

New Spring Clothes Reveal Results of a Good Winter

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Women's Editor

New York — One trouble with new spring clothes. They display the fact that more energy with a few extra pounds. If your grocer calls your attention to all the new dietetic foods on display.

If the seats in buses seem small. If you tell yourself "everybody loves a fat person."

If you've been interested enough to read all the way to here.

The speaker has traveled in Africa, Australia, Europe, Japan, Pakistan and India and the Middle East as well as other interesting parts of the world.

Mr. Cummings will be the Siskiyou club's last speaker for this season.

Thirty Delegates Plan to Attend PTA Convention

More than 30 delegates from Jackson County Parent-Teacher associations are planning to attend the annual convention of the Oregon Congress of Parents and Teachers. The meeting will be held April 21-23 in Bend, Ore.

Mrs. Owen Kunkel, Medford, president of the Jackson County Council of Parent-Teacher associations will attend a meeting of the Oregon Congress board of managers to be held April 21, and the first general session will be held that evening.

Delegates from Jackson county will travel by chartered bus leaving Medford the morning of April 21. Reservations are to be made with Mrs. John Hartsock, Spring 2-6637, or Mrs. Kunkel, Spring 2-5979.

Mrs. E. J. Van Landuyt, junior vice-president of Region 6 and general chairman for the convention, states that PTA members in and near Bend have been working for months to make the convention one of comfort and convenience for the delegates. It is stated that there will be adequate housing for all delegates. Delegates without cars will be housed at motels with walking distance of convention headquarters and workshops; courtesy cars and busses will take delegates to and from the high school auditorium for general sessions and the banquet.

Seven regional luncheons will be served Tuesday, and the banquet that evening.

Group to Attend District Session

Talent—A group of Talent Garden club members plan to attend the spring meeting of Siskiyou district, Oregon Federation of Garden clubs. It will be held at Rogue River April 30.

The district session was announced at the last meeting of the club, held at the home of Miss Bertha Hayman. Mrs. Ormy Giddard was co-hostess.

Mrs. C. S. Barrett, Mrs. Glen Mosser and Mrs. Gerald Schmelzer were named to the nominating committee. The club voted to make corsages for the annual installation of officers of Talent Parent-Teacher association and May 21 was set as the date of the annual flower show. Chairman for the show will be Mrs. Charles O. Long, with Mrs. Chester Zediker, Mrs. Gilbert Hill and Mrs. E. G. Taylor on the committee.

Several members volunteered to take charge of planting the grounds of the recently remodeled City hall.

Salem—Two Medford students are spending this week on tour with the Willamette university a cappella choir. They are Miss Sonja Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Peterson, 2574 Jacksonville highway, and Greg Milnes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Milnes, 15 North Groveland avenue.

The choir members are giving up their entire spring vacation for the tour. The choir left Salem April 4 and will spend 11 days giving 20 concerts. Professor Donald M. Glickerl directs the group.

Gardeners to Hold Show on Saturday

Rogue River — "Showers With Flowers," is the theme of the eleventh annual flower show of Rogue River Garden club to be held Saturday, April 12, in the Live Oak Grange hall, Rogue River, from 2 until 9 p.m.

Entries may be placed Friday between 4 and 6 p.m. and Saturday, between 7:30 and 10:00 a.m.

An apron booth is planned and vegetables and flower plants grown by members will be sold.

Tea will be served from 2 until 4 p.m.

New for evening; long black satin gloves, with black satin evening slippers for a real siren look.

Club Announces Final Speaker

Ashland—Philip Cummings will speak for the next meeting of Siskiyou Knife and Fork club, to be held Friday, April 18, at the Plaza cafe in Ashland. Mr. Cummings is described as a veteran traveler, adventurer, geographer and observer of world conditions. His talk in Ashland will be on the most glamorous and romantic spots he has visited during his travels.

The speaker has traveled in Africa, Australia, Europe, Japan, Pakistan and India and the Middle East as well as other interesting parts of the world.

Mr. Cummings will be the Siskiyou club's last speaker for this season.

Potpourri

The past winter in Washington, D.C., was strenuous, from the standpoint of both the winter and social life, but interesting and exciting, according to Priscilla Porter, wife of Congressman Charles O. Porter from Oregon. Knowing that southern Oregon women are interested in what goes on in the nation's capital, Potpourri asked Mrs. Porter to report on the family's activities in recent months.

