

$320 Investment in 1908 Turns Into Big National Press Club

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Correspondent
Washington—The 50th anniversary of the $320 investment that produced a unique American institution, the National Press Club, was celebrated in the spring of 1908 by 32 Washington newspapermen who chipped in $10 each to found the National Press Club.

The club began life in two rented rooms above a jewelry store. Today it owns the tallest office building in downtown Washington, the National Press Building, and occupies handsome quarters on its top floor.

The original purpose of the Press Club was to provide a place where working newspapermen could get together to eat, drink and talk shop. It still serves that purpose, but it is now far more than a social club. It has become a world-famous forum before which leaders of America and other nations speak, and in which correspondents from 20 countries exchange ideas and ask questions.

The club now has 4,600 dues-paying members, of whom 1,000 are active newspapermen. The rest are former reporters or "news sources." Included in this category are loyal members Harry S. Truman and Herbert Hoover.

Some Presidents
Presidents Woodrow Wilson, William Howard Taft, Warren G. Harding, Calvin Coolidge and Franklin D. Roosevelt were members during their lifetimes.

President Eisenhower has never enrolled, but has displayed an interest in the club's activities and was invited to the golden anniversary banquet which the club will hold Saturday night.

"VIPs" who come to Washington—as visitors or as new occupants of high government posts—are promptly invited to address the Press Club. Virtually all of them accept.

Despite the prestige it has acquired over the years, and the role it plays in national affairs, the club has never taken itself quite as seriously as some politicians take it.

Members are barred from membership in the club, and even when squired by husbands or boy friends, they are restricted to certain areas of the club, such as the east lounge. They may enter the main dining room for dinner, but not for lunch. No female foot is permitted inside the oak-paneled men's bar, which is famed as the most fertile spawning ground of rumors in Washington, or in the card room where a well-nigh perpetual poker game is in progress.

The Traditions
Other traditions of the club reflect the peculiar foibles of newspapermen, including their fervent distrust of one another's credit and their irreverence toward authority. No member is allowed to charge anything at any time and no one may cash a check larger than $20. Officers of the club are expected to wear their mantles lightly. For example: The "General Advisory Committee" composed of past presidents is enjoined by custom never to meet except in extreme emergency and "never to offer advice under any circumstances."

At present, all of the rents

Peron Welcome To Stay
In Dominican Republic
Ciudad Trujillo—The Dominican Republic, which broke relations with Argentina Thursday, has announced that ex-President Juan D. Peron is welcome to stay in this country as long as he likes.

A government statement said Peron's Dominican visa has been extended indefinitely because Argentine government interference has made it impossible for him to get permission to go elsewhere.

from the 1,000 offices in the National Press Building must go to retire the debt on the building. The club gets nothing from its valuable real estate at the corner of 14th and F sts., two blocks from the White House, except free occupancy of its own 13th floor quarters. But when the debt is retired, the club will begin to reap a nice income from rents.

Already it looks like a very good $320 investment.

The Hollywood Scene

By HAZEL JOHNSON
United Press Writer

Hollywood—As far as singer Tony Bennett is concerned it'll be a long, cool day before he gets a "nose job" to put him in the running as a Hollywood movie actor.

If it weren't for this bit of stubbornness it might well be the smooth-voiced Bennett instead of Elvis Presley cast as the star of "King Creole."

The script was known as "A Stone for Danny Fisher" when Bennett was suggested as the lead.

"But you'll never be a matinee idol unless you have some plastic surgery on your nose," the 31-year-old singer was told.

Bennett, meanwhile, is busy 40 weeks of the year with cafe dates in Las Vegas, Nev., Florida, New York, Chicago, Reno and Los Angeles.
