School Instructs In Rat Control

Chicago—People go to school now to learn how to control rats. The instruction is a service of the Albuquerque, N.M., health department, the International City Managers' association reported.

Classes are held periodically in four sections of Albuquerque. They are designed to educate restaurant workers in control of insects and rodents. The instruction also covers personal hygiene, food preservation and food sanitation.

The instruction is being offered in the belief that city education of food handlers will help heighten health standards in Albuquerque, the association said.

British Scientist Ill With Monoxide Poisoning Near Pole

McMurdo Sound, Antarctica—Geoffrey Pratt, 33, a British scientist making a trans-Antarctic trip with Dr. Vivian Fuchs, has become seriously ill with carbon monoxide poisoning and U.S. Navy planes will fly in oxygen, it has been reported.

Fuchs reported by radio to the American base here that Pratt, a seismologist, had collapsed twice with monoxide poisoning at the point 150 miles from the South Pole. The elevation there is about 10,000 feet and the temperature is 20 degrees below zero.

No details were received as to how Pratt was poisoned. It was speculated he had breathed monoxide either in the expedition's two-man tents heated with primus stoves or from fumes from the snow-cat vehicles used as transportation on the 1,300 mile trek.

The Navy said two P2V Neptunes would fly oxygen to the Fuchs party. One plane may attempt a landing with the second standing by as a safety observer but the Navy said any decision to land was up to the pilot. Otherwise the planes will drop oxygen cylinders.

Dr. Allan Rogers, a doctor traveling with the Fuchs party, reported he had given Pratt what oxygen there was available—about 200 liters. The Neptunes can carry in a cylinder of 6,000 liters, enough for at least two days.

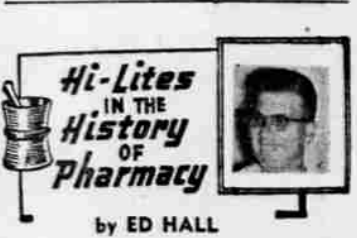

Rogers reported Pratt became unconscious Monday, recovered, and then lapsed into unconsciousness again Tuesday. At last reports he was conscious again.

Hillary May Observe
Sir Edmund Hillary, the New Zealander who blazed a trail for Fuchs across the Antarctic continent from Scott Base to the pole, also may fly in on the observer plane. Dr. Griffiths Pugh, a British physiologist, may land with the other plane.

The planes will carry six crewmen each. Cmdr. Vernon J. Coley of Oakland, Calif., commander of Navy Squadron VX6 will pilot one and Lt. Richard Koch of Greenwood, R.I., will pilot the second.

Salem — Katherine Musa, The Dalles Democrat, has filed for reelection as state representative from Wasco county.

LOST IN BLIZZARD—An intensive air-ground search is underway for Dennis Wurschmidt, 12, lost in a blizzard when he wandered away from a Boy Scout outing in Grindstone Canyon of California's Mendocino National Forest. About three feet of snow has fallen since the boy—"an inexperienced woodsman," was lost.

OBJECT: MATRIMONY
Osaka, Japan — The Osaka Housing Corp. shows foresight in its planning. Concerned over the large number of single women in this industrial city, it opened today a new housing unit for bachelor girls — right next to four apartment houses built exclusively for unmarried men. Next on the program: Another apartment house nearby for married couples.

Some of the nostrums (ready to use remedies) of the 17th and 18th centuries were so highly regarded that rulers bought the formula and published them for the benefit of their people. . . . In 1740 English Parliament bought one of these nostrums against gallstones for 5000 pounds so you can see these were very valuable and it was such sales as these that brought about the patent laws as protection for such inventions. . . .
