Allan Hunt to Open Bay Area Office

Allan Hunt, former art director for Harry and David, Inc., left this week end to establish a commercial art studio in the San Francisco bay area.

Hunt, considered one of southern Oregon's outstanding commercial artists, recently resigned his position at the local fruit company. He is a graduate of the University of Oregon and of Los Angeles Art Center. After serving in the Army, he joined the staff at Bear Creek orchards in 1947.

Hunt plans to open his studio at 606 Ansel rd., Burlingame, Calif., March 1.

In his 11 years with Harry and David, Hunt created much of the original artwork in the literature used by the company, one of the largest mail order gift operations in the United States.

Two Twisters Reported In Oregon in Past Year

Portland — Oregon had two tornadoes in 1957, State Climatologist Gilbert Sternes said Friday in a summary of last year's weather conditions.

Both the tornadoes occurred April 12. One, on the outskirts of Sandy, was a few yards wide and less than a mile long. The other moved in a narrow path across several miles of southern Gilliam and Morrow counties. Damage was less than $300.

Two-thirds of the peppermint and spearmint oil produced in the United States is said to come from Indiana.
