

Ex-Seal, Oaks Booster to Root At San Francisco Giant Opener

By SCOTT BAILLIE

United Press Sports Writer
San Francisco — (AP) — James (Foghorn) Murphy, baseball's leatherlunged man on a horse, is back in town to help usher in the new era which opens here Tuesday when the Giants and Dodgers meet as West Coast teams.

And if you never heard of Foghorn Murphy, it's a sure tipoff that you grew up east of Oakland.

For 10 years—1907 to 1917—Murphy rode on horseback up and down San Francisco's Market street bellowing announcements of forthcoming ball games.

When the Seals were out of town, he would take the ferry over to Oakland where another horse awaited him—and stir up echoes about the oaks in that city's downtown area.

Murphy, a florid-faced 68, still has a powerful set of pipes and will holler in a parade here Monday when the Giants are given a civic welcome. Parade chairman Andy Lerios invited him up from Los Angeles. But being of a younger generation, Lerios couldn't quite place the name either when he first heard it.

Murphy is a colorful sort who doesn't feel a tinge of regret over the fact that the Seals and Oaks he once yelled about no longer exist.

"The coast made a better deal by getting the majors," declared Murphy who has worked a gold miner sold liquor and dabbled in real estate since those less sophisticated days on Market street.

A master of malapropos, the Foghorn is not opposed to seeing baseball expand but he isn't so excited about television.

"That's a flaw in the ointment," asserts Murphy who lists "Snootie Durante" as among his close friends. "Too many spectators are staying home and that takes a lot of color out of the game."

Murphy always wore a baseball suit and used a megaphone when riding about San Francisco or Oakland. He claims he got his nickname from Jack London, the famed author.

"One day it was so foggy out on Market street that a man came up to me and said, 'I hear you but can't see you. What's your name?' I told him and he said 'from now on it is Foghorn Murphy.' He was London.

After his stint on the horse, Murphy would go out to the park as the game's announcer. There was no public address system then and he roared the batteries and lineup changes for the field.

He remembers the fog was so dense one day in the Seals' old recreation park that the game was called because the second baseman had disappeared in mist.

"Then a couple of days later, Pete Dailey of the Los Angeles Angels built a fire in centerfield so he could find it," Murphy insists.

The Foghorn thinks it might be a good stunt even now if a ballplayer or umpire rode down Market street again and announced the game.

"They get pretty well paid now for only a couple of hours work," he says.

Comets, Grizzlies Split in Baseball

Crater's Comets won the important game of a double-bill Friday to knot with Ashland in the Southern Oregon conference baseball standings.

They defeated the Grizzlies 7 to 2 to share second position with that foe. But Ashland whitewashed the Comets 7 to 0 in a six-inning non-league second game to divide honors for the afternoon.

The twinbill was contested at Cheney field, home park for Crater this season and located at the south edge of Medford.

Crater in the counter tangle shoved over runs enough to win in the third inning and got a four-hit hurling performance from Bob Fowler. Ashland's Al McKinnis gave up seven safeties to the Comets. The Grizzlies tabulated both of their markers during their first time at bat on Bill Maurer's double, a walk and an error.

Four in Third
Four runs crossed for the Comets in the third canto. Fowler doubled and Thurman Striplin singled. Dennis sacrificed and there were two bases on balls and a miscue in the canto. Wayne Allen tripled and scooted across the plate on Fowler's groundout in the fifth inning. A hit batter and safeties by Pfaff, Striplin and Allen accounted for two more in the sixth.

Fowler fanned seven batters, walked two and hit two while McKinnis whiffed six, gave five bases on balls and struck one batter with a toss. Striple and Allen each had two hits for the Comets.

Pete Stemple, pitching the second game, shut out Crater with a three hitter. He struck out six, walked three and hit one. Comet tosser Bill Anhorn whiffed 12 in a four hit job. He gave five free trips to bases.

Ashland gained five of its runs in the sixth. Leo Daniels, Pat Simpson and Harris got hits. There was a walk, a hit batter, two misplays and three stolen bases. Harris had two hits for the Grizzlies. Jerry Korbol had two of the Comet bingles and Fowler the other. Crater got a man to third base in the third inning and had one man on first at the same time.

Oregon Tech Downs Raider Scantclads

Ashland — Defending Oregon Collegiate conference champion Oregon Tech romped to an 80-51 victory over Southern Oregon college in a dual track meet Friday afternoon on the Raider cinders.

Two records were broken in the meet which has been an annual event for the past four years.

Eldon Francis of SOC broke the javelin mark with a throw of 193 feet 4 inches. Former record, set last year by Gary Lewis of SOC was 192 feet 5 inches.

Jerry Fasteen of Oregon Tech set a new shotput standard of 45 feet 6 inches. The old record was set in 1956 by Wilson of Oregon Tech. It was 42 feet 7 inches.

The javelin was the outstanding event of the day for the Raiders who swept all three places. Francis in winning was followed by Gordon Clayton who threw over 184 feet and third was Dick Johnson with a toss well over 170 feet.

Oregon Tech swept only one event in winning the meet when they took all three places in the low hurdles, led by George Hocevar in 26.5.

Oregon Tech had 10 first places and the Red Raiders managed to win five, the javelin, high jump, 880-yard run, pole vault and the discus.

The Raiders did not have a single double winner but Oregon Tech had three. Bob Brown won honors in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, George Pappin nabbed the mile and two-mile and Hocevar took both the low and high hurdles.

Hocevar was the top individual point getter, picking up a second in the 220 in addition to his two firsts for a total of 13 points for the meet.

Ron Maurer of the Raiders ran the 100 for the first time this year and took a second. Clarence Baker, the top Raider sprinter, is still sidelined with a sore muscle. Maurer is a regular starter on the Raider baseball squad and had not worked out for track this year.

Next Saturday the Raiders travel to McMinnville to meet the strong Linfield college team.

Fish Lake Bag Limit Change Hearing Slated

Portland — A hearing to consider changing the bag limit for trout at Fish Lake in Jackson county will be held at 10 a.m., April 25, in the state game commission office at 1634 Southwest Alder st. here.

Raise in bag limit is proposed because the game commission plans to treat the lake next fall to rid it of trash fish. The lake has become reinfested with roach since 1951 when the lake was previously rehabilitated. Some of the trash fish took refuge in spring holes of the lake at that time.

New techniques will be used in an effort to kill all the fish in the lake. In riding the lake of roach it is necessary also to destroy the existing trout. The lake will be restocked with trout.
