Bengtson Hopeful For Vet Hospital At Camp White

O. H. Bengtson, a Medford attorney and GOP candidate for state representative, today reviewed some of the history of Camp White as a domiciliary. He said he is hopeful that a hospital can be authorized there, despite the apparent resistance of the Veterans Administration.

Bengtson recalled he was the state legislator who in 1947 "sponsored and successfully steered" a bill authorizing the state to accept the facilities from the federal government for the sum of $1.

"The facilities could well have been employed by the state for many purposes and saved the taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars for buildings which have been built for state use since," Bengtson charged.

When the property was lost to the state, through a governor's veto, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars showed interest in urging that the hospital be saved for a domiciliary and hospital for veterans, opposition from the Veterans Administration was met immediately, he said.

"It was predicted no amount of effort could save the facilities from being torn down," according to Bengtson. What finally saved the hospital, he declared, was testimony presented before the senate committee considering a bill to make Camp White hospital a domiciliary. Bengtson was among those who testified.

He said today that getting a hospital established at Camp White "is no more impossible than it was to obtain a domiciliary," and that "the time has come to gather facts and figures" to present in a fight for the hospital.

PGE-Pelton Contract Signed

Portland —(AP)— Bonneville Power Administration today announced completion of a long-term contract with Portland General Electric for wheeling power from Pelton dam on the Deschutes river to Portland over government power lines.

Administrator William Pearl of BPA and Frank M. Warren Jr., president of PGE, said in a joint announcement that the agreement would add 120,000 kilowatts of peaking capacity power to the Northwest Power Pool.

The agreement calls for Pelton power to flow through Bonneville's high voltage grid at its Redmond substation over the 230,000-volt Redmond-Round Butte transmission line. That line connects with the PGE transmission line built from Pelton to Round Butte. Bonneville then agrees to deliver an equivalent amount of power into the PGE system in the Portland area.

BPA will collect a transmission charge of about $235,000 from the private utility.

Oregon To Get More Road Funds

Salem —(AP)— Deputy State Highway Engineer Forrest Cooper said today that about $10 million would be added to Oregon's highway program for the first of this year and through 1959 as a result of President Eisenhower's signing of the $1,800,000,000 highway bill Wednesday.

Cooper said highway officials believed they would be able to qualify enough projects and meet federal standards so that all of the crash program money would be made available to Oregon. The program requires that contracts be let by the end of December, 1958, and projects completed by the end of December, 1959.

Tentative projects will be submitted to the State Highway Commission meeting in Portland May 8 and 9. It is possible that bids for some of the projects could be called for then, Cooper said.

The money will be scattered over the state to do as much good as possible, Cooper said. Most of it will go into primary, secondary and urban highways with the federal government putting up two-thirds and the state one-third of the cost.
