

Campanella Better, Bulletin Reports; Paralysis Remains

Glen Cove, N. Y. — Baseball star Roy Campanella is "considerably better" in his fight to recover from a broken neck and sensation is starting to return to his paralyzed body, doctors announced today (9 a.m. PST).

By HENRY LOGEMAN
Glen Cove, N. Y. — Doctors found baseball star Roy Campanella "somewhat better" today, although still paralyzed as he fought to recover from a broken neck.

A medical bulletin issued at 7 a.m. p.m., reported that physicians "were encouraged during this morning's examination" even though "the paralysis remains the same and he remains on the danger list."

"It was the second straight hopeful medical report on the condition of the 36-year-old catching star who escaped death Tuesday in an auto accident by just one inch."

"Campanella's condition is somewhat better and the overall picture fairly encouraging," the hospital bulletin said early this morning. "His paralysis is unchanged but it could not be expected to improve as yet."

"The bulletin, issued by Dr. Robert W. Sengstacken, the neurological physician who operated more than four hours on Campanella Tuesday morning, and hospital administrator Harry Gifford, said the stricken patient "remains on the danger list." But hospital spokesmen emphasized the encouraging aspect of the bulletin in a clear indication that physicians believed Campy had won his primary battle for life.

Dr. Sengstacken also said further bulletins on Campanella's condition will be issued on a two-day basis.

Whether Campanella, who probably is nearer 40 than his 36-year "baseball age," ever will be able to resume his baseball career remained highly doubtful. Doctors said it was "possible" he might play again but Dr. Sengstacken qualified the state ment late Tuesday.

Inch From Death
"Assuming a complete recovery, he could not play ball before a year," Dr. Sengstacken said. "He's foolish if he tries to continue to play baseball, but he's not my patient and I'm not going to tell him what to do."

Dr. Sengstacken disclosed that the fifth and sixth vertebrae of Campanella's spinal column were "fractured and dislocated" at about the neckline and said the catcher would have "died instantly" had the injury been an inch higher. He said Campanella's short, bull-like neck played a key part in his escape from a fatal injury.

The doctor said Campanella later will be required to wear a "four poster brace" on his neck with a cup under the chin. He said no further operations were planned "in the immediate future," but conceded "there might have to be another one later on."

New York — Roy Campanella is using the same comforting refuge today which helped him through a hundred tight spots. "I'm praying," he said. "That's the way's been Roy's since in the hole. And he was praying hopefully today as he lay in a Glen Cove hospital with a broken back suffered in an automobile accident. They worked for him often before. They had to for this role-poly man to make it all the way from the Negro sandlots to one of the top spots in baseball. You remember some of them as you look back over his career, one complete with broken bones, operations and flaming tendons. Like the time in 1951 when he went down into the basement to light the gas heater and it blew up in his face. "I Prayed hard" "For a few" moments Roy thought he was blind. There was a question as to how much damage had been done to his eyesight. He had a blistered cornea in each eye but treatments cleared it up. That same year he was beamed on the left ear. But despite it all, Campy came back to win most valuable player honors for the first three times. Roy has had more than his share of troubles, even with his own Jackie Robinson offense, as Robinson and others fought for "recognition," the smiling, happy-go-lucky Campy wasn't militant enough. But he was coming to play baseball, overcomi g horribly battered hands and bad legs in the process, and made the best crusade of them all because of his smiling likeness. Campy, a beaming Buddha, could be a clown or a gaffly on the field. He was there to run the pitchers and wield a big bat. That he did in a Hall of Fame manner. Off the field campaigns he left to others. Campy was too busy making good and making a living and a future for his family. "Just Good Business" They kidded him once about parking his big, splashy Cadillac in front of his Harlem liquor store. Campy grinned hugely. "Shucks," he said, "that's so the people know I'm there. When they do, they come in and buy. That's good business — not vanity." Another time they asked him about dissension on the team: "Dissension?" he asked. "I dunno. Maybe we got no pitchers but what we do got is harmony." Campy's secret of success—"Praying and tryin'." That's why they're not counting him "out" yet. Campy will make it back if it's humanly possible. Maybe even if it isn't possible for most humans. Because Roy has a genuine faith in his prayers — and helps them along as much as possible personally.

Talent, St. Mary's High Victors in Jackson Loop

JACKSON COUNTY B LEAGUE STANDINGS: Talent 10, 0, 1,000; Butte Falls 6, 4, 500; St. Mary's 4, 4, 333; Jacksonville 3, 6, 333; Prospect 0, 9, 1,000. Talent high was forced into overtime last night in defending its undefeated status in Jackson County B league basketball. Phil Combs scored all five Talent points in the extra session as the Bulldogs overcame second place Butte Falls 37 to 34. Third spot St. Mary's had a good third quarter and survived a last minute threat to nose out Prospect 47 to 46. Mike Conley's two-hand cast from midcourt for Butte Falls as the fourth quarter buzzer sounded sent the Talent fray into overtime at 32-each. Conley and Jim Irwin put in free heaves for the only Logger counters in the extra. Butte Falls led 8 to 7 at the quarter and 18 to 16 at the half but Talent was on top 24 to 22 after three chukkers. Offense for each club was slow and deliberate as each worked the ball for good chances at the hoop. As a result the Bulldogs and Loggers each made a good percentage of their shots. Good defenses, however, limited the opportunities to fire. SM Guns Ahead Combs was high point man with 13 and Irwin had 11 for Butte Falls. Prospect was in front of St. Mary's 13 to 12 at the quarter and 21 to 17 at the half but St. Mary's went ahead 37 to 32 in the third panel, outgunning in the Cougars 20 to 11. The Crusaders had a 47 to 40 margin with a minute to play but Prospect narrowed the gap by turning to a press to get possession of the ball. The Cougars had three good shooting chances in the last 10 seconds but missed. Floyd Scaife scored 16 points and Dave Gardner 13 for Prospect. Jerry Flakus topped SM with 12.

MHS Court Quint Preps For Crater

Medford's Black Tornado is working to be prepared for "anything" as it gears for its Friday and Saturday series in basketball with the Crater high Comets. Coach Frank Roelandt indicated that the Tornado is making no extra special preparations for the Comets, although he did mention that the Medfordites aimed to be ready for any defensive pressing tactics Crater might employ. Medford drills have not been particularly strenuous but Roelandt planned a hard workout today with lighter drill on Thursday. He said that the Tornado is intact. Veteran Tom Hamlin has had a sinus infection but is all right, the mentor reported. Friday Game Here The Medford and Crater teams meet on Friday at Medford and at Central Point on Saturday. These tussles complete the first half of the Southern Oregon conference slate for both schools. They are tied with Grants Pass in third place. It's actually the cellar position and each is fighting to get out. Medford has two wins over Grants Pass with which the Comets split but Crater also divided two games with Ashland which took two from the Tornado. Klamath Falls clubbed both Medford and Crater. The Comets took the harder drubbing in one of the games. Ashland and Grants Pass have a series also this week while Klamath is idle.
