — Congress went to work today on a request to give President Eisenhower broad powers in helping America's allies beef up their atomic weapons arsenals.

Proposals for relaxing "unduly restrictive" provisions of the Atomic Energy Secrets Act to share nuclear materials and weapon design information were sent to the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee by Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The committee scheduled hearings on the proposal today.

At the same time Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy opened the door wider to seeking more missile and defense money. He said he "wouldn't hesitate" to ask for more if the $40 billion record peacetime defense budget proves inadequate.

Washington — KPOJ, Inc., has asked the Federal Communications Commission for a permit to operate a new television station on channel 2 at Portland, Ore.

Control Board Approves Money To Move Church

Salem — The State Board of Control today approved giving the Salem First Baptist church $12,000 to move its church buildings from a site in the Capitol Mall where a new labor and industries building probably will be built.

Long Negotiation — The decision came after long negotiation with the church which had been asked by the board to move by Jan. 1, 1959 to make way for the new building.

Board members said it would cost from $10,000 to $30,000 to wreck the building and both board and church agreed it would be more fair

to move the building intact. Tentative approval also was given to granting the city of Salem an easement to extend 17th st. through the state fairgrounds. In return, the city would give the Fair board some 3.4 acres of city land for parking.

Unander Wants Agreement — Both Gov. Robert D. Holmes and Secretary of State Mark Hatfield agreed with the proposal, but State Treasurer Sig Unander wanted included in the agreement a statement from Real Estate Commissioner Clarence Hyde that the dollar values in the exchange would be approximately equal.

Atomic Arsenal Request in Works

Washington — Congress went to work today on a request to give President Eisenhower broad powers in helping America's allies beef up their atomic weapons arsenals.

Proposals for relaxing "unduly restrictive" provisions of the Atomic Energy Secrets Act to share nuclear materials and weapon design information were sent to the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee by Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The committee scheduled hearings on the proposal today.

At the same time Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy opened the door wider to seeking more missile and defense money. He said he "wouldn't hesitate" to ask for more if the $40 billion record peacetime defense budget proves inadequate.

Washington — KPOJ, Inc., has asked the Federal Communications Commission for a permit to operate a new television station on channel 2 at Portland, Ore.

Control Board Approves Money To Move Church

Salem — The State Board of Control today approved giving the Salem First Baptist church $12,000 to move its church buildings from a site in the Capitol Mall where a new labor and industries building probably will be built.

Long Negotiation — The decision came after long negotiation with the church which had been asked by the board to move by Jan. 1, 1959 to make way for the new building.

Board members said it would cost from $10,000 to $30,000 to wreck the building and both board and church agreed it would be more fair

to move the building intact. Tentative approval also was given to granting the city of Salem an easement to extend 17th st. through the state fairgrounds. In return, the city would give the Fair board some 3.4 acres of city land for parking.

Unander Wants Agreement — Both Gov. Robert D. Holmes and Secretary of State Mark Hatfield agreed with the proposal, but State Treasurer Sig Unander wanted included in the agreement a statement from Real Estate Commissioner Clarence Hyde that the dollar values in the exchange would be approximately equal.

Atomic Arsenal Request in Works

Washington — Congress went to work today on a request to give President Eisenhower broad powers in helping America's allies beef up their atomic weapons arsenals.

Proposals for relaxing "unduly restrictive" provisions of the Atomic Energy Secrets Act to share nuclear materials and weapon design information were sent to the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee by Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The committee scheduled hearings on the proposal today.

At the same time Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy opened the door wider to seeking more missile and defense money. He said he "wouldn't hesitate" to ask for more if the $40 billion record peacetime defense budget proves inadequate.

Washington — KPOJ, Inc., has asked the Federal Communications Commission for a permit to operate a new television station on channel 2 at Portland, Ore.

Control Board Approves Money To Move Church

Salem — The State Board of Control today approved giving the Salem First Baptist church $12,000 to move its church buildings from a site in the Capitol Mall where a new labor and industries building probably will be built.

