Rail Issues Pull Stock List Higher

New York — Railroad issues got up a good head of steam late today to pull the stock market into irregularly higher ground. Trading was moderate.

Aircraft met support late in the session, which helped the market move cautiously most of the day, but when buying came into the rails it spilled over into some of the other groups.

Gains of around a point or more appeared in Baltimore & Ohio and Southern Railway. A number in this group added major fractions. Douglas rose more than a point in a firm aircraft group.