"We tried to take things easy in November and December," she wrote, "hoping to rest up before the session began in January. Charlie, of course, was busy at the office every day, but he did get home almost every evening.

"The one big excitement, for me at least, was our trip to Honduras just before Christmas, as personal guests of the new Honduran president. What a beautiful country Honduras is! We spent one day of our short stay seeing the Mayan ruins at Copan, a tiny village about 120 miles north of Tegucigalpa, the capital. We had to fly in, as there are no roads. We had a native lunch at a small inn in the village.

"The one mishap was having our luggage stay in Mexico City, then go on to Panama and finally catch up with us a day late. We went to a formal dinner party in our wrinkled traveling clothes, and borrowed slacks, etc., from our hosts for our sightseeing trip. If the children had been with us, or if it hadn't been so near Christmas, we would have been tempted to stay for awhile. As it was, we were gone five days and returned December 23rd to find the boys had put up and decorated our tree all on their own. And very pretty it was.

"New Year's Eve seemed to be the start for us of the social whirl. We went to a gala reception given by Senor Horacio Aguirre, publisher of the Spanish-American paper 'The Americas Daily,' at his beautiful home in the Spring Valley section where many notables, including the Vice-President, live. From there we went to two other gay parties. We managed to get home soon after midnight because Don, our 13-year-old, was our baby-sitter.

"The first big event of 1958 I attended was the President's delivery of his message to Congress on January 6. From my seat in the gallery of the House of Representatives, I saw the Senators, the members of the Supreme Court, the Ambassadors from foreign lands, and the Cabinet members file in. It was fun to see how many of these I could recognize. I had an excellent view of Mrs. Eisenhower, who looked lovely in blue. Across from me I also spotted Mrs. Cafritz, whom I have never met. She supposedly vies with Mrs. Perle Mesta for the 'Hostess' title of Washington.

"One of the most 'fun' times we had was at the CBS-TV Affiliates dinner, where we were guests of Bill Smullin, one of the owners of your TV station in Medford and his charming wife. We also enjoyed seeing Jerry Poulos, manager of KBES-TV. It was an evening of pure enjoyment with Art Linkletter, Phil Silvers, Danny Thomas and Patti Page entertaining a large group of Congressmen and Senators and their wives.

"Another high spot was the Oregon State society dinner where we saw many friends and won a prize of one case of maraschino cherries. If you know of a recipe which would help us use up a case of maraschino cherries, I'd be most grateful.

"These are the three evening affairs of the many we have attended that stand out right now.

"During the daytime I'm busy with the children and the house. I spent many hours making living room and dining room draperies and bathroom curtains by hand! Now, I'm trying to hurry and finish curtains for Don's room before it is time to move again! This is a wonderful opportunity to watch television with a clear conscience.

"I've joined the Women's National Democratic club which has luncheons every Monday, with a speaker—an ambassador or a member of Congress. These programs are interesting and I wish I could manage to attend them all.

"The Radcliffe club of Washington meets once a month. A recent meeting was held at the Japanese Embassy where we heard about life in Japan today. On March 18 we met in the Old House Office building and heard Representatives Stewart Udall and Peter Frelinghuysen debate federal aid to education. Both have five children and, like all parents, are concerned with this problem.

"Then the 85th Congressional Wives club is always fun. The members are wives of men elected to the 85th Congress. We meet once a month at various places of interest. One meeting was at the National Gallery of Art. Another included luncheon at the Pentagon with a tour of the Pentagon afterwards.

"The Democratic Congressional Wives forum also meets once a month with a workshop before lunch.

"I try to limit my day-time social activities to one a week, but this is not always possible. Recently I went to Mrs. Eisenhower's tea for Congressional wives. She received us in the Green Room and she was dressed in a beautiful green dress. She is very gracious and genuine.

"I have found time to do a few other things. The most recent was taking a first aid course. I haven't yet decided what my next project will be. There are so many things to do.

"And then there is trying to repay all our social obligations. We both like to have friends in but Charlie has so many functions he must attend, we don't have much opportunity for this. However, one Saturday night not long ago, we had the Costa Rican ambassador, Gonzalo Facio, and his wife, our next door neighbors—he is city planner for the Pan-American Union—and other friends for dinner.