Long Negotiation — The decision came after long negotiation with the church which had been asked by the board to move by Jan. 1, 1959 to make way for the new building.

Board members said it would cost from $10,000 to $30,000 to wreck the building and both board and church agreed it would be more fair

to move the building intact. Tentative approval also was given to granting the city of Salem an easement to extend 17th st. through the state fairgrounds. In return, the city would give the Fair board some 3.4 acres of city land for parking.

Unander Wants Agreement — Both Gov. Robert D. Holmes and Secretary of State Mark Hatfield agreed with the proposal, but State Treasurer Sig Unander wanted included in the agreement a statement from Real Estate Commissioner Clarence Hyde that the dollar values in the exchange would be approximately equal.

Atomic Arsenal Request in Works

Washington — Congress went to work today on a request to give President Eisenhower broad powers in helping America's allies beef up their atomic weapons arsenals.

Proposals for relaxing "unduly restrictive" provisions of the Atomic Energy Secrets Act to share nuclear materials and weapon design information were sent to the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee by Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The committee scheduled hearings on the proposal today.

At the same time Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy opened the door wider to seeking more missile and defense money. He said he "wouldn't hesitate" to ask for more if the $40 billion record peacetime defense budget proves inadequate.

Washington — KPOJ, Inc., has asked the Federal Communications Commission for a permit to operate a new television station on channel 2 at Portland, Ore.

Control Board Approves Money To Move Church

Salem — The State Board of Control today approved giving the Salem First Baptist church $12,000 to move its church buildings from a site in the Capitol Mall where a new labor and industries building probably will be built.

Long Negotiation — The decision came after long negotiation with the church which had been asked by the board to move by Jan. 1, 1959 to make way for the new building.

Board members said it would cost from $10,000 to $30,000 to wreck the building and both board and church agreed it would be more fair

to move the building intact. Tentative approval also was given to granting the city of Salem an easement to extend 17th st. through the state fairgrounds. In return, the city would give the Fair board some 3.4 acres of city land for parking.

Unander Wants Agreement — Both Gov. Robert D. Holmes and Secretary of State Mark Hatfield agreed with the proposal, but State Treasurer Sig Unander wanted included in the agreement a statement from Real Estate Commissioner Clarence Hyde that the dollar values in the exchange would be approximately equal.

Atomic Arsenal Request in Works

Washington — Congress went to work today on a request to give President Eisenhower broad powers in helping America's allies beef up their atomic weapons arsenals.

Proposals for relaxing "unduly restrictive" provisions of the Atomic Energy Secrets Act to share nuclear materials and weapon design information were sent to the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee by Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The committee scheduled hearings on the proposal today.

At the same time Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy opened the door wider to seeking more missile and defense money. He said he "wouldn't hesitate" to ask for more if the $40 billion record peacetime defense budget proves inadequate.

Washington — KPOJ, Inc., has asked the Federal Communications Commission for a permit to operate a new television station on channel 2 at Portland, Ore.

Control Board Approves Money To Move Church

Salem — The State Board of Control today approved giving the Salem First Baptist church $12,000 to move its church buildings from a site in the Capitol Mall where a new labor and industries building probably will be built.

Long Negotiation — The decision came after long negotiation with the church which had been asked by the board to move by Jan. 1, 1959 to make way for the new building.

Board members said it would cost from $10,000 to $30,000 to wreck the building and both board and church agreed it would be more fair

to move the building intact. Tentative approval also was given to granting the city of Salem an easement to extend 17th st. through the state fairgrounds. In return, the city would give the Fair board some 3.4 acres of city land for parking.

Unander Wants Agreement — Both Gov. Robert D. Holmes and Secretary of State Mark Hatfield agreed with the proposal, but State Treasurer Sig Unander wanted included in the agreement a statement from Real Estate Commissioner Clarence Hyde that the dollar values in the exchange would be approximately equal.

Atomic Arsenal Request in Works

Washington — Congress went to work today on a request to give President Eisenhower broad powers in helping America's allies beef up their atomic weapons arsenals.

