Death of Russian Guard at Brussels Fair Site Mystery

Brussels — Belgian police and the Soviet embassy joined today to enshroud in mystery the death of a Russian guard at the Soviet pavilion of the Brussels World Fair.

Persistent reports said two Russian guards duelled with guns and that one was killed and the other wounded. The Soviet embassy ascribed the death to a "heart attack and Belgian police were silent.

Treated for Gunshot—The "admitted" book at the Brugmann hospital here shows a Russian named Nicolai Solotowski was treated for a gunshot wound in the head on Tuesday, April 1. He died a few hours after being admitted to the hospital.

A Russian embassy spokesman said, "There is no mystery. One of our engineers died from a heart attack... the hospital records are pure invention."

But a hospital doctor who refused to give his name "because the police told me not to talk about it" said he treated two patients for gunshot wounds between 1 a.m. and 3 a.m. on April 1.

Bullet Removed—The first patient had a bullet in his head. The second, who arrived an hour later in the escort of Russian consular officials had a bullet in his hand.

The doctor who said he removed this bullet added, "The bullets were from different guns. I thought there had been a duel."

Told about the Russian embassy denial the doctor said, "I know what a bullet wound looks like and also what a bullet looks like. Solotowski was wounded by a bullet."

Market Responds To Economic Situation

New York — The stock market responded to brighter economic skies today with its first advance in two weeks.

The rise was a bit ragged, but gains outnumbered declines in most of the major groups. Oils, metals and specialties provided the spark for the market's first advance in the past 10 sessions.

Indications that the rise in unemployment is leveling off and reports that auto sales perked up late last month helped to buoy the market.

Individual corporate developments explained the fluctuations in a number of issues. Lorillard lost a major fraction on disappointment over first quarter earnings. Autos firmed on the improved sales picture.

Medford area residents are warned to stay out of the Camp White rifle range area on Sunday, April 13, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. because live ammunition will be used, according to National Guard Capt. F. J. Fagone, range officer.

He said Headquarters company and Company A of Medford with Company C of Grants Pass will be using the ranges in the second of two scheduled Sunday drills. The public is invited to view the firing but must check with Capt. Fagone before entering the range area.

Road Guards will be stationed at the entrance to each range, he said. A safe zone has been established on Cory rd. to the west side of Antelope rd. in the northeast, entering northward from Foot-hills rd., he added.

Residents are warned to stay out of the wooded area to the east of the ranges. About 160 National Guard troops will take part in the firing, he said.
