Mack Will Give Consideration To Demands To Quit

Washington — Federal Communications Commissioner Richard A. Mack said today he would "seriously consider" demands that he resign.

Mack heretofore has insisted he had "no intention" of quitting his FCC post in the face of charges which he has denied—that he let money and friends influence his commission decisions.

But today he appeared shaken in his resolve after Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) joined other members of a House investigating subcommittee in telling the commissioner he should resign.

Harris, whose group has been hearing Mack's testimony the past two days, said the commissioner has been "used by his friends." He told Mack, "you are to be pitied." But he said that if Mack did not submit his resignation, President Eisenhower—who appointed him to the FCC—should immediately request it.

Mack, obviously moved, said he would "seriously consider" Harris' suggestion that he quit.

With that, Mack asked that the hearing be recessed until next Wednesday, when he presumably will give his answer. The subcommittee agreed to the recess.

Wet Weather Stops Construction Work

Construction work on the Eighth st. couplet has been stalled during the past week because of wet weather, according to Jack McCormick, state highway engineer.

He said the contractor, M. C. Lininger, has completed about 80 per cent of the work in connecting storm sewers near Laurel st. with the city's recently completed Eighth and Ninth st. storm sewers. The contractor has also started work in clearing trees and shrubs from a section of the courthouse lawn and library park for the couplet.

McCormick said Lininger would have 100 work-days to complete the project. Work stoppage by wet weather will not be counted, he added.

CARLOS W. MORRIS
Seeks Reelection

County Coroner Seeks Reelection In May Primary

Coroner Carlos W. Morris, 48, of 128 Mistletoe st., Medford, announced today his candidacy for reelection on the Republican ticket. Frank Perl previously announced he would seek the GOP nomination in the May 16 primary election.

Deadline for filing for nominations in the primary is Friday, March 7.

Morris has been coroner since 1954, when he was elected by a write-in vote after the previous coroner resigned. Morris also served as coroner between 1948 and 1952.

Partner in Home
He is a partner with Mrs. H. W. Conger in the Conger-Morris Funeral home, Medford.

He has been associated with the funeral home since 1939. He was born in Gold Hill in 1910, the son of a pioneer family there.

Morris noted that Oregon residents voted in 1956 to remove the coroner's office to county government. Under the present law, the coroner is unable to conduct inquests or autopsies without a request from the district attorney.

He said that many times an autopsy is needed to clarify the cause of death, but the district attorney may not request one if no criminal action will follow, leaving the cause of death obscure.

Morris, a member of the Oregon State Association of County Coroners, "has been active during the past two years working with the legislative, pathologists, district attorneys and sheriff's association committees and other interested groups" to bring about necessary changes in legislation. He said he believed such changes may be passed in the next legislature.

Morris added that the coroner must investigate all deaths that might be the result of crime, self-inflicted or accidental. "Only by complete control of his duties in office can the coroner properly protect the rights of the public," Morris said.

Wishes of Family
"At all times, of course, when there is a death coming under the jurisdiction of the coroner's office, the wishes of the family are paramount as to which mortuary will have charge of the memorial services," he added.

Morris is married, and they have three children. One son, Steve, is a senior at Medford high school; another, Brad, is a University of Oregon student, and their daughter, Judy, works for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company in Sacramento, Calif.

Many Children Drown as School Bus Leaves Road

12 Others Saved in Kentucky Tragedy

Prestonsburg, Ky. — A loaded school bus plummeted over a 50-foot bluff into the Big Sandy river today. Eighteen to 24 children and the driver apparently were killed or drowned.

Twelve children escaped from the bus and were rescued.

The tragedy occurred on U.S. 23 about three miles south of here when bus driver John Derossett, 22, tried to avoid an automobile wrecker and a half-ton truck which had skidded into a ditch on the side of the road.

Kentucky State Trooper Bill Lycan said the school bus glanced off the left rear corner of the wrecker and careened across the highway, striking the shoulder of the road and a parked car.

Teeters, Then Falls
The bus teetered sickeningly on the edge of the bluff for a moment, then rolled over and down into the Big Sandy, swollen some 20 feet above normal stage by recent heavy rains.

Lycan said the bus did not sink immediately, and some of the students escaped through the emergency door, which Derossett apparently was able to open.

Derossett and Donald Horn, driver of the wrecker, got on top of the bus and helped several children get out until the bus sank out of sight in the swirling water.

23 Believed Dead
James Green, chairman of the Floyd county school board said he believed 23 children and the driver were dead.

Prestonsburg High School Principal James B. Volen issued a list of 16 high school and four grade school children unaccounted for and believed to have been on the bus.

It was possible that some may have missed the bus, and also possible that others not listed were on it.

The river was being dragged and diving equipment was sent to the scene, but the bus had not been located several hours after the accident.

Cottage Raid

Scuffle by Police

Cottage Grove — Sheriff's raid on a local cardroom Thursday night resulted in a scuffle between a deputy sheriff and an assistant police chief and in parking tickets being placed—for a time—on sheriff's cars.

Lane County Sheriff Ed Elder said he and nine deputies took part in the raid on the cardroom and arrested four persons. He said three deputies had been inside the establishment as under-cover agents.

Elder said the scuffle took place between Charles Roberts, assistant police chief here, and Deputy Sheriff Wayne Dillon.

Elder said Dillon was guarding the entrance to the cardroom to prevent anyone from leaving or entering when Roberts came up and tried to enter. He said the deputy tried to block the entrance with his night stick and that a brief scuffle occurred.

Elder said Roberts told him he was going to place tickets on the sheriff's cars which were doubleparked outside.

Elder said he told him to go ahead with what he thought was his duty in the matter and that the tickets were placed on the cars. Later, the sheriff said, Roberts approached him and said he was voiding the tickets.