Proposals for relaxing "unduly restrictive" provisions of the Atomic Energy Secrets Act to share nuclear materials and weapon design information were sent to the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee by Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The committee scheduled hearings on the proposal today.

At the same time Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy opened the door wider to seeking more missile and defense money. He said he "wouldn't hesitate" to ask for more if the $40 billion record peacetime defense budget proves inadequate.

Washington — KPOJ, Inc., has asked the Federal Communications Commission for a permit to operate a new television station on channel 2 at Portland, Ore.

Control Board Approves Money To Move Church

Salem — The State Board of Control today approved giving the Salem First Baptist church $12,000 to move its church buildings from a site in the Capitol Mall where a new labor and industries building probably will be built.

Long Negotiation — The decision came after long negotiation with the church which had been asked by the board to move by Jan. 1, 1959 to make way for the new building.

Board members said it would cost from $10,000 to $30,000 to wreck the building and both board and church agreed it would be more fair

to move the building intact. Tentative approval also was given to granting the city of Salem an easement to extend 17th st. through the state fairgrounds. In return, the city would give the Fair board some 3.4 acres of city land for parking.

Unander Wants Agreement — Both Gov. Robert D. Holmes and Secretary of State Mark Hatfield agreed with the proposal, but State Treasurer Sig Unander wanted included in the agreement a statement from Real Estate Commissioner Clarence Hyde that the dollar values in the exchange would be approximately equal.

Atomic Arsenal Request in Works

Washington — Congress went to work today on a request to give President Eisenhower broad powers in helping America's allies beef up their atomic weapons arsenals.

Proposals for relaxing "unduly restrictive" provisions of the Atomic Energy Secrets Act to share nuclear materials and weapon design information were sent to the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee by Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The committee scheduled hearings on the proposal today.

At the same time Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy opened the door wider to seeking more missile and defense money. He said he "wouldn't hesitate" to ask for more if the $40 billion record peacetime defense budget proves inadequate.

Washington — KPOJ, Inc., has asked the Federal Communications Commission for a permit to operate a new television station on channel 2 at Portland, Ore.

Control Board Approves Money To Move Church

Salem — The State Board of Control today approved giving the Salem First Baptist church $12,000 to move its church buildings from a site in the Capitol Mall where a new labor and industries building probably will be built.

Long Negotiation — The decision came after long negotiation with the church which had been asked by the board to move by Jan. 1, 1959 to make way for the new building.

Board members said it would cost from $10,000 to $30,000 to wreck the building and both board and church agreed it would be more fair

to move the building intact. Tentative approval also was given to granting the city of Salem an easement to extend 17th st. through the state fairgrounds. In return, the city would give the Fair board some 3.4 acres of city land for parking.

Unander Wants Agreement — Both Gov. Robert D. Holmes and Secretary of State Mark Hatfield agreed with the proposal, but State Treasurer Sig Unander wanted included in the agreement a statement from Real Estate Commissioner Clarence Hyde that the dollar values in the exchange would be approximately equal.

Atomic Arsenal Request in Works

Washington — Congress went to work today on a request to give President Eisenhower broad powers in helping America's allies beef up their atomic weapons arsenals.

Proposals for relaxing "unduly restrictive" provisions of the Atomic Energy Secrets Act to share nuclear materials and weapon design information were sent to the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee by Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The committee scheduled hearings on the proposal today.

At the same time Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy opened the door wider to seeking more missile and defense money. He said he "wouldn't hesitate" to ask for more if the $40 billion record peacetime defense budget proves inadequate.

Washington — KPOJ, Inc., has asked the Federal Communications Commission for a permit to operate a new television station on channel 2 at Portland, Ore.

Control Board Approves Money To Move Church

Salem — The State Board of Control today approved giving the Salem First Baptist church $12,000 to move its church buildings from a site in the Capitol Mall where a new labor and industries building probably will be built.