"Snow started falling in the morning, but I was too busy to notice much. Charlie, however, and Don went out late in the afternoon to shovel the walk—a half hour later it needed shoveling again and again. At 6:30 guests-to-be started calling to see if it was going to be possible to come at all—Charlie convinced them all it would be all right.

"It took the ambassador one and one-half hours to get to our house, usually a ride of 20 minutes at the most even in rush hour. They all seemed to enjoy themselves, for they stayed quite late, and then it became even later for two of the cars had to be pushed out of the drifts that had piled up while we ate and talked. It was the worst snow storm in thirty years! Fortunately after they finally got off, they were able to make it home without further difficulties.

"On week ends we try to concentrate on the children. Saturdays Charlie takes the children on a jaunt and on Sundays we go to church and then do some sight-seeing. The Washington Monument is a favorite and the boys climbed the many steps the last time. Another favorite spot is the zoo, but we are waiting for some warm weather for that.

"How do I like Washington? I like it very much. I miss our friends, our nice home in Oregon and the mild, fresh Oregon weather. And Charlie and I both dislike the traffic in big cities. But it is exciting to live in our great capital city and meet, formally and informally, many of the men and women who are making and carrying out the policies of our government. Besides, Charlie told me when I first met him 21 years ago that this was the aim of his life—to represent Oregon in the Congress of the United States. It's strenuous but he enjoys it and so do I."—O.S.

Violet Legend Revived on Card

Kansas City, Mo. — "Living with the Blessed Son of God," says the legend on the card.

The legend of the violet card is one of a vastly expanded variety of religious Easter greetings this year, according to a spokesman for a greeting card firm. Other Easter greetings offer prayers and reprint quotations and passages from the Bible.

But when He reached the violet, Jesus paused and smiled upon it—making the violet realize that its tiny stature made it no less in His eyes.

"And, to this day, all violets bow their faces toward the sod, remembering that meet-

Officers Elected For Fellowship; Announce Dinner

Mrs. Warren Fairbanks was elected president of Christian Women's fellowship of First Christian church at the last meeting. Others named to office were Mrs. Donald House, vice-president; Mrs. C. C. Peterson, recording secretary; Mrs. Frank S. Chapman, corresponding secretary and publicity chairman; Mrs. Floyd Putman, J. P. Clark, Ashland, district secretary, announced a district convention to be held at Grants Pass April 24 beginning at 10 a.m. Luncheon will be served at noon by the hostess group and a covered dish dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. Medford women attending are asked to take either salads or desserts for the dinner.

It was announced that the church library is being re-catalogued, and members having books out were asked to return them as soon as possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Fairbanks and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lewis have donated two lace tablecloths to the church for use at church functions.

Friday, April 11, Miss Ruth Peterson, missionary from Africa, will speak at a covered dish dinner to be held at 6:30 p.m. at the church and open to members of the congregation and their friends.

Orchestra Choir To Give Requiem

Portland — The Portland Symphony orchestra and the Portland Symphonic choir will join forces April 18 at the public auditorium for the choral production, Verdi's "Requiem," under the baton of Theodore Bloomfield. Director for the choir is C. Robert Zimmerman.

Four guest soloists, termed "the finest quartet of artists ever heard in Portland" by Bloomfield, will take lead parts: Frances Yeend of Portland, soprano with the New York City Opera company; Katherine Hilgenberg, mezzo-soprano with the San Francisco Opera company; Jon Crain, tenor with the Metropolitan Opera, and Yi-Kwei Sze, bass with New York City Opera.

Composer Verdi's operatic background will give an idea of the production's dramatic qualities, for those who have not heard the "Requiem." The work is one of the favorite choral productions of the world.

Tickets for the event are on sale at the J. K. Gill box office.

Masonic Lodge To Hear Speaker

Cascade Masonic lodge of Shady Cove will hear Robert Dames speak Friday, April 11 on the history, function, and help of the circuit court as contrasted with the trial of Christ. The meeting will start at 8 p.m. Glenn Burrill is master of the lodge.

Monday, April 14, Mr. Dames will speak on the same topic to Talisman lodge, Knights of Pythias. In his talk Mr. Dames tries to illustrate the errors, from a lawyer's viewpoint, that were made during Christ's trial, that would in the courts of today have given Him a right to appeal to a higher court.

Bed linens last longer if allowed to rest between use periods, says American Institute of Laundering. The institute recommends putting your laundered sheets at the bottom of the linen shelf, and using only those from the top.