Long Negotiation — The decision came after long negotiation with the church which had been asked by the board to move by Jan. 1, 1959 to make way for the new building.

Board members said it would cost from $10,000 to $30,000 to wreck the building and both board and church agreed it would be more fair

to move the building intact. Tentative approval also was given to granting the city of Salem an easement to extend 17th st. through the state fairgrounds. In return, the city would give the Fair board some 3.4 acres of city land for parking.

Unander Wants Agreement — Both Gov. Robert D. Holmes and Secretary of State Mark Hatfield agreed with the proposal, but State Treasurer Sig Unander wanted included in the agreement a statement from Real Estate Commissioner Clarence Hyde that the dollar values in the exchange would be approximately equal.

Atomic Arsenal Request in Works

Washington — Congress went to work today on a request to give President Eisenhower broad powers in helping America's allies beef up their atomic weapons arsenals.

Proposals for relaxing "unduly restrictive" provisions of the Atomic Energy Secrets Act to share nuclear materials and weapon design information were sent to the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee by Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The committee scheduled hearings on the proposal today.

At the same time Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy opened the door wider to seeking more missile and defense money. He said he "wouldn't hesitate" to ask for more if the $40 billion record peacetime defense budget proves inadequate.

Washington — KPOJ, Inc., has asked the Federal Communications Commission for a permit to operate a new television station on channel 2 at Portland, Ore.

Control Board Approves Money To Move Church

Salem — The State Board of Control today approved giving the Salem First Baptist church $12,000 to move its church buildings from a site in the Capitol Mall where a new labor and industries building probably will be built.

Long Negotiation — The decision came after long negotiation with the church which had been asked by the board to move by Jan. 1, 1959 to make way for the new building.

Board members said it would cost from $10,000 to $30,000 to wreck the building and both board and church agreed it would be more fair

to move the building intact. Tentative approval also was given to granting the city of Salem an easement to extend 17th st. through the state fairgrounds. In return, the city would give the Fair board some 3.4 acres of city land for parking.

Unander Wants Agreement — Both Gov. Robert D. Holmes and Secretary of State Mark Hatfield agreed with the proposal, but State Treasurer Sig Unander wanted included in the agreement a statement from Real Estate Commissioner Clarence Hyde that the dollar values in the exchange would be approximately equal.

Atomic Arsenal Request in Works

Washington — Congress went to work today on a request to give President Eisenhower broad powers in helping America's allies beef up their atomic weapons arsenals.

Proposals for relaxing "unduly restrictive" provisions of the Atomic Energy Secrets Act to share nuclear materials and weapon design information were sent to the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee by Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The committee scheduled hearings on the proposal today.

At the same time Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy opened the door wider to seeking more missile and defense money. He said he "wouldn't hesitate" to ask for more if the $40 billion record peacetime defense budget proves inadequate.

Washington — KPOJ, Inc., has asked the Federal Communications Commission for a permit to operate a new television station on channel 2 at Portland, Ore.

Control Board Approves Money To Move Church

Salem — The State Board of Control today approved giving the Salem First Baptist church $12,000 to move its church buildings from a site in the Capitol Mall where a new labor and industries building probably will be built.

Long Negotiation — The decision came after long negotiation with the church which had been asked by the board to move by Jan. 1, 1959 to make way for the new building.

Board members said it would cost from $10,000 to $30,000 to wreck the building and both board and church agreed it would be more fair

to move the building intact. Tentative approval also was given to granting the city of Salem an easement to extend 17th st. through the state fairgrounds. In return, the city would give the Fair board some 3.4 acres of city land for parking.

Unander Wants Agreement — Both Gov. Robert D. Holmes and Secretary of State Mark Hatfield agreed with the proposal, but State Treasurer Sig Unander wanted included in the agreement a statement from Real Estate Commissioner Clarence Hyde that the dollar values in the exchange would be approximately equal.

Atomic Arsenal Request in Works

Washington — Congress went to work today on a request to give President Eisenhower broad powers in helping America's allies beef up their atomic weapons arsenals.